You would have to use a software such as FRAPS: http://www.fraps.com/ or GameCam: http://www.planetgamecam.com/. If you want to make it fancy, you could find some video editing software. You may also want to find away to compress those videos as they have extremely basic compression when they're recording video on the fly.

No; I just came up with the name for the thing. I'm not involved with the production of it. Minax just disappeared one day.

That program is okay, but the ones I provided are specifically for games.
