Not sure if this should be in tech help, but I joined the renarchive server the other day and when the game loaded, everyone was standing still. I ran around and shot down an enemy and still no one was moving. Then I noticed that people were saying to kick me. Next thing I knew I was kicked.

I wasn't cheating or at least not planning on it. What is the issue here? I got on other servers and it worked fine there.

Maybe you weren't getting enough kbps from the server? That might have been the reason for everyone not moving and such. They must've thought you were using some kind of lag exploit.

not moving as in running into walls constantly, or just standing still next to PTs?

Everyone was just standing still as if they all went away from keyboard, and I'm not sure what "PTs" are.

My guess is it was a kbps issue or at least a lag issue. From now on I use the '~' 'fps' command. I also changed the connection speed option from Auto to what I use. I think it helped slightly. My average kbps is around 110.

The worst part is that whenever I try entering that server it says I'm banned. Do bans go away after a period of time, or is there something I have to do to be unbanned?
