
Subject: This should start an argument.

Posted by DarkDemin on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 05:45:24 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Found this posted on another site. Fire away LIEbrils

Quote:The speech President George W. Bush SHOULD give:

Normally, I start these things out by saying "My Fellow Americans..."

Not doing it this time. If the polls are any indication, I don't know who more than half of you are anymore. I do know something terrible has happened, and that you're really not fellow Americans any longer.

I'll cut right to the chase here: I quit. Now before anyone gets all in a lather about me quitting to avoid impeachment, or to avoid prosecution or something, let me assure you: there's been no breaking of laws or impeachable offenses in this office. The reason I'm quitting is simple. I'm fed up with you people.

I'm fed up because you have no understanding of what's really going on in the world, or of what's going on in this once-great nation of ours. And the majority of you are too lazy to do your homework and figure it out.

Let's start local. You've been sold a bill of goods by politicians and the news media. Polls show that the majority of you think the economy is in the tank, and that's despite record numbers of homeowners, including record numbers of MINORITY homeowners. While we're mentioning minorities, I'll point out that minority business ownership is at an all-time high. Our unemployment rate is as low as it ever was during the Clinton Administration. I've mentioned all those things before, but it doesn't seem to have sunk in.

Despite the shock to our economy of 9/11, the stock market has rebounded to record levels and more Americans than ever are participating in these markets. Meanwhile, all you can do is whine about gas prices, and most of you are too stupid to realize that gas prices are high because there's increased demand in other parts of the world, and because a small handful of noisy idiots are more worried about polar bears and beach front property than your economic security.

We face real threats in the world. Don't give me this "blood for oil" thing. If I was trading blood for oil, I would've already seized Iraq's oil fields and let the rest of the country go to hell. Don't give me this 'Bush Lied, People Died' crap either. If I was the liar you morons take me for, I could've easily had chemical weapons planted in Iraq so they could be 'discovered.' Instead, I owned up to the fact that the intelligence was faulty. Let me remind you that the rest of the world thought Saddam had the goods, same as me. Let me also remind you, regime change in Iraq, was official US policy before I came into office. Some guy named 'Clinton' established that policy. Bet you didn't know that, did you?

You idiots need to understand that we face a unique enemy. Back during the cold war, there were two major competing political and economic models squaring off. We won that war, but we did so because fundamentally, the Communists wanted to survive, just as we do. We were simply able to outspend and out-tech them.

That's not the case this time. The soldiers of our new enemy don't care if they survive. In fact, they want to die. That'd be fine, as long as they weren't also committed to taking as many of you with them as they can, but they are. They want to kill you, and they're are all over the globe.

You should be grateful that they haven't gotten any more of us here in the United States since September 11, but you're not. That's because you've got no idea how hard a small number of intelligence, military, law enforcement and homeland security people have worked to make sure of that. When this whole mess started, I warned you that this would be a long and difficult fight. I'm disappointed how many of you people think a long and difficult fight amounts to a single season of 'Survivor'.

Instead, you've grown impatient. You're incapable of seeing things through the long lens of history, the way our enemies do. You think that wars should last a few months, a few years, tops. Making matters worse, you actively support those who help the enemy. Every time you buy the New York Times, every time you send a donation to a cut-and-run Democrat's political campaign, well, you might just as well FedEx a grenade launcher to a Jihadist. It amounts to the same thing! In this day and age, it's easy enough to find the truth. It's all over the Internet. It just isn't on the pages of the New York Times or on NBC News. Even if it were, I doubt you'd be any smarter. Most of you would rather watch American Idol. I could say more about your expectations that the government will always be there to bail you out, but you're too stupid to leave a city that's below sea level when there's a hurricane approaching. I could say more about your insane belief that the Federal government, not your own wallet, is where the money comes from, but I've come to the conclusion that were I to do so, it would sail right over your heads. So I quit. I'm going back to Crawford.

I've got an energy-efficient house down there (Al Gore could only dream) and the capability to be fully self-sufficient. No one ever heard of Crawford before I got elected, and as soon as I'm done here, pretty much no one will ever hear of it again. Maybe I'll be lucky enough to die of old age before the last pillars of America fall.

Oh, and by the way, Cheney's quitting too. That means Pelosi is your new President. You asked for it. Watch what she does carefully, because I still have a glimmer of hope that there're just enough of you remaining who are smart enough to turn this thing around in 2008.

So that's it. God bless what's left of America.

Some of you know what I mean.

The rest of you, go back to sitting on your butts, bitching, eating Cheetos, watching American Idol and wait for reality to kick your front door in and eat you alive.... because trust me, it's on the way....

Don't you dare tl;dr because it isn't that bad.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.

Posted by Rocko on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 06:14:10 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

DarkDemin wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 00:45 Found this posted on another site. Fire away
LIEbrils

Quote: The speech President George W. Bush SHOULD give:

Normally, I start these things out by saying "My Fellow Americans..."

Not doing it this time. If the polls are any indication, I don't know who more than half of you are anymore. I do know something terrible has happened, and that you're really not fellow Americans any longer.

