Yeah, Ren2 died when EA shut WW down. There are rumors of a C&C Renegade/Battlefield game on the Cry2 engine but it's not officially confirmed yet (although it has been unofficially confirmed).

So yeah. Lets just hope they don't screw it up like C&C3.

Forget it jamie, it was westwood's renegade 2 plans, not EA's if EA makes another CNC fps I doubt it will be the same as westwood's.

The texture on that Prism tank looks fucking epic, hands down.

I'd much rather play a game with them graphics than something like Crysis..

Base defense in the original Renegade 2 from westwood isnt probably that good, if you think of the prism towers, their just like the obelisk, meaning they can sometimes miss, while the original renegade 1 agt never missed.

We'll see what EA does with Renegade 2, let's hope they don't deviate too much from the original game formula.

O shi, I've never seen those ones. Building destruction animations, better lighting (that alone makes a huge difference from the looks of those shots), etc. That's what Renegade 1 likely WOULD have been, if Westwood weren't rushed and pressured.

Agreed, also I wish we could put that level of vegetation into renegade with out it running like crap. But ya it looks about 2000 times better, to bad EA murdered Westwood.

I think the game itself should have been released to be finished by someone else, such as a different company or someone who is a CNC fan and could finish it with his/her mod team, if the game was released, I bet it would run off old systems and play with good graphics. Renegade was Designed to run off old PC's and it did just fine and looked great, I'm sure a PC with pentium or sempron could easily run the original renegade 2 from westwood.

According to a job listing on the official EA website, the EALA division, in charge of MOH and C&C franchises, is looking for a "sound designer who will work closely with the audio director on creating sound effects, dialog, and music for a next-generation first person shooter game," based on a "widely recognized leading sci-fi franchise." Sequel to C&C Renegade finally back on track ?

UPDATEIn the meantime EA has removed "sci-fi" from the listing...

Well EA did do some justice on CNC3, they stayed with the flow of the story, answered some old questions, created some new ones and started a new twist.

Because they know how dedicated the CNC community is one would hope they would put the same consideration into another FPS for the series, I do hope however they do make it for Red Alert and not Red Alert 2... or take a total jump in a different Direction Red Alert 3 but not as a RTS, you jump straight in as a 60 year old Tanya, HAHA im kidding...

Ya they made plenty of new questions, like what happened to all the mutants that came from tiberium. And in firestorm the tib vegetation was quickly increasing, and then in CNC3 it has all turned into dead sand and holes in the ground. GDI was moving to walking vehicles and then all a sudden, "lets de-advance and go back to crappy treads" And 1000x more.

And don't even get me started on Nod's infantry going Iraqi.

Well if you read the archives in cnc3, it shows all technology except the juggernaut was useless in the next generation of war because nod increased their tech level again.

The Congress or whatever of GDI decided to vote to create new treaded vehicles because of the slow speed of the walkers and their poor low land combat. Havoc voted against this, but heck the whole entire committee voted for new tech.

yea.....I think they only made stealth gens visible just to be fair, because if there really was nothing there or just looked like nothing, you'd ignore it, so I guess they want you to know the base IS THERE, but you cant tell what your going to attack since everything is cloaked until you blow the generator.

True, but you also said why dont we have sensors for stealth units? There are in cnc3, just tell orcas to drop sensor pods everywhere on the map and if a enemy stealth unit comes near it, they will be revealed.

I guess I didn't remember that, I usually play as Nod (beat the single player and then when straight back to my Nod heritage).

Ya, I prefer nod too, but if i get scrin or gdi from random, I know how to use them too. Theres also the orca sensor pod upgrade which when flying, they themselves will detect stealth units, I think it is stupid to have that upgrade when for free you can drop sensor pods that stay there until destroyed.
