I got a wireless 360 controller (black one)

So anyway, I got that and the wireless receiver, installed the software and updated it, but when I try to use the controller it wont work? What am I doing wrong?

I did the press the button and the controllers lights just kinda blink in a circle pattern then goes back to them all 4 blinking and it still wont work...

You know, if you just read the top of the green cardboard portion of the case, or flipped open the instruction manual to where it says, Connect the Controller to Your PC Running Windows XP, you'd realize you'd have to download the drivers from,

www.windowsgaming.com

I bought a wired one, and it's fun, but I always read the manual first.
