I have a Mac. But don't I need a Mac version of Renegade?

I am asking because my only decent desktop I have is this Mac. And I am tired of playing Renegade all these times in the lousy laptops.

If no, then is there a Mac version of Renegade?

Use Parallels or VMWare Fusion (requires a Windows install), that's the only way AFAIK.

Doesn't mac already come with something like that or you can get it for free Bootcamp I think it is but to use the other os you have to reboot but still it's FREE.

Yes it does, but VMWare Fusion/Parallels lets you run Windows at the same time as you're running OS X.

Who said anything about money? Nah, I'm kidding. If you don't feel like spending the money then get an XP/Vista disc and use Bootcamp instead.

Yeah, I think that seems to be the solution. I can't spend any money right now on this because I am saving it all to buy a good computer in a few months time to keep up with today's games.

Anyway, this solves my problem. I think I will get Bootcamp and yes, I already have my own copy of Win XP and Vista. But I prefer XP for this.

Thank you Ethenal and Lone for your great help!

IMPORTANT NEW QUESTION! Please READ!

I am writing it here so I don't need to create a new topic.

OK, as some of you may know, my Renegade laptop fell and the hard disk was completely damaged. I get the blue screen at the XP load screen. This was 5 weeks ago and I have not been playing Renegade online since then....which is why I wanted to play on the Mac.

Anyway, ALL my Renegade files, skins, and even other documents were all lost. The data is gone.

So now I am going to install Renegade on my Mac. My question is will all my nicks "Starbuzz" and others show up in this new Renegade?

I hope it does. I think it should because it is registered at XWIS no?
