You're an idiot. You fly off the handle as soon as someone disagrees with you. Unplug your computer. Pour any flammable liquid (ie. gasoline) on top of the components. Light a match. Set computer components on fire.

Hey, I'm not the one who steals other peoples hard work and tries to pass it off as my own and then ends up getting banned from the forums for three years.

Get out, faggot.

I have nothing to say to you. After all those lies you gave to me... and the rest of this community...

If i were you, i would start being independant instead of relying on others to help you along. I remeber when i started modelling (which was not too long ago) and look where i am now, i'm in a mod team, i have respect here for helping others, i have done my best to support this game and this community and i like being here. I would recommend starting at the bottom and working your way up, you never know, you might join me and ApocRising when we move our mod to BF, if you're good enough...

ruined your apology, and won't give you forgiveness

If you were going to throw comments like that at people, then you should not have even bothered posting this apology topic. Especially since you just admitted you were in the wrong, and then go off and make more of a fool out of yourself.
