You want to setup a FTP server I presume ? Then SmartFtp isn't what you're looking for.
You could take a look at the Filezilla FTP server That's one of the easiest servers to install and configure and works nice

You could just use the built-in FPT of Windows XP Pro assuming your on PRO. There's alot of tutorials on the web.

Cause i want to let a freind edit/add/del things in my server and instead of giving him access to the box, i could just setup a FTP for him.

Then you really should take a look to the Filezilla server, since it's rather easy to configure and free. Personally i think it's the best ftp server I've tried for windows.
