Aircraftkiller is a piece of shit. Who knows what would have happened if he hadn't shat all over that guys first mod, even if it did suck?

Maybe he could have become a great Renegade modder, but nobody bothered to stand up for him, and he gave up on the community. Real funny.

Yeah Zeratul woulda been a real asset considering a little negativity completely derailed his plans and caused him to flee the community. I'm pretty sure Martin Luther King's ideas weren't welcomed on a carpet of daisys. Think about how much people hated Aircraftkiller and complained about him and told him his stuff was bad. He kept making it didn't he? He made all sorts of maps and things. Did Aircraftkiller stop making maps as soon as big bad Zeratul wrught him his maps were bad? No. Great people are great because they don't give up and because they can fly in the face of adversity. I see no point to elevating this guy on a hypothetical pedastal because he was an awesome quitter.
