Besides Renegade, what do you guys like to do in your free time? Do you play any sports? Do you have a job? Do you race BMX? etc.

I play soccer, I used to play basketball and baseball. I love hanging out with my friends during the day. Before someone took over the land, me and my friends used to go across the street from our neighborhood with a whole bunch of other people and build jumps for our bikes. People bring shovels back there and build awesome jumps. My friends and I would stay back there all day and ride to the gas station every once and a while to go get some drinks. I don't have a job except mowing lawns and watching peopls dogs. I like going to the movies with my friends. I like playing my wii. Thats about it. Post what you guys do in your free time!

I play Rugby with a local team, do alot of reading and painting.

In my free time at the PC, I help players with technical game problems which often leads to PC support for the US Army Official PC game - America's Army: Special Forces

I personally dislike it, I'm not that strong, and despite being ~6' I only weigh 8 stone, and tend to get flung about, a lot.

I don't play anymore, though when I did, I was very glad I could run, could score easily in lower level games, just literally ran round them.

During the school year I put in at least 6-7 hours of coding each day. When I'm not in school and not working, I put in at least 10 hours each day. I don't play games much, and when I do its only one or two.

I work a 9-5 job, and I try to get out of the house as much as I can. That doesn't always work, so the computer is my form of entertainment. Anymore, I hate computers. I'd much rather be out doing something, but I hate being by myself.

I golf on a league on Mondays. It's basically just an excuse to drink and be perverted with a bunch of other guys. Needless to say, the money it costs to golf is well worth it.

I'm becoming more social which is a bit different of an approach to life than I've had in years past. Being anti-social is fucking stupid. I'm glad I finally grew out of it.

I've also found out that drinking is much more fun than in previous years. Beer sucks, though. I'll stick with my hard liquor.

Erm, most of my time is taken up with study, what time I have is usually put into church activities and doing stuff with the youth.

Aside from that, I like to code when I can / watch TV / just hang out with friends.

I either spend my time doing university work, coding for one of a multitude of projects I am working on or just get some sleep (Which I don't get much of these days!)

I'm into a lot of stuff. I like computers. I love to play video games, but I don't play them nearly as much as I did when I was younger. I like programming and I have a year's worth of C++ knowledge, but I'd like to go further and get into OpenGL also. I've been skateboarding for five years (I've gone on and off, but the interest never really seems to go away for good). I'm really into photography and filmmaking, and lately I've been gaining an interest in playing a musical instrument. I've been learning the piano for a few months now.

It depends on the time of Year, typically:

Summer:

Guild Wars: 0-4 hours per day(depending on the day)

Coding/Graphic Design: 0-2 hours per day(depending on the day)

Work: 8 hours per day

Fiancee gets the rest

School Year:

Guild Wars: 0-2 hours per day(depending on the day)

School and School Work: 10-16 hours per day(coding included)

Fiancee gets the rest.

-Guild Wars is addictive, and my fiancee plays with me and makes it worse

-School takes an enormous amount of time, and so does work but to a lesser scale.

-Coding is fun every now and then, so I'll turn on the visual studio or Dreamweaver every now and then. I'll leave eclipse off though, Java is a pain

Since it's the summer and I'm out of college for now I have loads of time to do nothing with...

I lose a lot of time because my bed is so crappy... It's completely collapsed in so I pretty much sleep on metal springs. That means I sleep like 15-17 hours a day and wake up exhausted. The rest of the time is spent playing guitar or browsing 4chan's random board for hilarious pictures... Every couple of nights I go out and play Halo 2 at a friends house in a big group too.

That's about it though... :/ This summer is kinda sucking.

Let's see...

Monday-Friday from 9-5 = work from home

Monday and Tuesday nights I usually go to the gym with my brother and sister

Wednesday nights I bowl in a league and then play C&C3 with my brother and a friend (who's also in the bowling league) until bedtime

Thursday nights we bowl again, but socially, and with more people

Friday nights I have 14-20 people over my house to play poker (no-limit Texas Hold'em tournament, $20 buy-in)

Saturday and Sundays I try not to do too much, but during the summers we usually get several people over to play pool volleyball and barbecue

Also, from June 30th-July 5th I'm going to have a fair amount of people here to LAN party, swim, play our Wii, and much more for the first official n00bstories.com gathering. This will be the inaugural group for what I hope will be a larger event next year and perhaps years to come.

Lastly, I've started a business with one of the women who comes to my poker game. We now own an online store that sells poker supplies, but our goal is to open a brick & mortar store locally to not only sell poker supplies, but to also do lessons and equipment rentals, and of course host games in our store. We are still in the setting-up phases, but once we decide on our logo (which might be tonight in fact, we're having a meeting to go over the images that have been provided by our designer)... things will be full steam ahead, getting our website design updated, getting the logo and URL on my car, etc. We are also discussing the possibility of buying another business to merge into ours.

Work pretty much whenever time of day I feel like it (more-or-less self-employed and work from home)

Spend an average of 3-4 hours a day working on the Clanwars site

Play pool most nights, go clubbing occasionally

Sometimes find time for some Renegade

Working 8-5, then coming home and taking care of dinner for my wife and myself (unless she does it).

Apart from Renegade, which is more limited than before now (usually +/- an hour a day now), there's CnC3. Ofcourse around all this is The KOSs2, my clan, which does take up quite some time.

I'm also webmaster of a couple of sites (renegadecommunity.com, thekoss2.org should be known to you).

Apart from that some family stuff, socialising now and then, ...

Mon-Fri-

9-7 Working.

After that, Habbo Hotel for an hour or so..(sounds nerdy...will explain if needed)

Bed usually around 12.

Sat- Sun-

Yu-Gi-Oh tournaments, REgionally, or Locally.

And the odd night drinking/smoking up with friends.
