
Subject: Psychic experiment

Posted by cr0sis on Mon, 16 Jul 2007 16:18:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Firstly, This was first posted over at n00bstories.com by me.

Secondly, I know Im not known round here at all, but I thought I would open this up to a bigger audience.

I would like to attempt something which anybody can participate in, regardless of your attitude towards psychic claims.

It will take a little bit of legwork on your (the readers) behalf to get things up and running so what Im going to ask each of you who are interested to do is upload a picture of the tracing/outline of your hand (digital camera picture or scan upload, both are absolutely fine), your full date of birth, your estimated time of birth and a picture of one of your every day personal objects please.

With this data I will attempt to write an accurate personality reading for each of you.

Using astrological and psychometric techniques I will attempt to get a clear sense of each of your personalities.

Some of you will have long readings and others shorter ones, but I will avoid making woolly general statements and try to get into the meat of each personality.

I will be accepting your applications on this for a week, until Monday the 23rd, where upon I shall begin writing your personal readings. I anticipate all to be completed very shortly after.

Once the last reading has been private messaged to the final person I will open a brand new topic here in the general/discussion forum asking you to offer your thoughts and give a sense of how accurate you found the reading by giving it a mark out of 100.

Thank you in advance for reading this far, if you are deciding to set about completing the tasks and entering your submission, thank you once more.

Regards, cr0sis.

Ps, I would really appreciate this to be kept free of spam/flaming or any other negative opinions to the claims I have outlined above. Im donating a lot of time on this one shortly.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment

Posted by Xylaquin on Mon, 16 Jul 2007 22:16:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

meh, why not:

My left hand (my right has a plaster on it) scanned:

A personal object I use each day:

I was born at 5:49pm Thursday 3rd January 1991

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Cpo64 on Tue, 17 Jul 2007 05:04:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Isn't this more divination then psychic powers?

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Oblivion165 on Tue, 17 Jul 2007 05:12:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

1991! I remember 1991, Oh lord I'm getting old.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Xylaquin on Tue, 17 Jul 2007 07:13:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Oblivion165 wrote on Tue, 17 July 2007 06:12:1991! I remember 1991, Oh lord I'm getting old.

Some drastic things must of happened in 1991 if you can remember memories from the age of 5.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by puddle_splasher on Tue, 17 Jul 2007 09:12:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Xylaquin wrote on Tue, 17 July 2007 15:13

Some drastic things must of happened in 1991 if you can remember memories from the age of 5.

What a sad and unhappy individual you must be if you believe that a 5 yr old only remembers unhappy thoughts.

I have lots of happy memories from my childhood. Climbing dykes, playing in the police/fire station. Using a demonstration train set in a large factory, swimming in a fountain, kicking the dentist. Smashing a factories windows, visiting the old coffee tavern, using an outside toilet on the tenement landing.

Many and varied happy thoughts and that was around 4 years old. At 5 I moved houses and remember being in the front seat of the removal van travelling to my new house. Rusty became my first pet shortly after arriving at the new location.....blah blah blah.....1st day at school.....happy thoughts and memories.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by cr0sis on Tue, 17 Jul 2007 11:38:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks, more would be nice

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Xylaquin on Tue, 17 Jul 2007 15:28:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

puddle_splasher wrote on Tue, 17 July 2007 10:12
What a sad and unhappy individual you must be if you believe that a 5 yr old only remembers unhappy thoughts.

Oh I do have fond memories, although I'm fairly sure they came after 5 years of age (then again I don't know).

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Oblivion165 on Tue, 17 Jul 2007 23:11:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I remember 1991 because I thought a school year was an actual year so when I came back to school after the summer I put down 1992 and the teacher just laughed and explained to me etc...

Not an unhappy moment just a memory.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Nightma12 on Thu, 19 Jul 2007 22:57:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

my hand:

an object i use everyday:

8th March 1991 10:00am gmt+13 (born when parents were on holiday in australia)

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by cr0sis on Fri, 20 Jul 2007 16:01:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

As I have mentioned, I have this running over on the forums at n00bstories.com, and like here I have only 2 people giving up their info.

I won't be taking this any further if there's no more interest to match the work on my behalf..

4 people in total across two communities...

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Sn1per74* on Fri, 20 Jul 2007 16:07:23 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nightma12 wrote on Thu, 19 July 2007 17:57
8th March 1991 10:00am gmt+13 (born when parents were on holiday in australia)
That's super cool! So, you're an Australian citizen?

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Nightma12 on Fri, 20 Jul 2007 21:31:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yup!

Quote:As I have mentioned, I have this running over on the forums at n00bstories.com, and like here I have only 2 people giving up their info.

