Yes I am serious.

If I wasn't serious... I wouldn't of said that. What is he famous for?

You have never heard of him...so his death does not matter to you.

I liked him more for his role in the movie The Patriot.

I just read about this too and I am honestly shocked.

For an actor his name never really came up all that much in a negative fashion.

He just finished shooting the new Batman movie which looks kickass.

Seriously dude, show some respect. I would hardly call him my favorite actor but I did like him in Knights Tale and sprinkled throughout other roles. The only person I thought would need some killing is Will Ferrel...I hated that man for so long...ruining every single movie he touches...HOWEVER, he seems to be turning it around, slightly.

I swear to god is Owen Wilson kills himself before doing a new Ghostbusters....Bah!!! Bah I say!!

Sir Kane wrote on Wed, 23 January 2008 04:49 If he took drugs, he deserved to die.

The current understanding is that he accidentally took an overdose of sleeping pills and died in his sleep. They found a couple pills lying next to him. He was lying face-down.

An autopsy is scheduled for today; so we will know what went wrong by evening.

I can't believe he is gone. He was so young and at the height of his career. Ten years ago, he was 18 years old! That's young.

Don't worry, they finished filming it already.

And I highly doubt it was an accident. They said there was a bottle of sleeping pills on the floor next to his naked body. I'm sure he was just having trouble getting to sleep, on the floor, naked.

It's strange when someone the same age as me dies. The celebrity I wish would die the most is Mariah Carey and Britney Spears is a close second.

Why is it the people who actually have talent die from this bullshit, and idiots like Fred Durst are still alive?

It's a real shame, because Ledger was actually a very good actor.
