Do you not understand the idea of USING A SEARCH ENGINE? I mean, seriously. Search for the fucking virus. There'll be plenty of sites with the definition of the virus including the risk that the virus has. IT'S NOT THAT FUCKING HARD.

It's amazing what searching the site of the program that removes the virus does! Of course, that's too difficult. Also, I refuse to paste the link of the virus definition that I found because this idiot can learn to do it on his own.

i know the17doctor and chances are he has google it.

AND GUESS WHAT i googled it to find nothing!

so stop being a fucking troll.

i get this virus all the time, i think it is a downloader so the quicker you get it off your computer the less viruses you will have afterwards.

lol i left it one once and windows wouldn't even boot! not even into safe mode.

You just said that you couldn't find it. How do you then equate yourself to being able to think logically? YOU COULDN'T FIND IT EITHER.

You're welcome...

But if you ask a basic question without trying to find the answer yourself this is the type of response you get.

Doesn't mean it's the best response, but that's the internet for you.

You're still a damn fool. If you want a second opinion, search Google like xptek did. That gives you a second, third, fourth, etc... opinion. Wow, such an idea.

Depends on your motives. If you honestly want to help them you can, if you want to make yourself feel bigger in an internet forum then it has nothing to do with helping anyone.

I wouldn't push somebody to learn to boost my ego.

Even if I was, it would still be helping him because he would see his mistakes--thus making it a smart thing to do.
