For some reason since installing Renguard my mouse wheel refuses to work in Renegade. This is a pain in the ass switching weapons and sniping with regular keys. Does anyone have a solution for this?

That's quite interesting, could you post a screenshot of how your key configuration looks like? It should be in-game under options and configuration

I had a problem with this. I never could fix it, except by circumstance when I had to reinstall. After that, it worked again.

Hmmmm did you also install the core patches? It could be that the keys-feature screwed that?

Read complete instructions before you start.
Uninstall the mouse hardware and reboot. In Win XP go to control panel > system > in system properties go to hardware tab > device manager > mice and other pointing devices. Right click and select uninstall > ok > yes to reboot. Windows should start the device manager on boot up and reload the drivers from service pack 2.
If not, then you're screwed. No, make a restore point first, then uninstall the drivers. If you installed any drivers after installing SP2 you can simply roll back the drivers. Use the same path as above to mice and other pointing devices. Right click and choose roll back drivers.
If you use GNU/Linux, disregard everything you see here.

Also, before you begin set the msconfig settings to normal start up. Win key + R > msconfig > ok

If nothing works, just use the Enter button. Hope that helps.
