Why is the compass above the ammo and not above the radar (the S)?

If I make a cool looking HUD that will make you better and make it easier to see people on the radar, and release it, can I be as cool as you?

To cut down costs, after the Second Tiberium War (TS), they basically believed Nod to be gone and had bigger things to worry about (Tiberium), so they reverted back to treaded vehicles.

FAIL.

No because EA didn't feel like animating its legs because they are lazy bastards so they just make it a normal lame ass tank.

Nice assumption, I own neither game. That's still wrong since they have to animate the legs.

It's true, the mammoth tank might be pretty, but if I want to look at it, I'll download a wallpaper of it.

And what's up with the resolution specific config files? I have not tried to create one myself, but the bhs.txt manual says the following:

Quote:Any time you are setting a screen position (e.g. HealthXPos), if you pass a negative number, it will move that many units in from the bottom right of the screen, otherwise it moves from the top left of the screen)

This is so you can build HUDs with items in bottom and left corners whilst remaining independant of screen resolution.

Is it a flat out lie or did just noone bother to work this way yet?

Nod icon needs to be moved further to the right or the GDI moved further in towards the text.

The tank and orca images are making it look gay, would look better without.

Replacing them with a tiberium look be cool.
