I had this colt 911 or something along the lines of that installed and it got accidentally deleted. It was on PlanetCnc but now it's nowhere to be seen. I do remember on the file description that it was the model used in the early versions of Renalert.

So I'm wondering if anyone here has that replacement for me to have or a better replacement for the pistol.

I know of a beretta replacement, I have to find to site.

I also have the colt 911 you're talking about, I have to dig it off one of my various backup discs.

I'll get them tomorrow.

Speaking of, did the beta version of the pistol ever reach surface?

As you can see, the final version just has the metal rim left out. It's texturing is still included in the current pistol skin.

bumpz...

im sure some of the people around here contributed to beta testing. I was still wearing my renegade diapers back then...

Could anyone check it out, and if possible release it to the community?

You can find the model in the animation for that movie, then you just need ot position it over the original pistole and delete the old one, im too busy to do it but i know theres lots of people here that know how to do it.

yeah, even though it serves no scientific purpose. it only makes the lightweight pistol unnecessarily heavy...

but i just like everything that looks shiny.
