Your RenGuard client should now auto-update to version 1.0323. This version includes the following fixes:

1) Some people had trouble with RenGuard crashing while running while XFire was also running. This has been fixed.
2) A client/master communication has been changed which we believe will reduce (but hopefully stop completely) the mass-disconnects we have been seeing.
3) Latest version of cough is now detected and stopped by RenGuard.
4) Memory scanning fix for certain versions of game2.exe that it did not previously scan correctly.

Update worked first time, hopefully this will see the end of people nagging me to disable the RG not running kick in BRenBot

Thanks to v00d00 and anyone else involved in the update for your time and effort!

Worked flawlessly, thanks.

If you're getting an error, as much as we'd like to be, we aren't physcic and need to see screenshots or details of the error message to help.

I think you should just go with your first post and delete it. Then never use a computer again. Things will be all better then.

Thank v00d00 for me Crim.

Not working here. It says to go to rengaurd.com to download manually. So where is it? All I see is 1.0322 for download.

Not this again...help!!!!

I get a similar error to Redxtremist.

I'm on winxp with a fresh renegade install, 1.037 patch, then renguard 1.3 which updates and then won't start.

renguard 1.0323 error code 00000057

Any help would be appreciated (tried un-installing renguard, tried the direct 1.0323 installation [but it doesn't appear to automatically start]).

We haven't seen or heard about any mass disconnects since this change was put in place.
Hopefully that will continue.

Just an update, I did a fresh install of renegade, 1.037 patch, rengard 1.30, and it updates fine. Then like always, I try to click the usual icon and get the error above (00057).

Just by dumb luck - I decide to go to my directory, and I click the game.exe instead of the existing renegade.exe and hey presto - renguard now seems to be loading.

Well it's d/l the core patches at least...

Maybe you're running game.exe in admin mode and renegade.exe not?
