Yeah, we need to have 1 solid site to have all Renegade skins. There are too many sites out there all having the same skins but with a few different ones.

So, even after you think that you have seen it all, you are still missing some good skins!

obviously www.fpsbanana.com

all ren skins are scattered all over the web and need to be organized in one place

That's why we have <http://www.game-maps.net> which is already very well known in the Renegade community and is trusted by the users.

FPS IS trusted, They just fucked there site up since they support probably every game ever made, So searching for skins is a pain in the ass.

I liked it when it was small and supported Source games.

posting on month old posts but game maps is still missing skins found on other sites especially freewebs and homemade/clan kinda deals. fpsb is more organized kinda because theyu actually have some categories rather than all the skins in random order (other than by name)
