Hello, as the title suggests I am getting a error message whenever I click 'network status' or 'new account' (the network status will load up the EA site and then have some kind of script error, then throw up the mentioned error message.)

I'm running from a used copy of TFD, or at least I think it was used. the game run fine other then that and my internet is connected.

Honestly I cant think of what other information I could give. is there an alternative way to make a WoL account? cause I dont think its a connection problem. (although my virus scanner does like blocking things like this, I could check that while waiting for reply)

Thanks

Load up Renegade

Click Internet

Click Wol

When it connects it'll ask you for a username a and password

Enter your desired username and password, if it hasn't already been taken it'll register it for you there and then.

Also, the password has to be eight characters long.
