I'd laugh if it was really a virus.

OH MY GOD! THIS GAME SUCKS!

1:You are forced to make a XBOX live account = FAIL

You can use the "free XBOX Live" but you can not save your online or really compete unless you pay for it.

2:The camera is way to close to the ground.

3:There is absolutely NO SINGLE PLAYER ANYTHING! They send you straight online so you can get butt fucked in the first 5 minutes before you even figure out what building the power plant is.

I don't want to talk about it anymore.

Petroglyph is Westwood... mostly. After EA dissolved Westwood (those bastards), most of the people who left went and formed Petroglyph. Of course, there are people from other companies, too.

There are all things that usually result from it being a BETA TEST. I don't think they're going to scrap the singleplayer completely for the full game, you're just ecstatic about using a half-finished version.

Eh, typical Sega(y) crap.

Sorry, I don't dig it, at all.

It is horrible because the camera hardly goes high enough to be able to see 3 buildings at the same time. Then the one side has a unit that is so big it literally takes up the entire screen.
