As a result of the BHS/BlackIntel partnership, I am pleased to announce that Cat998 is now a Global Moderator for these forums, joining warranto, icedog90, and Doitle!

Congratulations and welcome!

I guess im the only one on the fence about this. Someone becoming a global moderator just because of joining a team? No voting? No user say?

You guys nominated and voted for him before... just not enough to win before.

BHS runs the forums, and the owners of BHS administrate the forums. It's probably only fair that someone from the group they're in a partnership with have a representative here. I'm not sure if Cat is one of the founders or owners of BlackIntel, but he was probably the most logical choice out of any of them since he was nominated for global moderator anyway.

The same could be said about me or twelve others. However the majority seems to be fine with it, so ill just roll along with it too.

He is one of the 4 admins we have on BlackIntel, and since he's around here the longest, it would make the most sense that he would become mod here.

I haven't seen you being very active lately. Ofcourse it could be that you just read all posts and don't answer them.

Yeah, I post at least once a day. Just depends on where your looking. I only input when i have something to offer or voice an opinion to, no "post count + 1" here.

Oh, so this forum keeps post counts? Now that you mention it... I don't like that forum option, it is so annoying.