I won't be taking this any further if there's no more interest to match the work on my behalf..

4 people in total across two communities...

so your not going to write reviews on those 4 people?

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by BlueThen on Fri, 20 Jul 2007 21:41:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Nightma12 wrote on Fri, 20 July 2007 16:31Yup!

Quote:As I have mentioned, I have this running over on the forums at n00bstories.com, and like here I have only 2 people giving up their info.

I won't be taking this any further if there's no more interest to match the work on my behalf..

4 people in total across two communities...

so your not going to write reviews on those 4 people?
it was a trick! I knew it!!!

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by jamiejrg on Fri, 20 Jul 2007 22:28:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

nightma is right handed!

Heres mine!

I was born between 8:00 pm and 9:00 pm, march 3rd 1990.

Hand

Daily used item (custom firmware 3.40 OE-A PSP)

Jamie

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Canadacdn on Fri, 20 Jul 2007 22:58:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Here's my hand:

Here's something I use a lot:

My full date of birth is August 29th, 1990 at exactly 11:30 PM.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by cr0sis on Sat, 21 Jul 2007 01:54:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

That's 7 in total now

Looking better.
In the words of Havoc himself "keep 'em comin'!"

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Xylaquin on Fri, 27 Jul 2007 19:07:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

so uh, hope you've not forgotten

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by cr0sis on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 02:23:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Right, this has gone on long enough, time to send the pm's to those decent enough to reply here!

I'll give it a day or two then post another discussion with a percentage of accuracy poll, no more posts in here plz regarding your readings... anyone else wanting to join in on this one you have a couple more days!

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Canadacdn on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 04:33:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Here's Canadacdn's:

Quote:You are a person prone to real bouts of self-examination. This is in sharp contrast to a striking ability you have developed to appear socially very engaged, even the life and soul of the party; but in a way that only convinces others. You are all too aware of it being a facade. This means that you will often be at a gathering and find yourself playing a part. While on the one hand you'll be talkative and funny, you'll be detaching yourself to the point where you will find yourself watching everything going on around you and feeling utterly unable to engage. You'll play conversations back to yourself in your head and wonder what that person really meant when he said such-and-such - conversations that other people wouldn't give a second thought to. How have you learnt to deal with this conflict? Through exercising control. You like to show a calm, self-assured, fluid kind of stability (but because this is self consciously created, it will create bouts of frustrated silliness and a delight in extremes, or at least a delight in being seen to be extreme).

You most easily recognise this control in how you are with people around you. You have learnt to protect yourself by keeping people at bay. Because in the past you have learned to be disappointed by people (and because there were issues with you adjusting to your sexuality), you instinctively keep people at arms length until YOU decide they are to be allowed over that magic line into your group of close friends. However, once across that line, the problem is that an emotional dependancy kicks in which leaves you feeling very hurt or rejected if it appears that they have betrayed that status. Because you are prone to self-examination, you will be aware of these trais. However, you are unusually able to examine even that self-examination, which means that you have become more concenred about what the REAL you is. You have become all too aware of facades, of sides of yourself which you present to the world, and you wonder if you have lost touch with the real and sponatneous you.

You are very creative, and have tried different avenues to utilize that ability. It may not be that you specifically, say, paint; it may be that your creativity shows itself in more subtle ways, but you will certainly find yourself having vivid and well formed ideas which others will find hard to grasp. You set high standards for youself, though, and in many ways are a bit of a perfectionist. The problem is, though, that it means you often don't get stuff done, because you are frustrated by the idea of mediocrity and are wearied by the idea of starting something afresh. However, once your brain is engaged you'll find yourself sailing. Very likely this will lead to you having considered writing a novel or some such, but a fear that you won't be able to achieve quite what you want stops you from getting on with it. But you have a real vision for things, which others fall short of. Particularly in your academic/college situation, you are currently fighting against your restraints upon your desire to express yourself freely.

Your relationship with your parents (there is a suggestion that one is no longer around, or atleast is emotionally absent) is under some strain. You wish to remain fond of them both but recent issues are causing frustration - from your sidem ore than theirs. In fact they seem unaware of your thoughts on the matter. Partly this is because there are ways in which you have been made to feel isolated from certain groups in the past - something of an outsider. Now what is happening is that you are taking that outsider role and defending it to the point of consciously avoiding being part of a group. This will serve you enormously well in your creative and career pursuits. You have an enormous cynicism towards those who prefer to be part of a group or who exhibit any cliquey behaviour, and you always feel a pang of disappointment when you see you "close" friends seeming to follow that route. Deep down it feels like rejection.

