You have to use gmax/renx place the buildings how u want them and export as .w3d

In LE u make a new terrain and then load your w3d and press make.

gmax/renx and LE have different scalings so u will have to mess with the location of the buildings in gmax.

There is tut on renhelp i think

EDIT: Old Renhelp website <http://renhelp.laeubi-soft.de/>

Buildings for Heightfieldmap and Mapsetup <http://renhelp.laeubi-soft.de/index.php?tut=59> export each building separately. Make them each in LE, then go to the Edit drop down menu, then click Terrain is Selectable. You then just have to drag it around.

Depends if the buildings are attached and if they have proxies

Or you could create the "fake" buildings make their name to hon/air/whatever and add a controller, add some scripts ect...

But then that would look bad. I wouldn't want to download a map with fake buildings.

I don't mean to be mean, but the buildings in the middle look very repetitive. Maybe you can change the model?

Also (dont mean to be mean) FORGET HEIGHTFIELD. There are 934570865894654796 things wrong with that I won't even get started. Just muck around in Gmax/RenX you don't have to be a pro.

Make a plane.

Drag some verticies around

Texture it

EXPORT!

Your first map won't make people go "WOAH THATS AWESOME LETS PUT IT ON THE SERVER RIGHT AWAY" you will need practice to get upto that kind of standard. Just keep mucking around its the best way to learn
