Westwood studios no longer exists.

They were phased out and rolled into the redwood city campus in California.

Currently our only contact with Umbrella Corporation, er....I mean EA is through APOC on the forums linked above.

Stop being nub, and google it, I found their email and contact adrsses in 5 minutes of research, google it, or go to the forums, plus they already have a forum, goztow posted it and he wasnt joking, so why make one when a offical forums made by EA themselves exist, plus if you register there, you can contact a few people that work for EA.

Theres tons of communities for the older games, even xwis is one, people talk about all the old cnc games there, if you make another forum, not many people will know about it and just take it as another forum, no one can make a "offical" forum but either EA, or XWIS. and they both exist.