However, for all that introspection, you have developed a sensational, dry sense of humour that makes connections quickly and wittily and will leave you making jokes that go right over the heads of others. You delight in it so much that you'll often rehearse jokes or amusing voices to yourself in order to 'spontaneously' impress others with them. But this is a healthy desire to impress, and although you hate catching yourself at it, it's nothing to be so worried about.

There's an odd feeling also that you should have been born in a different centruy. You might be able to make more sense of that than I can.

There are some strong monetary shifts taking place at the moment. Both the recent past and what's in store over the next few months represent quite a change.

You have links at the moment with America, which are quite interesting, and will look to yield worthwhile results. You're naturally a little disorganized. A look around your living space would show a box of photos, unorganized into albums, out-of-date medicines, broken items not thrown out, and notes to yourself which are significantly out of date. Something related to this is that you tend to lack motivation. Because you're resourceful and talented enough to be pretty successful when you put your mind to things, this encourages you to procrastinate and put them off. Equally you have given up on dreams a little easily when your mind flitted elsewhere.

There are in your home signs of an excursion into playing a musical instrument, which you have since abandoned, or are finding yourself less interested in. (This may alternatively relate to poetry or creative writing which you have tried your hand at and left behind you.) You have a real capacity for deciding that such-and-such a thing (or so-and-so a person) will be the be all and end all of everything and be with you forever. But you'd rather try and fail, and swing from an extreme to the other, than settle for the little that you see others content with.

Conclusion: It's very interesting doing your reading, as you do present something of a conundrum, which won't surprise you. You are certainly bright, but unusually open to life's possibilities - something not normally found among achieving people. I'd say you would do well to be less self-absorbed, as it tends to distance you a little, and to relinquish some of the control you exercise when you present that stylized version of yourself to others. You could let people in a little more, but I am aware that there is a darkness you feel you should hide (much of this is in the personal/relationship/sexual area, and is related to a neediness which you don't like).

You really have an appealing personality - genuinely. Many thanks for doing this, and for offering something for more meaty than most.

I'd say it's somewhat accurate, but also looks copy and paste'd.

I'd give it a 6/10 for accuracy, although some things were unexpected. Especially this: Quote:(and because there were issues with you adjusting to your sexuality)

Wait, are you calling me gay?

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment

Posted by Nightma12 on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 09:55:15 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:You are a person prone to real bouts of self-examination.

This is in sharp contrast to a striking ability you have developed to appear socially very engaged, even the life and soul of the party; but in a way that only convinces others. You are all too aware of it being a facade.

This means that you will often be at a gathering and find yourself playing a part. While on the one hand you'll be talkative and funny, you'll be detaching yourself to the point where you will find yourself watching everything going on around you and feeling utterly unable to engage. You'll play conversations back to yourself in your head and wonder what that person really meant when he said such-and-such - conversations that other people wouldn't give a second thought to. How have you learnt to deal with this conflict? Through exercising control. You like to show a calm, self-assured, fluid kind of stability (but because this is self-consciously created, it will create bouts of frustrated silliness and a delight in extremes, or at least a delight in being seen to be extreme). You most easily recognise this control in how you are with people around you. You have learnt to protect yourself by keeping people at bay. Because in the past you have learned to be disappointed by people (and because there were issues with you adjusting to your sexuality), you instinctively keep people at arms length until YOU decide they are to be allowed over that magic line into your group of close friends. However, once across that line, the problem is that an emotional dependency kicks in which leaves you feeling very hurt or rejected if it appears that they have betrayed that status. Because you are prone to self-examination, you will be aware of these traits. However, you are unusually able to examine even that self-examination, which means that you have become more concerned about what the REAL you is. You have become all too aware of facades, of sides of yourself which you present to the world, and you wonder if you have lost touch with the real and spontaneous you.

You are very creative, and have tried different avenues to utilize that ability. It may not be that you specifically, say, paint; it may be that your creativity shows itself in more subtle ways, but you will certainly find yourself having vivid and well formed ideas which others will find hard to grasp. You set high standards for yourself, though, and in many ways are a bit of a perfectionist. The problem is, though, that it means you often don't get stuff done, because you are frustrated by the idea of mediocrity and are wearied by the idea of starting something afresh. However, once your brain is engaged you'll find yourself sailing. Very likely this will lead to you having considered writing a novel or some such, but a fear that you won't be able to achieve quite what you want stops you from getting on with it. But you have a real vision for things, which others fall short of. Particularly in your academic/college situation, you are currently fighting against your restraints upon your desire to express yourself freely.

