I was watching a youtube video a while back that had some great skins for tank shells, but regretfully I don't remember the video link. The tank shells were space-like, and when they impacted something, there were small plasma-looking explosions. Really neat looking stuff. I figured this would be a good place to ask around to see if anyone knows where to obtain these skins.

I checked the ZIP file, and it contained w3d files, so Renguard wont allow it.

Ah, am guessing I will have to ask v00d00 very nicely then to add them, if they are ok to add to the allow list, as I wouldnt mind using these for abit.

ooh... these'll work well with a Lascannon for the Ren40K mod. of course, we'll have to modify it a bit, etc. Hey, slave, do you know who made it?

You can download from the site called "Pimp My Ren". The graphics are awesome and that is where the plasma explosions are. The arty fires shots that looks like something from the USS Enterprise. Everything is in glorious technicolour when the explosions erupt all around you.

ps It looks like pimpmyren is being used for female modelling leave this one with me. I am sure it was BA-Kick that directed me to it.
