aircraftkiller i want to ask you 2 question:
1. why do you allways keep saying it's Nod not NOD
2. were does Nod stand for anyway (gdi=global defence initiation but Nod?)

Remember, it's GDI, not gdi.

Never knew GDI means "global defence initiation but Nod?"? I always thourght it meant "Global Defence Initiative"

The letters "NOD" means it is an acronym like it should be "N.O.D", but, "NOD" doesn't mean anything therefore it is not an acronym and is not spelt "NOD", it is spelt "Nod". Nod doesn't have the capital "O" and "D" which makes it a word, not an acronym.

Yup. Nod is an actual word, and it's original reference (to my knowledge) is in the Book of Genesis when it talks about Cain (not Kane) being exhiled into the Land of Nod.

You fail to notice that everything else on that bookcover is capitalized as well, and it's a title on a bookcover, where things are very often written in allcaps, rendering the point moot.

The Land of Nod is a place mentioned in Genesis. Wikipedia for the win:

Genesis 415. And the Lord said unto him, Therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold. And the Lord set a mark upon Cain, lest any finding him should kill him. 16. And Cain went out from the presence of the Lord, and dwelt in the land of Nod, on the east of Eden.

Didn't I already state that it's in the Book of Genesis? I hear an echo.

Sorry.

But more information is always good, right? I didn't mean to echo you, but to confirm what you said.

It's always good to have more information, but those lazy pricks can read it for themselves.

You're talking about C&C fans here...

Also, "Nod" is deeper than just the C&C series, so it's not just correcting the name of a game series team.

They also used the Second Verse in Red Alert at the end of the Soviet campaign. So that confirms they meant that to be used as the spelling.

I think it is kind of strange that they decided to change "Cain" to "Kane." I guess it must look cooler or something. Meh.

I guess it's because names differ from time and place.
Take my name:
Now a days, in the Netherlands it's: Willem in Englisch it would be: William
Back in history it would be: Wilhelmus

Heh.

My current callsign/nick/alias/etc: T.J.
My German (original) name: Richard.
My name adapted to Englisch: ...Dick.

Names suck after they're a century old.

PS: Dutch and Deutch are very similar, I've noticed.

Aircraftkiller, I want to ask you two questions:
1. Why do you always keep saying "It's 'Nod', not 'NOD'"?
2. What does "Nod" stand for anyway? (For example, GDI means "Global Defense Initiative.)
It's actually "the Brotherhood of Nod" if you want to get technical. "Nod" is just the shorthand version, much like the Global Defense Initiative's shorthand version is "GDI".
Tying in with the above, "Nod" is not an acronym. It is just simply a word; "Nod". Why "Nod" instead of the "BoN," I don't know. Those answers more than likely lie in the original cast and crew of Command & Conquer: Tiberian Dawn.
If memory serves me right, Aircraftkiller is far too busy to answer your inqueries, or anyone else's...especially ones that lack the knowledge which is readily available elsewhere. everywhere online. But this, of course, is just my opinion.
Also...

He's been doing it for years and years, I'd say he does it out of habit now more than anything.