I'll cut right to the chase here: I quit. Now before anyone gets all in a lather about me quitting to avoid impeachment, or to avoid prosecution or something, let me assure you: there's been no breaking of laws or impeachable offenses in this office. The reason I'm quitting is simple. I'm fed up with you people.

I'm fed up because you have no understanding of what's really going on in the world, or of what's going on in this once-great nation of ours. And the majority of you are too lazy to do your homework and figure it out.

Let's start local. You've been sold a bill of goods by politicians and the news media. Polls show that the majority of you think the economy is in the tank, and that's despite record numbers of homeowners, including record numbers of MINORITY homeowners. While we're mentioning minorities, I'll point out that minority business ownership is at an all-time high. Our unemployment rate is as low as it ever was during the Clinton Administration. I've mentioned all those things before, but it doesn't seem to have sunk in.

Despite the shock to our economy of 9/11, the stock market has rebounded to record levels and more Americans than ever are participating in these markets. Meanwhile, all you can do is whine about gas prices, and most of you are too stupid to realize that gas prices are high because there's increased demand in other parts of the world, and because a small handful of noisy idiots are more worried about polar bears and beach front property than your economic security.

We face real threats in the world. Don't give me this "blood for oil" thing. If I was trading blood for oil, I would've already seized Iraq's oil fields and let the rest of the country go to hell. Don't give me this 'Bush Lied, People Died' crap either. If I was the liar you morons take me for, I could've easily had chemical weapons planted in Iraq so they could be 'discovered.' Instead, I owned up to the fact that the intelligence was faulty. Let me remind you that the rest of the world thought Saddam had the goods, same as me. Let me also remind you, regime change in Iraq, was official US policy before I came into office. Some guy named 'Clinton' established that policy. Bet you didn't know that, did you?

You idiots need to understand that we face a unique enemy. Back during the cold war, there were two major competing political and economic models squaring off. We won that war, but we did so because fundamentally, the Communists wanted to survive, just as we do. We were simply able to outspend and out-tech them.

That's not the case this time. The soldiers of our new enemy don't care if they survive. In fact, they want to die. That'd be fine, as long as they weren't also committed to taking as many of you with them as they can, but they are. They want to kill you, and they're all over the globe.

You should be grateful that they haven't gotten any more of us here in the United States since September 11, but you're not. That's because you've got no idea how hard a small number of intelligence, military, law enforcement and homeland security people have worked to make sure of that. When this whole mess started, I warned you that this would be a long and difficult fight. I'm disappointed how many of you people think a long and difficult fight amounts to a single season of 'Survivor'.

Instead, you've grown impatient. You're incapable of seeing things through the long lens of history, the way our enemies do. You think that wars should last a few months, a few years, tops. Making matters worse, you actively support those who help the enemy. Every time you buy the New York Times, every time you send a donation to a cut-and-run Democrat's political campaign, well, you might just as well FedEx a grenade launcher to a Jihadist. It amounts to the same thing!

In this day and age, it's easy enough to find the truth. It's all over the Internet. It just isn't on the pages of the New York Times or on NBC News. Even if it were, I doubt you'd be any smarter. Most of you would rather watch American Idol. I could say more about your expectations that the government will always be there to bail you out, but you're too stupid to leave a city that's below sea level when there's a hurricane approaching. I could say more about your insane belief that the Federal government, not your own wallet, is where the money comes from, but I've come to the conclusion that were I to do so, it would sail right over your heads. So I quit. I'm going back to Crawford.

I've got an energy-efficient house down there (Al Gore could only dream) and the capability to be fully self-sufficient. No one ever heard of Crawford before I got elected, and as soon as I'm done here, pretty much no one will ever hear of it again. Maybe I'll be lucky enough to die of old age before the last pillars of America fall.

Oh, and by the way, Cheney's quitting too. That means Pelosi is your new President. You asked for it. Watch what she does carefully, because I still have a glimmer of hope that there're just enough of you remaining who are smart enough to turn this thing around in 2008.

So that's it. God bless what's left of America.

Some of you know what I mean.

The rest of you, go back to sitting on your butts, bitching, eating Cheetos, watching American Idol and wait for reality to kick your front door in and eat you alive.... because trust me, it's on the way....

Don't you dare tl;dr because it isn't that bad.

k

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.

Posted by Renerage on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 06:15:50 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 02:14DarkDemin wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 00:45Found this posted on another site. Fire away LIEbrils

Quote:The speech President George W. Bush SHOULD give:

Normally, I start these things out by saying "My Fellow Americans..."

Not doing it this time. If the polls are any indication, I don't know who more than half of you are anymore. I do know something terrible has happened, and that you're really not fellow Americans any longer.

I'll cut right to the chase here: I quit. Now before anyone gets all in a lather about me quitting to avoid impeachment, or to avoid prosecution or something, let me assure you: there's been no breaking of laws or impeachable offenses in this office. The reason I'm quitting is simple. I'm fed up with you people.

I'm fed up because you have no understanding of what's really going on in the world, or of what's going on in this once-great nation of ours. And the majority of you are too lazy to do your homework and figure it out.

