like the guys we often kill in renegade and shit, what if our whole lives are actually just a part of a computer program, or a video game, or even someone's dream?

what if?

What if people stopped asking this question and using it as plots in movies or books?

Wow...we can only dream.

Hell we are in the matrix.
Look at Zombie Snails.
Evolutions couldn't have invented that!

What is real?

If real is what we see, hear, taste, touch and smell, then real is just electrical signals interpreted by the brain.

while playing the sims i encountered this problem, what if we are a plaything of some mad dood making us do random thingys? and what if we are in the matrix? if we were, then the machines would have controll over everything that exists in the matrix, and would never allow the movie to exist, thus eliminating any suspicion of its exsistance. thus we wouldnt know about it, and this thread wouldnt exist, and so it cant be real, unless the machines know we will think this way, and release the movie to make us think they never would do it, and so train of thought crashes into the sputnik DAMN YOU A.D.D!!!!
