Tiberium gameplay is being shown on TV tonight. Here are pictures I took. Sorry if some are blurry. They are moving the camera around a lot ingame and it's hard to take a picture of.

What do you mean being "shown on TV?"

Elaborate. Why, what channel, for what reason?

Last pictures.

Apparently Tiberium is being released sometime this year on PC, PS3, and Xbox360.

They never said much about the multiplayer except that it's squad based and it's called "conquer" mode. Also, there are no live action cutscenes, it's all rendered.

But hey, at least they mentioned Renegade in the interview once or twice.

Oh god, I sure hope it is rendered. In an FPS where everything is CG, live action FMVs would make the player all WTF?!

Seems like the only HUD is the bottom right health indicator.

Which is quite alright with me- I hate it when games have 57495647967497694 different things on the screen. There's more shit on the screen than actual gameplay stuff.

I would grow a vagina solely to have the children of whoever created that video.

Seriously. 100%.

(Not really. But I do love them.)
