If your trying to access Westwood Online, forget it till Wednesday...here's   the official message:
Westwood Online (the game matchmaking service) will be unavailable from Monday, March 3rd until late March 5th while we move a number of servers to a new location. As a result, players will not be able to log in and chat or play online against each other until late Wednesday.

We are sorry for the inconvenience, and will keep you updated with a specific time of completion when available. Please understand that we will be working as fast as possible to complete all our work ahead of schedule.

-Westwood Online Staff
You can still play at Gamespy...I guess?
or the Ren Evo Servers?

RenEvo is now becoming a lot more popular than previously, so I'd suggest you play there.

When I last looked, there were at least 6 servers there, all decent aswell.

How do you play on REOL? I have only played on WOL and GSA. Is there a specific web site that gives the instructions and connection method?

Why isn't REOL using the same 'server list' as the All Seeing Eye ? I was on ASE last night and had a SHIT load of servers -- granted many of them were empty.
