Socrates likes Pepsi, so it is written in the lost scrolls of Harumbashiba. Therefore, he cannot be a Coke-drinker. He was a coke SMOKER. Easy mistake to be made.

I propose that the drink which caused such a foul taste was none other than a concoction between Mountain Dew, Pepto-Bismol, and NyQuil. It was a crazy night, and he was down on his luck. I don't blame him for his actions, though.

Drink the old drink or smoke the stuff, it all amounts to the same substance being consumed.

I still say Socrates drank a lethal dose of Pepsi, but I will concede that perhaps the fatal brew was laced with something else. I propose that the additional substance might have been rubbing alcohol or Alice's "drink me" potion.

Actually it wasnt Coke or Pepsi, RC Cola did a good job however of creating the conspiracy and getting the attention away from the real truth

The truth comes out at last! But how did you discover this amazingly well-concealed RC Cola conspiracy?

What about eyewitnesses that all claim they've seen the Yeti???

About Socrates-- I think it was PepsiZero that killed him. That thing is disgusting.

All of you are dead wrong. Red Bull is the real killer. That stuff is worse than all your sodas combined.

I'm still with the pepsi-laced-with-something one I'm afraid.

Heh. I tried to derail one of the junk tinfoil-hat conspiracy threads, and it looks like one of the mods weeded out the off-topicness. Oh well.

Tinfoil hats make it worse!

But that's really not relevant. Unless it is.
