Good luck. And no, I'm not saying you're going to have problems. Or that you shouldn't of had the kid. You're just young, so it'll be a bit harder.

One of my friends had a kid about your age. I talked to him at a gig tonight. He's 20 now, and his kid's 3. He's doing good. He's making 27 an hour in an OK job at a Mercedes dealership. He even has $6,000 saved for his kid's college fees. His kid motivated him. The only thing he seemed to complain about is that he can't get out as much as he would like to.

Depends how you look at it, people "think" it's socially wrong, but physically, its actually good for the baby.

Good luck, don't play too much Renegade now.

And don't give all the responsibility to your parents or your kid will end us calling them Papa.

Full time? What about school? Dont you think its better to stay in school, and get payed 30+$/hour vs 7$/hour? Some people would say your being selfish, not giving the baby up for adoption, knowing fully well, that you would not be able to provide for this baby. I know about hamilton, I know about 17 year old's working full time jobs, and that certainly isnt the life I'd want to grow up in if i was that baby. Your choice tho, congratz.

The words flamerush or medrush are too complicated for a baby to say, Command and Conquer Renegade would be better.

Congrats! Cryalot or a sleepalot?
P.S. Make sure they know how to frag someone online before they are 3.
Otherwise it would be a disgrace lol, bah just kidding. 1 is a better age

Yeah when they are that young swaddling is the best way to keep them quiet. They just came out of a warm, quiet, dark and cramped environment into a cold, harsh, loud, bright and very big world.....so they like comforts that remind them of the womb when they are very small.
Congratulations to you and your g/f he's a beauty (not more so than my kids-but I am biassed)

Best of luck to you and do not worry about anything, as long as your baby is loved, protected and kept safe he will love you. He hasn't got the ideals of material possessions in his head yet and as long as you raise him to understand love and family trump money and possession you'll always be loved in return.

In other words ignore trooprm02.
