So where am I off to? And why am I posting now?

Contrary to my location I am not in Hong Kong. I am in Australia.

I'm very bored at the moment.

There is no point in me telling you any of this.

But I'm very bored.

I finished writing my first book a few months ago. I don't know if it should ever get published. But then again it's only a first...

I'm THAT bored.

Well, why did you move from Hong Kong? What kind of writing is it and what's the topic of the book? Just start talking if you're bored, people will read it and you'll either say something interesting or something for trolls to jump on. You can't lose. lol Paste a chapter of your book in here. I'll tell you if you should publish it or not.

How's your pregnant girlfriend doing?

Oh right, you don't actually have one.

How's your music project going? I haven't heard about that for a long time.

it's going, I have about 15 songs written and a handful recorded (in fact, just finished recording one with a drummer friend last week)... so I guess all I can say is I work on it and work on it.

Got the link again? It was in my bookmarks before I reformatted a few months ago, backed up somewhere.

You still haven't told us much about the book.

Well the reason behind it is, I'm very reluctant to give details because if it does somehow get published in the long run, I don't want bits of it just randomly floating throughout the internet, right...? But a synopsis is alright I guess. It's about 20 months of this guy's life before he leaves his hometown. That's all, very simple.

And to icedog, there's a myspace link somewhere with a few songs around. I'm behind a filter so myspace is blocked and all, but I'll be out of it this weekend so if I still remember to do so then, I'll paste a few links in.