Your relationship with your parents (there is a suggestion that one is no longer around, or at least is emotionally absent) is under some strain. You wish to remain fond of them both but recent issues are causing frustration - from your side more than theirs. In fact they seem unaware of your thoughts on the matter. Partly this is because there are ways in which you have been made to feel isolated from certain groups in the past - something of an outsider. Now what is happening is that you are taking that outsider role and defending it to the point of consciously avoiding being part of a group. This will serve you enormously well in your creative and career pursuits. You have an enormous cynicism towards those who prefer to be part of a group or who exhibit any cliquey behaviour, and you always feel a pang of disappointment when you see you "close" friends seeming to follow that route. Deep down it feels like rejection.

However, for all that introspection, you have developed a sensational, dry sense of humour that makes connections quickly and wittily and will leave you making jokes that go right over the heads of others. You delight in it so much that you'll often rehearse jokes or amusing voices to yourself in order to 'spontaneously' impress others with them. But this is a healthy desire to impress, and although you hate catching yourself at it, it's nothing to be so worried about.

There's an odd feeling also that you should have been born in a different century. You might be able to make more sense of that than I can.

There are some strong monetary shifts taking place at the moment. Both the recent past and what's in store over the next few months represent quite a change.

You have links at the moment with America, which are quite interesting, and will look to yield worthwhile results. You're naturally a little disorganized. A look around your living space would show a box of photos, unorganized into albums, out-of-date medicines, broken items not thrown out, and notes to yourself which are significantly out of date. Something related to this is that you tend to lack motivation. Because you're resourceful and talented enough to be pretty successful when you put your mind to things, this encourages you to procrastinate and put them off. Equally you have given up on dreams a little easily when your mind flitted elsewhere.

There are in your home signs of an excursion into playing a musical instrument, which you have since abandoned, or are finding yourself less interested in. (This may alternatively relate to poetry or creative writing which you have tried your hand at and left behind you.) You have a real capacity for deciding that such-and-such a thing (or so-and-so a person) will be the be all and end all of everything and be with you forever. But you'd rather try and fail, and swing from an extreme to the other, than settle for the little that you see others content with.

Conclusion: It's very interesting doing your reading, as you do present something of a conundrum, which won't surprise you. You are certainly bright, but unusually open to life's possibilities -

something not normally found among achieving people. I'd say you would do well to be less self-absorbed, as it tends to distance you a little, and to relinquish some of the control you exercise when you present that stylized version of yourself to others. You could let people in a little more, but I am aware that there is a darkness you feel you should hide (much of this is in the personal/relationship/sexual area, and is related to a neediness which you don't like). You really have an appealing personality - genuinely. Many thanks for doing this, and for offering something for more meaty than most.

i had exactly the same?

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by crOsis on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 10:12:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yea, you see Canadacdn was a complete and utter fucktard with this and decided to ruin it.

The main point I was going to achieve was get ALL your thoughts about your "personal" reading to see just how you rated that whole long text when you THINK it's written purely for you.

It's bullshit, so is anything else "psychic".

This was to be used as a vehicle of learning, with masses of explanation thrown at you all but now I really can't be arsed. Thanks to Canadacdn.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Nightma12 on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 10:23:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ah i see lol

i was planning to quote each one in term and say if its true or false though

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by light on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 11:20:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Saw a similar thing on TV.

They used broad phrases like "you are having issues with money" (who couldn't do with a bit extra) etc. that applied to everyone. It was funny to see all 4 people come out of the same reading and say they really thought the psychic has connected with them.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Xylaquin on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 15:38:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Well even if it is bullshit, a lot of it was scarily correct for me.

No not the sexuality part.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Carrierll on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 15:42:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

It's general statements combined with your willingness to believe that fills in the gaps.

-Charlie Eppes, on psychics (Numb3rs, a TV series)

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Canadacdn on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 17:52:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sorry to ruin everything. But you should have known people would post theirs to compare them sooner or later.

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Renerage on Sat, 28 Jul 2007 20:48:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

puddle_splasher wrote on Tue, 17 July 2007 05:12Xylaquin wrote on Tue, 17 July 2007 15:13

Some drastic things must of happened in 1991 if you can remember memories from the age of 5.

What a sad and unhappy individual you must be if you believe that a 5 yr old only remembers unhappy thoughts.

I have lots of happy memories from my childhood. Climbing dykes , playing in the police/fire station. Using a demonstration train set in a large factory, swimming in a fountain, kicking the dentist. Smashing a factories windows, visiting the old coffee tavern, using an outside toilet on the tenement landing.

Many and varied happy thoughts and that was around 4 years old. At 5 I moved houses and remember being in the front seat of the removal van travelling to my new house. Rusty became my first pet shortly after arriving at the new location.....blah blah blah.....1st day at school.....happy thoughts and memories.

did anyone else "LOL"?

Subject: Re: Psychic experiment
Posted by Xylaquin on Sun, 29 Jul 2007 11:10:10 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

there's always one
