1. You didn't refresh the listings...
2. You were already logged in as that name, and the bot couldnt host while you were logged in...

3. You have a object.ddb mod that's keeping the bot from hosting.
  4. ldk, you're screwed.

objects.ddb mod most likely. If you have a different objects.ddb, it will refuse your connection.

1. Did
2. Hosted under DthHOST played as Dthdealer
3. Yes, i do have a modded version
4. Yes

Do i just rename the objects to objects.aow then change line 54 in ssgm.ini to ObjectsFile=aow?

Woot, works.

But now renegade crashes after i join...
Help? I "lose connection" according to the fds window

Something must be wrong on the client side.

You're running LuaPlugin V2 and you have the sockets module being used to connect to IRC. The clients will crash after the socket times out. And then shortly after the clients crash, the FDS'll crash. I know this doesn't help with the original question, but it will help you in the future.

i have not setup an IRC channel.
How can i get the socket to be replaced with a socket opened for longer or keep the original opened for longer?
My fds doesn't crash at all. Only Renegade.

Also there's no game-name on WOL listings for my game.

Urimas wrote on Sat, 20 October 2007 08:51 Well I never was good at rotors besides there a minor flaw.
Any servers up using this mod? my router prevents others joining mine

I am running via a router with a hardware firewall. Could this be my problem?
Yet i was able to get it to work when i had first tried it ages ago.

Fixed the name bug, error on the line of text in server.ini.
The crash bug had to do with C&C_complex.mix as i had server-sided it.
All i did was put the .idd in the fds data directory and put the objects.ddb (now objects.gm) in there too as well as changing the ssgm.ini settings for the (gm) file format.

lol none have downloaded the file.
"I NO LONGER HAVE TROJAN.VUNDO" virus scanning it would still be recommended though