Let's start local. You've been sold a bill of goods by politicians and the news media. Polls show that the majority of you think the economy is in the tank, and that's despite record numbers of homeowners, including record numbers of MINORITY homeowners. While we're mentioning minorities, I'll point out that minority business ownership is at an all-time high. Our unemployment rate is as low as it ever was during the Clinton Administration. I've mentioned all those things before, but it doesn't seem to have sunk in.

Despite the shock to our economy of 9/11, the stock market has rebounded to record levels and more Americans than ever are participating in these markets. Meanwhile, all you can do is whine about gas prices, and most of you are too stupid to realize that gas prices are high because there's increased demand in other parts of the world, and because a small handful of noisy idiots are more worried about polar bears and beach front property than your economic security.

We face real threats in the world. Don't give me this "blood for oil" thing. If I was trading blood for oil, I would've already seized Iraq's oil fields and let the rest of the country go to hell. Don't give me this 'Bush Lied, People Died' crap either. If I was the liar you morons take me for, I could've easily had chemical weapons planted in Iraq so they could be 'discovered.' Instead, I owned up to the fact that the intelligence was faulty. Let me remind you that the rest of the world thought Saddam had the goods, same as me. Let me also remind you, regime change in Iraq, was official US policy before I came into office. Some guy named 'Clinton' established that policy. Bet you didn't know that, did you?

You idiots need to understand that we face a unique enemy. Back during the cold war, there were two major competing political and economic models squaring off. We won that war, but we did so because fundamentally, the Communists wanted to survive, just as we do. We were simply able to outspend and out-tech them.

That's not the case this time. The soldiers of our new enemy don't care if they survive. In fact, they want to die. That'd be fine, as long as they weren't also committed to taking as many of you with them as they can, but they are. They want to kill you, and they're all over the globe.

You should be grateful that they haven't gotten any more of us here in the United States since September 11, but you're not. That's because you've got no idea how hard a small number of intelligence, military, law enforcement and homeland security people have worked to make sure of that. When this whole mess started, I warned you that this would be a long and difficult fight. I'm disappointed how many of you people think a long and difficult fight amounts to a single season of 'Survivor'.

Instead, you've grown impatient. You're incapable of seeing things through the long lens of history, the way our enemies do. You think that wars should last a few months, a few years, tops. Making matters worse, you actively support those who help the enemy. Every time you buy the New York Times, every time you send a donation to a cut-and-run Democrat's political campaign, well, you might just as well FedEx a grenade launcher to a Jihadist. It amounts to the same thing! In this day and age, it's easy enough to find the truth. It's all over the Internet. It just isn't on the pages of the New York Times or on NBC News. Even if it were, I doubt you'd be any smarter. Most of you would rather watch American Idol. I could say more about your expectations that the government will always be there to bail you out, but you're too stupid to leave a city that's below sea level when there's a hurricane approaching. I could say more about your insane belief that the Federal government, not your own wallet, is where the money comes from, but I've come to the conclusion that were I to do so, it would sail right over your heads.

So I quit. I'm going back to Crawford.

I've got an energy-efficient house down there (Al Gore could only dream) and the capability to be fully self-sufficient. No one ever heard of Crawford before I got elected, and as soon as I'm done here, pretty much no one will ever hear of it again. Maybe I'll be lucky enough to die of old age before the last pillars of America fall.

Oh, and by the way, Cheney's quitting too. That means Pelosi is your new President. You asked for it. Watch what she does carefully, because I still have a glimmer of hope that there're just enough of you remaining who are smart enough to turn this thing around in 2008.

So that's it. God bless what's left of America.

Some of you know what I mean.

The rest of you, go back to sitting on your butts, bitching, eating Cheetos, watching American Idol and wait for reality to kick your front door in and eat you alive.... because trust me, it's on the way....

Don't you dare tl;dr beacuse it isn't that bad.

k

Fake?

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.

Posted by DarkDemin on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 06:24:55 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Renegera wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 02:15

Fake?

Way to read the first line smart one.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.

Posted by Canadacdn on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 07:15:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

STOP QUOTING THE WHOLE FUCKING SPEECH WHEN YOU ARE REPLYING ASSHOLES

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.

Posted by Jecht on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 08:09:34 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I think it's funny because there is a lot of truth to that. The American society is fucked up at the moment.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Starbuzz on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 08:58:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Bullshit.

Take this, right-wingers:
http://www.huffingtonpost.com/martin-lewis/gop-senator-larry-craigs_b_62084.html

2008 hurry up ffs!

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Deamond11 on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 09:31:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ide say the president got a brain!!!

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by argathol3 on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 14:38:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

DarkDemin wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 00:45 Found this posted on another site. Fire away
LIEbrils

Quote: The speech President George W. Bush SHOULD give:

Normally, I start these things out by saying "My Fellow Americans..."
Not doing it this time. If the polls are any indication, I don't know who more than half of you are anymore. I do know something terrible has happened, and that you're really not fellow Americans any longer.

I'll cut right to the chase here: I quit. Now before anyone gets all in a lather about me quitting to avoid impeachment, or to avoid prosecution or something, let me assure you: there's been no breaking of laws or impeachable offenses in this office. The reason I'm quitting is simple. I'm fed up with you people.

