question for elite officer.

You said that the computer that has the cheats doesn't connect to the internet so you couldn't use them.

Well, if the computer can't connect to the internet, then how did you get the cheats/skins in the first place? You most likely downloaded them from another computer with connection to the internet and moved the files manually, correct?

So if that is what you did, whose to say that you don't have those cheats on a Renegade that can play online?

Not to accuse you of actually cheating or anything...
