Kickass!

Only thing though: all the songs on that CD (minus the obligatory slow one at the end) sound rather similar.

But the guitar playing is (see first line).

Nah, they don't sound the same to me.

You should look into the older albums. People tell me they're better than Inhuman Rampage.

EXTREME POWER METAL FOR THE WIN!

They've been around for like no time, and they're already bigger than the Devil. Sold their souls for rock & roll? lol

My old roommate and I discovered them on accident (YouTube) last year. He's a guitar player and he was rather speechless for a short time.

He wasted no time in getting 2 or 3 of their albums. I got Rampage for my birthday and that just made it that much better.

You never hear this type of hair thrash metal anymore. Which is a shame because it's the one 80s throwback that doesn't suck. This is like old Metallica and Megadeth and all those other bands who knew how to rock someone's face off.

Song total is at the bottom.

The list on the left is other peoples' libraries (those aren't included in my totals). On a decent day I can get at over 100k songs - don't you just love university halls?

Erm, I don't even know where to begin. I have a massive collection of just about anything (I'm a packrat when it comes to digital music). Mostly rock and metal, though

I'm not even going to attempt to put my list so I'm just going to put down a few notes:

Johnny Cash: well done

Led Zeppelin: well done

AC/DC: well done

DiO: Download "rainbow in the dark"

Judas Priest: well done

Slayer: well done

(z310 you have a nice list)

Anyone that is into 80s hair metal/rock (specifically music like "Poison") you may want to check out the band Kix.

FOREIGN (to U.S.) bands that are good:

Crashdiet (reccommended: Riot In Everyone)

Lordi (reccommended: Hard Rock Hallelujah)

Dream Evil (reccommended: Book of Heavy Metal, Lets make rock, Made of metal)

Personal Favorites:

Skidrow

Motley Crue

Cinderella