I'm fed up because you have no understanding of what's really going on in the world, or of what's going on in this once-great nation of ours. And the majority of you are too lazy to do your homework and figure it out.

Let's start local. You've been sold a bill of goods by politicians and the news media. Polls show that the majority of you think the economy is in the tank, and that's despite record numbers of homeowners, including record numbers of MINORITY homeowners. While we're mentioning minorities, I'll point out that minority business ownership is at an all-time high. Our unemployment rate is as low as it ever was during the Clinton Administration. I've mentioned all those things before, but it doesn't seem to have sunk in.

Despite the shock to our economy of 9/11, the stock market has rebounded to record levels and more Americans than ever are participating in these markets. Meanwhile, all you can do is whine about gas prices, and most of you are too stupid to realize that gas prices are high because there's increased demand in other parts of the world, and because a small handful of noisy idiots are more worried about polar bears and beach front property than your economic security.

We face real threats in the world. Don't give me this "blood for oil" thing. If I was trading blood for oil, I would've already seized Iraq's oil fields and let the rest of the country go to hell. Don't give me this 'Bush Lied, People Died' crap either. If I was the liar you morons take me for, I could've easily had chemical weapons planted in Iraq so they could be 'discovered.' Instead, I owned up to the fact that the intelligence was faulty. Let me remind you that the rest of the world thought Saddam had the goods, same as me. Let me also remind you, regime change in Iraq, was official US policy before I came into office. Some guy named 'Clinton' established that policy. Bet you didn't know that, did you?

You idiots need to understand that we face a unique enemy. Back during the cold war, there were two major competing political and economic models squaring off. We won that war, but we did so because fundamentally, the Communists wanted to survive, just as we do. We were simply able to outspend and out-tech them.

That's not the case this time. The soldiers of our new enemy don't care if they survive. In fact, they want to die. That'd be fine, as long as they weren't also committed to taking as many of you with them as they can, but they are. They want to kill you, and they're all over the globe.

You should be grateful that they haven't gotten any more of us here in the United States since September 11, but you're not. That's because you've got no idea how hard a small number of intelligence, military, law enforcement and homeland security people have worked to make sure of that. When this whole mess started, I warned you that this would be a long and difficult fight. I'm disappointed how many of you people think a long and difficult fight amounts to a single season of 'Survivor'.

Instead, you've grown impatient. You're incapable of seeing things through the long lens of history, the way our enemies do. You think that wars should last a few months, a few years, tops. Making matters worse, you actively support those who help the enemy. Every time you buy the New York Times, every time you send a donation to a cut-and-run Democrat's political campaign, well, you might just as well FedEx a grenade launcher to a Jihadist. It amounts to the same thing! In this day and age, it's easy enough to find the truth. It's all over the Internet. It just isn't on the pages of the New York Times or on NBC News. Even if it were, I doubt you'd be any smarter. Most of you would rather watch American Idol. I could say more about your expectations that the government will always be there to bail you out, but you're too stupid to leave a city that's below sea level when there's a hurricane approaching. I could say more about your insane belief that the Federal government, not your own wallet, is where the money comes from, but I've come to the conclusion that were I to do so, it would sail right over your heads.

So I quit. I'm going back to Crawford.

I've got an energy-efficient house down there (Al Gore could only dream) and the capability to be fully self-sufficient. No one ever heard of Crawford before I got elected, and as soon as I'm done here, pretty much no one will ever hear of it again. Maybe I'll be lucky enough to die of old age before the last pillars of America fall.

Oh, and by the way, Cheney's quitting too. That means Pelosi is your new President. You asked for it. Watch what she does carefully, because I still have a glimmer of hope that there're just enough of you remaining who are smart enough to turn this thing around in 2008.

So that's it. God bless what's left of America.

Some of you know what I mean.

The rest of you, go back to sitting on your butts, bitching, eating Cheetos, watching American Idol and wait for reality to kick your front door in and eat you alive.... because trust me, it's on the way....

Don't you dare tl;dr because it isn't that bad.

agreed

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.

Posted by Memphis on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 16:33:53 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:The speech President George W. Bush SHOULD give:

In this day and age, it's easy enough to find the truth. It's all over the Internet.

That completely ruined the entire speech for me other than that it made an interesting read. People need to form their own opinions about what THEY think and not what they are told by others or by biased media.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.

Posted by DarkDemin on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 18:38:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 04:58Bullshit.

Take this, right-wingers:

http://www.huffingtonpost.com/martin-lewis/gop-senator-larry-craigs_b_62084.html

2008 hurry up ffs!

What the hell does that have to do with anything.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.

Posted by nikki6ixx on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 19:18:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

"Economic security" ?!

The current Republican administration are the biggest f*cking n00bs when it comes "Economic Security" . If they were smart, I wouldn't have lost hundreds of dollars in my portfolio due to all that 'subprime mortgage' bullshit... and that's only the beginning. I'm lucky I keep most of my money in my country. I feel bad for the ones who kept it in yours.

