whew.....when i dragged them back over i accidently dragged them into the editorchace folder came close to a heart attack thenow if i edit the presets without temping say i change a spawn weapon to something else i can't save to .mix? now if i don't use that preset will this still effect saving to .mix or, do i have to change everything back to the original state even if i dont use that preset?and i had all my textures in a folder inside my mod folder should i drag all the textures out to the mod folder?

I have a tutorial on creating Temp presets for spawners and how to do it correctly so that you can mod them and get them working, i'll send it to some hosts tomorrow so you can use it. I am also writing other tutorials, i sent one that wasn't mine but i converted to html format to it's owner and he may decide to release it. If you want me to write a tutorial just ask me here and i'll do it as long as i know how to do what your asking me.

ive added stuff in the past but i TEMPED everything that exists in my map....Do i have to delete all the w3d files ive ADDED(but arent in the map)?Alsoif i changed the name of an object would that cause the .mix to crash when it's loading??I thought the .mix would work but the objects would be missing if they were modded???I PM you General Havoc
