SBBO isn't used for the LAN exploit...

If you can't handle those performance marks, I suggest you try using my mum's laptop in a sixty player server, the laptop in question doesn't have it's own functioning screen, the battery doesn't work, and the CMOS likes to randomly clear itself out. The sound ocassionly breaks if it thinks the PC isn't broken enough. Not to mention it doesn't have a hardware 3D accelerator.

Making the average performance about FPS-20 (Detail's down) SFPS-60 ping-250 or more and KBPS - 220 or more.

You, my friend have it easy.

You should just leave your bandwith to "LAN/T1" in my information.

Try typing "nur 30" in F8 while in-game. This could be a reason it seems to lag.

Also is your fps / sfps stable? A high, unstable fps/sfps is worse than a low, stable fps/sfps.

Do you have msn and windows media player open when you play renegade?

I used to get this, Just exit them and no lag. =)

WMP is a CPU hogger, although I find that turning the vizulisation (can't be bothered to spell) really helps.

Go into 'my information' and set your bandwidth to LAN/T1. This is the same as setting 'sbbo 2000000', meaning you will get up to 2 Mbit of information by the server. Setting it to 56000 would mean you limit yourself to 56k which would obviously cause lag.

Standard settings get Renegade to auto detect your bandwidth, however this feature doesn't work correctly and often detects you as 56k when you're really on a much better connection.

Considering the kbps you were getting, I suspect this is configured correctly, though .

Heh, when Renegade autodetects my connection, it claims to be >4M and really, it's going at about half of that.

Do you have more than one computer on the network?

Try doing a speedtest (www.speedtest.net) to have an idea of your real download/upload speed.