Instead of spending nearly a billion greenbacks a day in Iraq, that could be going to streamlining the borders and ports of entry so NAFTA partners aren't given the shaft. One of the reasons your economy is slowing down, is because trade is being restricted by moronic, ham-fisted security measures that punish all parties.

How's that 'Mexican Border Fence' going? Yeah, that's a great way to spend four to eight billion dollars. Maybe if the administration had some foresight, that money would have gone towards creating a freer immigration program, (like the one Bush was touting the past two elections) which would allow Mexican and Central American's easier entry to do hard work, and to get the respectable pay they deserve.

I hate the New York Times too, because they have table-scrap-pilfering grab-asses who rag on any vehicle that isn't a Prius, but telling people that by buying that paper, that they are as good as terrorism financiers, is a load of fucking bullshit. Anyone who believes that might as well jump off a cliff and die, because inbreeding makes you dumb, and worthless to society.

I'm sick and tired of 'Conservatives' giving REAL Conservatives like me a bad name. Everywhere I go, people think I somehow support Bush, or that I eat Polar Bear meat every Sunday.

A real Conservative believes in balancing the budget, streamlining the bureaucracy, and a smaller government. Instead, the Bush government has done just the opposite.

A real Conservative believes in transparency, and accountability. None of that in the government today.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Starbuzz on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 19:59:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

DarkDemin wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 13:38Starbuzz wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 04:58Bullshit.

Take this, right-wingers:
http://www.huffingtonpost.com/martin-lewis/gop-senator-larry-craigs_b_62084.html

2008 hurry up ffs!

What the hell does that have to do with anything.

Just take it.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by z310 on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 20:52:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ron Paul 2008, kthnx.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by cheesesoda on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 21:14:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've noticed that even while being a Libertarian, Democrats and Socialists alike really do fucking suck.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by nikki6ixx on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 21:34:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

cheesesoda wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 16:14 I've noticed that even while being a Libertarian, Democrats and Socialists alike really do fucking suck.

Do you get much hell for being a Libertarian?

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by cheesesoda on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 21:44:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

nikki6ixx wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 17:34 cheesesoda wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 16:14 I've noticed that even while being a Libertarian, Democrats and Socialists alike really do fucking suck.

Do you get much hell for being a Libertarian?
I do get a lot from DarkDemin, but that's just because he thinks I'm more liberal than I am.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by Rocko on Tue, 28 Aug 2007 23:31:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Canadacd wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 02:15 STOP QUOTING THE WHOLE FUCKING SPEECH WHEN YOU ARE REPLYING ASSHOLES
k

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by sadukar09 on Wed, 29 Aug 2007 00:13:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Darkdemin is weird :/

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by nikki6ixx on Wed, 29 Aug 2007 01:40:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I reread the speech for the sixth time.

Quote:I could say more about your expectations that the government will always be there to bail you out, but you're too stupid to leave a city that's below sea level when there's a hurricane approaching.

I can tell the author doesn't live anywhere near an ocean. What a pompous asshole. Maybe if the government actually did its job and built the proper infrastructure in order to stop the water from destroying peoples' homes and lives, Katrina would have been a much less severe situation. Calling some of America's poorest 'stupid' just goes to show what an ignorant fucktard the author is.

Quote:The reason I'm quitting is simple. I'm fed up with you people.

They're fed up at Bush because his government's policies blow more ass than Boy George! I'd be fed up at a President who will soon hold the record for the most vacation time taken while in office, and yet has the country in an increasingly shitty situation.

Quote:That's not the case this time. The soldiers of our new enemy don't care if they survive. In fact, they want to die. That'd be fine, as long as they weren't also committed to taking as many of you with them as they can, but they are. They want to kill you, and they're are all over the globe.

Yeah... and 'shocking and awe-ing' Iraq was a great solution to this problem... No instead of a few dissident countries pissed off at the States, you now have HALF A FUCKING WORLD pissed off at you. The Taliban and al-Qaeda were outcasts in the Muslim majority, and were deemed to extreme. However, thanks to a war that should not have happened, those organizations are becoming more and more popular. Great results.

Quote:You're incapable of seeing things through the long lens of history, the way our enemies do.

History?... maybe instead of looking to the past, YOU SHOULD BE LOOKING TOWARD THE FUTURE FOR CHRISAKE! If you could see through the long lens, then why in God's name did you not realize that Iran would become more powerful after a weakened Iraq?! If the author of this article knew anything about the Middle East, he'd realize that Iran and Iraq HATE each other, and that a strong Iran would destabilize the entire region, and gain influence.

I really want to know who the author is. Probably some idiot in a Klan clubhouse, or in some shanty in Utah.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Canadacdn on Wed, 29 Aug 2007 02:25:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Well posted.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Starbuzz on Wed, 29 Aug 2007 04:22:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Good job, nikki.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by prasp on Wed, 29 Aug 2007 20:57:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Lemme guess, Rush Limbaugh wrote this, right?

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Jecht on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 01:21:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hey, I thought there was too much nut-stroking happening in this topic so I figured I'd give a little dissent for shits and giggles.

nikki6ixx wrote on Tue, 28 August 2007 20:40I reread the speech for the sixth time.

