I have the first decade renegade, and since the core patch whenever i try and login to westwood it tells me to re-install with a valid unshared serial. My serial really isn't shared, iv tried the serial changer program, iv tried reinstallling everything repetedly, im not really sure what to do...

If anyone knows anything to help it'd be appreciated.

You'll have to buy it again like i had to :S. I think the strike team like people to waste money.

Erk.

phone EA and tell them that your copy of TFD came with a C and C Renegade serial that WAS NOT in THIER database, being used by Strike-Team (XWIS) and is preventing you from playing online, and see what they say?

This is probably your problem. The proposed solution doesn't work for everyone, though :-S. If the proposed solution doesn't work, you'll have to reinstall Renegade and play without Renguard, unfortunately.

The serial never had hyphons in it in the first place; and if i so much as touch it, then it fails to rehash the serial. I also bought a cheap original renegade, which also fails to work because, renguards bandwithtester.dll causes it to fail to load. I also tried using my original renegade serial with the first decade version and this doesnt work either, does anyone know if their working to resolve the first deacde problem in a future renguard patch?

For your original version: did you apply patch 1.037 before installing RG?

Ahah this seems to have cracked it! (for the original version)
I patched after installing Renguard before, but with a coomplete reinstall and patching befor renguard it works.

Still probably should sort out the first decade thing as first decade people probably shouldnt be denied ren.

Nevertheless thank you.
