I know some people that chuckle their head off when alcohol tested.

They hadn't had a single drop.

I've been on both sides. Pulled over stupid drunk off my ass (I know .. I was young and dumb). The cop let me go for reason that I will never understand and always be very thankful for. Then there was the time I hadn't had a single drop and the cop was certain I had been drinking. Even after I blew a .000 he still insisted. He finally gave up and let me go.

Don't drink and drive... for fuck's sake that's about the fucking stupidest thing you can do. I don't understand you people who do that shit... I have a couple of friends who got caught for drinking and driving and went and stayed in Tent City and everything and they still haven't learned their lessons. You should be GLAD the police stop you instead of stopping because you just plowed into a sober driver and killed them.

What type of scooter do you own? I'm looking for an old vespa px150, those are too cool compared to the new ones which make people look stupid when riding, the old small thin ones made of real steel were the real bikes back in the 70's.

So uh... explain to me... How could you "unhide" yourself on the internet? I really don't think it's worth going out and meeting you in reality just to argue.