I can tell the author doesn't live anywhere near an ocean. What a pompous asshole. Maybe if the government actually did its job and built the proper infrastructure in order to stop the water from destroying peoples' homes and lives, Katrina would have been a much less severe situation. Calling some of America's poorest 'stupid' just goes to show what an ignorant fucktard the author is.

He's calling some of these people 'stupid' because even though they were given warning of an impending siege of water wind and whatever earthly hell a hurricane can conjure, many of them made naught an effort to seek better refuge and blatantly disregarded warning that their life was at risk.

I don't give a damn about the rest of your post, but these next two statements got me.

Quote:

Quote:You're incapable of seeing things through the long lens of history, the way our enemies do.

History?... maybe instead of looking to the past, YOU SHOULD BE LOOKING TOWARD THE FUTURE FOR CHRISAKE!

This statement is one of the biggest piles of literary bullshit I've ever seen. Anyone who has ever been to High School History class could tell you what the consequences are for disregarding the past, even though the author didn't intend the message to deliver that type of message.

The Author likely meant that this process takes time, and most people are so caught up on deadlines that they believe nothing is getting done, just because they're not getting done now.

Quote:

I really want to know who the author is. Probably some idiot in a Klan clubhouse, or in some shanty in Utah.

This quote made me laugh, simply because probably not five minutes prior to typing this little gem, you made reference to the problems that generalizing displays:

Quote:

Calling some of America's poorest 'stupid' just goes to show what an ignorant fucktard the author is.

You kicked Mr. Irony right in the crown jewels there.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.

Posted by nikki6ixx on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 02:35:26 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Jecht wrote on Wed, 29 August 2007 20:21

He's calling some of these people 'stupid' because even though they were given warning of an impending siege of water wind and whatever earthly hell a hurricane can conjure, many of them made naught an effort to seek better refuge and blatantly disregarded warning that their life was at risk.

Right... except that many had no means of leaving the city.

The FEMA shelters that were offered were subpar, and the processes were grossly mismanaged. Hell, the people were treated like crap in many cases. With all that, of course they'd rather try and stick it out through the storm. All they had to their name was their property, and maybe not even that.

Remember, these people had little or no insurance. So even if they left, they'd come back to nothing. I find it disgusting that people from New Orleans are relying on Red Cross donations, even though they live in the wealthiest nation on Earth.

Quote:

Quote:You're incapable of seeing things through the long lens of history, the way our enemies do.

History?... maybe instead of looking to the past, YOU SHOULD BE LOOKING TOWARD THE FUTURE FOR CHRISAKE!

Quote:

This statement is one of the biggest piles of literary bullshit I've ever seen. Anyone who has ever been to High School History class could tell you what the consequences are for disregarding the past, even though the author didn't intend the message to deliver that type of message.

The Author likely meant that this process takes time, and most people are so caught up on deadlines that they believe nothing is getting done, just because they're not getting done now.

Can you blame people for thinking like that? Wasn't it George Bush who donned a flight suit, and held a press conference on the USS Abraham Lincoln with a massive banner behind him that read, "Mission Accomplished" ... on May 1st, 2003... which was like, four years ago? Talk about 'deadlines' . Seeing as the war began on March 20th, 2003, it would be hypocritical of Bush to even lecture people on 'deadlines' . The White House certainly thought they could win in a few short months... which is the opposite of taking a long time.

As for the 'looking to the past' comment... well, this administration certainly didn't do their homework in Middle East History 101. If they had looked to the past, and critically evaluated it, there'd likely be no Iraq war. That's because the Middle East was a powderkeg, filled to the brim with religious hostility, big ego's, burning sun, and hot sand; not exactly a great place to cause a scuffle.

Quote:

I really want to know who the author is. Probably some idiot in a Klan clubhouse, or in some shanty in Utah.

Quote:

This quote made me laugh, simply because probably not five minutes prior to typing this little gem, you made reference to the problems that generalizing displays:

Quote:

Calling some of America's poorest 'stupid' just goes to show what an ignorant fucktard the author is.

You kicked Mr. Irony right in the crown jewels there.

I take issue with him calling some of America's poorest 'stupid' because my life wasn't always peaches and 'Super Nintendo-after-school'.

I'm not sure about yours...

...but I doubt you've ever collected bottles for anything other than a school bottle drive. I guess I used to be 'stupid' .

Calling poor people, 'stupid' , is ignorant. I guess all those people in Bangladesh are 'stupid'. China must be full of 'stupid' people too. Hell, Africa must be a whole continent of 'stupid'. I guess all those homeless people on our streets suffering from Schizophrenia and Depression are 'stupid' too, huh?

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.

Posted by cheesesoda on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 03:00:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Here's my take on poverty: too fucking bad. If we really want people to work together and end poverty, then maybe it's time for Democrats and the government to stop thinking that they're fucking Robin Hood. Don't touch my money, and maybe I'll donate it. Maybe not. It's my money that I earned, and too fucking bad if I or someone else decides to be greedy. Especially since the government doesn't do anything other than throw money at the problem. Maybe if people were forced to rely on each other instead of the government, it wouldn't be so hard for things to get done efficiently. If you always let people take the easy way out then they just become dependent, and then the nation just becomes a bunch of puppets for the government.

