Yeah, this is an old map idea I had from a long time ago. I finally started working on it again. Basically, two zeppelins floating in the air. Nod and GDI fight from the platform hanging below.

Yeah I know about the Westwood logo on the ropes. They ARE textured, I just forgot to put it in the leveleedit folder for this test. Anyhow I'm still working on the battle dynamic. Maybe jetpacks or something. Also each Zeppelin ahs a cut away in the underside where vehicles are spawned. Most likely Flying vehicles considering the lack of ground lol... Also there'll probably be like a pedestal or a console or something on each platform that ends it. Who wouldn't want to see a zeppelin get hit by a nuclear missile?

So yeah... that's my map idea... I'm working on it... Any input or suggestions would be welcome as I am still trying to figure out the actual battle dynamic still.

Dude! Make a destroyable/repairable bridge! That'd be awesome! XD The map looks pretty cool though.

I once had a series of maps like this, I had a Nod Hovering Airstrip, and a GDI Air Cruiser, both with automatic and player controlled Air to Air defences.

The problem I came up with is making the maps interesting and not just a straight run at each other. One had the two platforms nestled in a series of valley's but there wasn't really a way to do it and have it look realistic.

Put like walls facing each other on each of teh zeppelins. OR! you should make the zeppelins move and spin around and stuff, then when the zeppelins get in the right position a bridge deploys between them. Then after a while they move again and the bridge gets destroyed. When it is destroyed each team has time to build up there defences for the next bridge deployment.

As cool as it would be if they could move... this isn't really possible, as if a character is standing on something that is moving, they tend to stay still... Unless it only moves up and down, but that's another issue all together.

Here's something that hit my mind a while ago.

<http://zilver.demon.nl/@game/downloads/highway.rar>

A plateau, a scrolling texture, and an emitter. This way it somewhat looked like it all moved.

Anyone know anything about a purchasable jetpack? I saw someone a few pages ago talking about buying jetpacks but... It wasn't the same thing I was trying to do. Trigger Flying or something is the script I need to attach. Anyhow here's what I'm thinking. Can I add a new preset of a Autorifle soldier that has the flying script already on him, and then when the user Pokes a switch it turns them into that class? I don't really think flying snipers and stuff will be too balanced... Think of the ridiculous overpoweredness. Also I'm thinking of a set price to jet pack about. I'm gonna build a vending machine for them: Jetpack-O-Matic. On poke it will subtract credits and change their class. I'm not all that clear on how to do it but I'll figure it out somehow.

What do you guys think about actual battle dynamic? I don't know about a bridge between them... It kinda defeats the purpose of them being Zeppelins and all... I was thinking just aircraft and jet packs. I'm also planning to have a Sniper Rifle spawn on each platform, but on a timer so we don't just have a snipe fest. Just like every 5 minutes one will respawn or something...

Uh yeah those are the things I came up with to post here from my thinkings on this map. Anyone else have any input? Like I said there will be stuff on the platforms, not just bare concrete. I'll add sandbags or barrels or boxes or something.

Aircraft is better.

Plus, make something like an air tank on the balloon which will have to be destroyed to end the game.

Looks cool.

I would place a raging ocean under the balloon, so if people fall off they die in the sea. A bridge makes no sense whatsoever, I like the jet pack idea. But it needs cover for the start up spawner's.

Perhaps add a third balloon with some AI mutant bots?

It would be awesome to have the balloons actually moving up and down side to side too (giving advantage points at different times to different teams), but the startup spawner's would have to have some clever scripting added to them.

Do not use ramjets/sniper rifles/railguns/pic's either imo.

with the flying, i know there is a script you can add to powerups to make people fly.

I know it ends with flying_infantry_powerup, but im not sure if it is a jfw_ script or something else.

Check, cos add this to a powerup, then have it so that people buy the powerup from a terminal

It is JFW_Flying_Infantry_Powerup

Put that on a powerup and it will make whoever collects the powerup able to fly. Note that they will continue to be in flying mode until they die or change characters somehow.

Another option is to have characters that you buy that have JFW_Jetpack attached to it.

What would be cool(though possibly impossible) would be to have grappling hooks that you could fire from one zeppelin to the other, and then go over on the ropes.

I have already did this, although when the "hookshot" (it's for my Legend Of Zelda Mod) an object it can grapple to it just instantly teleports you above it.

map most likely anyhow so it would just be redundant. I am considering leaving the option for other vehicles though for defence. People trying to cram mammoths on the platform and some of them going tumbling off the side lol. I'm just worried that will horribly unabalance things with Nod filling their platform with Artillery and one hitting everything.

I'm just weary of that because with the mostly infantry and aircraft focused game play snipers would rape everything. As it is right now there is a sniper rifle pickup that spawns on a timer, but no actual purchasing of sniper rifles. I figured if I do it this way only so much ammo can really exist at a time.

Is there a way to instead use whatever script(s) is/are used in the singleplayer Raveshaw fight (see this thread), and have it enabled/disabled by pressing a certain key after picking up a powerup? It may be impractical, though, since the trajectory is unchangeable from what I've seen, but if you could tweak that, that would be great.

Isn't there a script for a jump zone that allows you to jump farther then you normally would?

Keep a few usable gun/rocket turrets; don't make them too strong though.
