lol that's quite funny.

I believe http://www.turbosquid.com has a nice collection of models. Some cost money, some are free.

Oh, theire not in the w3d format. Look for .gmax of .3ds files. Open them in gmax/renx, and export to w3d.

Just about everything on the web will have to be converted to Westwood w3d. There is another .w3d model system out there but it's not for our w3d engine.