Another prime example of how throwing money at education doesn't help. Over the past few decades (and inflation factored in), schools are getting SEVERAL times more money per kid, yet there seems to be no positive results from that. This is what happens when you're not forced to rely on the community and each other. "The government needs to give us more money..." Yeah, THAT WORKS!

I'm a complete supporter of Social Darwinism. Let the strongest survive and strengthen the species. A herd of animals don't go rescue their old and diseased when being attacked by predators for a reason. Why should we be doing the same thing? After all, liberals tend to want to say that humans are just "smart animals". If that's the case, then let natural selection work on the human race.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.

Posted by nikki6ixx on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 03:53:08 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

cheesesoda wrote on Wed, 29 August 2007 22:00 Here's my take on poverty: too fucking bad. If we really want people to work together and end poverty, then maybe it's time for Democrats and the government to stop thinking that they're fucking Robin Hood. Don't touch my money, and maybe I'll donate it. Maybe not. It's my money that I earned, and too fucking bad if I or someone else decides to be greedy. Especially since the government doesn't do anything other than throw money at the problem. Maybe if people were forced to rely on each other instead of the government, it wouldn't be so hard for things to get done efficiently. If you always let people take the easy way out then they just become dependent, and then the nation just becomes a bunch of puppets for the government.

Another prime example of how throwing money at education doesn't help. Over the past few decades (and inflation factored in), schools are getting SEVERAL times more money per kid, yet there seems to be no positive results from that. This is what happens when you're not forced to rely on the community and each other. "The government needs to give us more money..." Yeah, THAT WORKS!

I'm a complete supporter of Social Darwinism. Let the strongest survive and strengthen the species. A herd of animals don't go rescue their old and diseased when being attacked by predators for a reason. Why should we be doing the same thing? After all, liberals tend to want to say that humans are just "smart animals". If that's the case, then let natural selection work on the human race.

I agree with you for the most part. However, the government of the United States still has a duty to protect the city of New Orleans. It's not as if the city was totally filled with impoverished people. There were quite a few who were well off.

Plus, New Orleans was a major tourism destination, especially with Mardi Gras, and those tourism dollars help fuel the economy. The government should have had the foresight to protect the tourist destination, in order to keep and attract investment, and to keep those tourism dollars coming.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Jecht on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 04:03:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

nikki6ixx wrote on Wed, 29 August 2007 21:35
Right... except that many had no means of leaving the city.

The FEMA shelters that were offered were subpar, and the processes were grossly mismanaged. Hell, the people were treated like crap in many cases. With all that, of course they'd rather try and stick it out through the storm. All they had to their name was their property, and maybe not even that.

Remember, these people had little or no insurance. So even if they left, they'd come back to nothing. I find it disgusting that people from New Orleans are relying on Red Cross donations, even though they live in the wealthiest nation on Earth.

Let me get one thing straight. You're telling me that you'd rather risk your life and stay in the middle of a hurricane, of which will no doubt flood your house, your neighborhood, and your city and all so that you wouldn't get mis-treated for a while? Even if I was certain to be mistreated, I would leave even my current house in the suburbs mind you. Regardless of whether they stayed in their house or not is irrelevant to the fact on whether they had insurance or not. Unless they can somehow mutate into a some sort of comic book hero at the last second, they aren't stopping that water from reaching their property any faster than the levees did.

Quote:

As for the 'looking to the past' comment... well, this administration certainly didn't do their homework in Middle East History 101. If they had looked to the past, and critically evaluated it, there'd likely be no Iraq war. That's because the Middle East was a powderkeg, filled to the brim with religious hostility, big ego's, burning sun, and hot sand; not exactly a great place to cause a scuffle.

Show me a country where it would be a great place to cause a scuffle. They don't exist.

Quote:

I take issue with him calling some of America's poorest 'stupid' because my life wasn't always peaches and 'Super Nintendo-after-school'.

I'm not sure about yours...

...but I doubt you've ever collected bottles for anything other than a school bottle drive. I guess I used to be 'stupid' .

Calling poor people, 'stupid' , is ignorant. I guess all those people in Bangladesh are 'stupid'. China must be full of 'stupid' people too. Hell, Africa must be a whole continent of 'stupid'. I guess all those homeless people on our streets suffering from Schizophrenia and Depression are 'stupid' too, huh?

Funny... I hit ctrl+F, type in poor and the first thing I find is your post. The author didn't even make reference to poor folks in his rant. Meaning you're grasping at straws.

My background didn't start off breezy either, but my father worked his ass off his entire life to give his family everything. I don't give a shit about what these people say. Things such as "The rich keep the poor down." don't exist. If you think they do then that's a poor-ass excuse for your own faults in life. My father is a prime example that hard work does pay off.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.

Posted by nikki6ixx on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 04:34:18 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:I could say more about your expectations that the government will always be there to bail you out, but you're too stupid to leave a city that's below sea level when there's a hurricane approaching.

The people who were herded into the Astrodome, the people who had to deal with FEMA's ineptness, the people who are still suffering today... are mainly some of America's poorest. The ones who left were the ones who could afford to.

