To make a new account, just enter a name that you want, and an 8 letter password. If it's taken, it won't work, but if it is not, it's all yours.

Real great system...

Your pass needs to be exactly 8 characters long.

As they already said.. :

1. Type in a username
2. Type in a 8 digit password
3. Click login, NOT create account

If it isn't already taken you should see the serverlist, if you don't see the list it is already taken.

edit: damn, "dodgethis" was faster

afaik you dont really have to "create" an account.
just log in with your desired username/password and the "account" will be created automagically this account creation page by westwood shouldnt exist/work anymore anyways.

The name is taken. Try a different one.

That means your password isn't long enough. Are you absolutely sure you put 8 characters in the password field?
