somebody help me please, the other day the old monitor blew and destroyed my graphics card so i put the old graphics card back in, at first rene works perfectly but today i cannot play the game at all. i load the game and reguard comes as normal then config comes up i click ok and the game doesnt load just nothing happens but reguard comes back up as if i have exited the game. recently i have installed these omega drives to see if it will help but it hasnt but it has told me one thing it came up with this 'there was a problem that cuased renegade not to load. This is mostly cuased by a combination of settings that arent supported by your video card. please review your settings or visit <http://www.renforums.com> for support. somebody help me

Try putting the settings all the way to min and restarting your computer. This should fix the config from popping up all the time. If you can play with the min settings move the bar up 1 bit at a time. Restarting the PC each time.

i dont think it has to do with those things, but it probably is them. then again, have you mucked around with a no-cd patch? they always make trouble exactly like that.
