I have fixed several bugs in the hud.ini custom radar code as of 3.0 and now you can have a map texture that rotates so that "up" is always where you are looking. Here is an example to show it off (you will need 3.0 to actually play with the example)

Firstly, here are 2 screenshots that show the hud.ini radar map feature working:

<http://users.tpg.com.au/jfwfreo/ScreenShot26.png> C&C_Walls

<http://users.tpg.com.au/jfwfreo/ScreenShot25.png> C&C_Islands

Here is an example map texture for C&C_Walls to show how they should look and work:

<http://users.tpg.com.au/jfwfreo/walls.tga>

I used the following hud.ini keywords along with this texture to generate the screenshot above:

[General]

EnableRadar=true
BackgroundTexture=hud_main.tga
DrawCompassLine=false
BlipTexture=hud_main.tga
ScrollingRadarMap=true

If anyone with better skills than I wants to come up with some generic instructions on how to make the overhead view map textures (I only got this one working through trial and error), that would be nice.

Basicly, the change required for the map is to attach the script JFW_Change_Radar_Map to an object in the game world or otherwise call the Change_Radar_Map engine call. This is required to tell the code 3 things:

1.How many pixels on your texture 1 unit in the game world is equal to. (which depending on your texture may be a floating point number)
2.What the filename of your texture is and 3.How many pixels away from the center of the texture in the X and Y directions (positive or negative) 0,0 in the game world is

Also, given how many people have commented on the need to attach this script/call this engine call/do this map thing, I am considering (either for 3.0 if I can get it in in time or for 3.1) adding a feature where there is a file named e.g. c&c_walls.ini or something like that (obviously named after the map) and then new code that says "read the radar information from that ini file if its present", that way you wouldnt need to have the script in the map or call the engine call.

I meant to post this last night but IE froze on me and I forgot. But the radar map looks very good, hopefully in the future you will make scripts that will allow it to change from level to level in the same mod package.

And this is what I would have said today. I had tried to get the script "JFW_Change_Radar_Map" before on my maps but it did nothing, but I did not try combining it with the customized "HUD.INI".

Is there a way to turn the radar map feature off on maps that don't have a map (so that its just the normal radar that shows up)?

Couldn't you just spawn an invisible object at 0,0,0 and attatch the script to that object via the servers scripts.dll? That would mean people don't have to edit the maps that already exists if it's possible to do it that way.

Really nice work BTW, thats really really impressive

Assuming that GDI is represented by yellow, and Nod by red... Why are both displayed in your screenshot? Does the n00bstories server display enemies on the radar too? Pretty weird that you can see both teams on your radar, that is assuming what the little yellow dots are GDI units.

I support having both teams visible on radar since if it's not, what's the use of it?

Most games i play show the position of the enemy within a "shroud" (fog of war), any enemys outside this (coverd by 'fog of war') will be hidden, but the enemy is still visible within a range of the unit.

This is my opinion though.

The textures are freely available through the SDK and it's not like I'm using this for commercial use.

Also, did you ask for permission to claim to be the creator of BHS.dll when I made it in the first place?

His work reflects on him etc etc

True, if a picture is worth 1000 words, then a movie is worth... something greater.

Make a movie of the hud please sk, that way this topic will keep popping up for the next 2 years.

I don't get what you're trying to say.. Are you trying to say that because Sir Kane doesn't release his stuff, it's crap? lol

People have made videos while using it, and I don't see any problems or anything wrong with it.. For some people it is hard to see the health and armor bars change but that's about it.

Read bhs.txt included with the scripts and you can learn how to make such an HUD Jonwil's way. You'll probably need to fix a few things in shaderhud.cpp, and you're definately going to want to edit it if you want such things as flashing health/armor bars and a lot of other stuff.. I haven't worked on finishing my HUD in a while so I forgot what all I had to add.

google rentools and then download the scripts from sourceforge, everything you need is in there. I suggest using Visual C++ Express coz free and easy to install.

EDIT2: Well forgot to hide the editor objects but meh.

SK did use w3dview.

Having tried the two W3dViewer is the way to go because there is no work involved at all. Extract the entire contents of a mix to a folder and open the main w3d. Camera ~ Top can you tell me one thing.... i just broke my mind with it lol...

like, you join to server-server map is walls- you play there, blabla(your hud.ini got walls.tga)-them gdi or nod wins- you go to next map--what shows your radar now? its same walls (in other map like city) or you find the way how rotate hud.ini texture maps on server maps...like if you play in walls-radar show walls....you play city radar show city... without every time open hud and change texture to get same as servermap set right now.....?
its main thing i need to know pls ('_") im reading it 100 times..there nothink says about how scoll maps...

bhs log says:

How the scrolling map feature works:

If you turn it on with ScrollingRadarMap=true, you then need to set the settings for each map with something like JFW_Change_Radar_Map.

Basicly, it draws the radar background the same as the normal radar code with the exception of the texture coordinates for the background texture.""" wtf i dont understand meybe.... what a JFW_Change_Radar_Map....

But Obliv, Scrin did not post any links or anything like that no? He only said that he "torrented this game." I can find a couple of posts here by others that says the same thing.

F.E.A.R. Combat is free, there's torrent links to it off of the main website. Maybe he was talking about that?

I think there is a possible problem with this...

The ShieldEnabled=true & HealthEnabled=true displays the health of what it thinks the presets health should be. Not what the server tells it to be.
It appears (and I only tested this briefly) that if a server decides to change its presets health values and shield values on the server, then it will display incorrectly on the client.
I don't mean the health bar either, I mean the actual floating point number displayed for your current health/shield.
