Alright, a couple weeks ago I could play renegade on my laptop with 70-120 fps easily. Now i went away for a couple weeks, and when i got back i tried to play ren. I kept getting lower fps, like 60 and lower, and I don't know whats wrong. How do I get it back to how it was?

Maybe the vsync was reenabled somehow. Go into the BHS.dll options and turn it off.

Disabling vsync is useless though and won't get you a better gaming experience.

Another thing you could do is go into your monitor settings and up the refresh rate, although 60Hz is generally the only option in laptops. If that's the highest, let it be.

Once I disable vsync though, my fps goes through the roof! I guess it is personal pride of some garbage along those lines
