I was a mod for gamerz0ne for quite a while. It was a good starting experience to be a moderator. However, I was wrong i found out the dark side of gz.

I started a suggestion in the moderator section about some TH rules. Everyone in the server kept getting annoyed by the number of TH during that time. Then, Luna calls me an idiot as a response. Few days later, he insulted the whole moderating team being an idiot, even those who supported him. And the worst part is that he takes up on the suggestion and pretend like nothing ever happened. Oh and it gets worser, he fired me and some other people from the mod team without any reason.

So now you know...

I was a mod on Gamerz0ne for quite some time, especially when I was interested in Marathon servers again.

After several dicussions with their server admins, which went no-where I left out of frustration. I just put more time into modding on the n00bstories servers which don't have a 20 step moderator hierarchy.

What kind of mod can't even switch a player from one team to another...

You's all bitch time and time again, yet you's continue to come back to our server. Way to second guess yourselves. If you don't like the way we run things, don't come to us, isn't that simple.

As for the Modlist being deleted, that was a founder choice, not an owner choice. Know the story before you run your pathetic mouth.

What story? there was no story, there is no topic or post that the public could see that would explain the reason, FnFall didn't explain to me why I was removed and I didn't see anyone else knowing why they was removed, players like Sizz and Tiger, what the fuck did they do to deserve to be kicked from the modteam.

True, but unbanning a cheater who obviously used some kind of RoF cheat is logic? I forgot the name, but when i still was a mod, he unbanned a guy who then recently got banned for RoF cheat (killing vechs really fast with a raveshaw).
