I am going to be visiting a friend in San Jose from Thursday until Monday. If anyone I've known on here for a while is in that area and wants to meet for lunch or something on one of those days, let me know.

And if you have like 12 posts here and I don't even know who you are, don't bother.

One of my good friends is moving to Holland so one day I might end up taking you up on that offer.

However, my next trip is hopefully to visit England and Scotland with my Aunt. We're shooting for October 2008, and we are determined to spend at least one night in a castle. I'm also intending to have a party there to meet online friends. Either in London or some other sort of central location.
