This will take days if not weeks to clean out.

Not at all,

Log into FTP

Delete all the files related to the Wiki

Make a new SQL Database for the Wiki

Reinstall the Wiki

Then re-add what's needed.

Not that hard.

This guy has WAY more time than I do, and I'm on vacation. I took the wiki offline until I can sort it, upgrade it, and change up the permissions so not everyone can make those kinds of changes. Isn't it pathetic how someone can take a project that has been a whole community effort and deface it like that?

Make it so that logged members can edit it Most people have an account anyway...so it will only be a problem for those retards who did this. (IP log ftw!)

If this is like the last one, he had a registered account and used a Tor proxy server to make the edits. It would have to be a little more restricted than that.

Just disable registrations altogether. Disallow anyone but those YOU choose to edit the pages. That'd solve it.

The wiki won't be down forever. I am on vacation in San Jose, CA. I'm only on my laptop and I really don't want to waste my time here cleaning up the stupid mess. I get home on Monday evening so I'll have plenty of time before bed to unpack, unwind, AND fix the wiki. Hopefully an upgrade will help fix some of the automated spam too.

What really irks me is that this seems to have been directed at ME and yet I only host it and help keep it clean from an admin level. The content and maintenance is done by the community so this person has attacked ALL of us rather than just me. He's also probably reading these posts and masturbating himself into a frenzy for the effect he's had.

make it so that you ahve to approve changes. People who make changes alot you can 'auto-approve' anything from their username.
