The fact that you need to ask dosn't suprise me, but I have to agree it is lame.

I doubt it's possiblity, since I don't think aircraft guns can aim too high upwards, but there's also missiles, and the possibility of an infantryman inside some terrain feature. And, of course, it's a glitch and an exploit, which automatically makes it lame.

That was my assesment after the ban him thread was completely ignored, either way it's pretty funny - good opportunity to abuse the mods if they are acting like retards. But then again we probably have some really "special" person here who gets his jollies getting flamed, like to help him along.

He's talking about in those crazy ctf servers and all that nonsense where you can get flying characters.

What do you mean? Can you post screen shots? From different spots, and different maps.

It's not just "cheep" (or if you use English, cheap), it's also bug abusing, and if I see anyone doing it on any server I moderate they will be banned without warning. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to work out it's not supposed to be like that...

That area is never meant to be flown through.
Bug abusing = cheap tactic = ban excuse