Now, if the city had PROPERLY BUILT floodwalls, and had a real plan in place for such a disaster, then I wouldn't feel so bad for the people of that city. However, the floodwalls were shoddy, and insufficient, and even the Army Corps commander resigned because he knew that they had built subpar installations.

Therefore, the government is responsible. I'm sure if your house was destroyed, and you found out that the situation could have been better, or even prevented if the government did its job, you'd be going after them as well.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Rocko on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 05:29:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

george bush does not care about black people

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by nikki6ixx on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 06:29:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Thu, 30 August 2007 00:29george bush does not care about black people

I actually disagree with this statement. The 'No Child Left Behind' policy, while still flawed in some areas, is just one example of Bush reaching out to ethnicities, and especially the Black and Hispanic populations.

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Jecht on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 08:43:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Thu, 30 August 2007 00:29george bush does not care about black people

Haha, this is a quote from Kanye West is it?

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by puddle_splasher on Thu, 30 Aug 2007 08:57:53 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Got bored after the first line

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by DarkDemin on Fri, 31 Aug 2007 07:17:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

puddle_splasher wrote on Thu, 30 August 2007 04:57Got bored after the first line fuck you.

all your posts will now be plagued with tl;dr

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by qwertwert125 on Thu, 27 Sep 2007 23:49:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

lol well heres what i have to say bush is the smartest most BRILLIANT moronic dumbass on the planet.

hes done things that are EXCELLENT, but then hes done things that make us wish he was in hell being assraped by hitler.

that speech is abloutely the best of the worst of the best of the worst... mainly cause it made me LAUGH MY ASS OFF.

its no worse then the stuff youll find on jibjab.com lol

Subject: Re: This should start an arguement.
Posted by Muad Dib15 on Fri, 28 Sep 2007 01:37:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Jecht, you are my hero. You say what i think so I don't have to type it out.

If you idiots say that George Bush doesn't care about the people in New Orleans, then why did I hear on the news for THREE FUCKING WEEKS that the hurricane was going to hit. If anyone is at fault for that tragic disaster, it was the governer of Louisiana for not sending aid to them.

He told George to literally "Get the fuck out of my state and let me handle it my way." It is also the fault of the 60s liberal hippies that designed the walls. They only designed the walls to hold up to a category 3 hurricane. Hurricane Katrina was a category 5. They didn't build it strong enough because, "oh noes, we cannot build the walls to withstand a category 6 hurricane because it will intrude on the black bears territory." I really don't think that bears are more important than a city of 6 million + people.

Bush is not the problem with Katrina destroying New Orleans, it was the governer.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by nikki6ixx on Fri, 28 Sep 2007 04:54:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

FWIW... those " '60's Liberal Hippies" were the Army Corps.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by Jerad2142 on Tue, 02 Oct 2007 18:25:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Muad Dib15 wrote on Thu, 27 September 2007 19:37: Jecht, you are my hero. You say what I think so I don't have to type it out.

If you idiots say that George Bush doesn't care about the people in New Orleans, then why did I hear on the news for THREE FUCKING WEEKS that the hurricane was going to hit. If anyone is at fault for that tragic disaster, it was the governor of Louisiana for not sending aid to them.

He told George to literally "Get the fuck out of my state and let me handle it my way." It is also the fault of the 60s liberal hippies that designed the walls. They only designed the walls to hold up to a category 3 hurricane. Hurricane Katrina was a category 5. They didn't build it strong enough because, "oh noes, we cannot build the walls to withstand a category 6 hurricane because it will intrude on the black bears territory." I really don't think that bears are more important than a city of 6 million + people.

Bush is not the problem with Katrina destroying New Orleans, it was the governor.

2 posts from the end and I was saved from typing exactly what you have typed, I am overjoyed that someone else noticed that it was the governor's fault.

nikki6ixx wrote on Wed, 29 August 2007 20:35

I take issue with him calling some of America's poorest 'stupid' because my life wasn't always peaches and 'Super Nintendo-after-school'.

I'm not sure about yours...

...but I doubt you've ever collected bottles for anything other than a school bottle drive. I guess I used to be 'stupid'.

Calling poor people, 'stupid', is ignorant. I guess all those people in Bangladesh are 'stupid'. China must be full of 'stupid' people too. Hell, Africa must be a whole continent of 'stupid'. I guess all those homeless people on our streets suffering from Schizophrenia and Depression are 'stupid' too, huh?

http://www.brillig.com/debt_clock/

We might have some poor people over here, I'm not sure though.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by ron paul on Wed, 03 Oct 2007 17:06:17 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

bush did katrina, to check this out further check out infowars.com

<(0.0<

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by Jecht on Wed, 03 Oct 2007 17:39:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Bush is also the cause for Bird Flu as well as the T-Virus in Resident Evil.

It's true.

Subject: Re: This should start an argument.
Posted by ron paul on Wed, 03 Oct 2007 21:10:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Jecht wrote on Wed, 03 October 2007 12:39Bush is also the cause for Bird Flu as well as the T-Virus in Resident Evil.

It's true.

finally someone says what we've all been thinking
