
Subject: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Mon, 28 Jan 2008 03:37:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I've always wondered how can so many christians place so much faith in a mystical man that lived 2000 years ago? What if jesus was just the greatest magician ever? I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurences all the time.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by R315r4z0r on Mon, 28 Jan 2008 04:07:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

He was hung on a cross for days until he died.

He was later disposed of, and came back to life.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by nikki6ixx on Mon, 28 Jan 2008 04:08:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

...And because of that, we get presents and candy.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by R315r4z0r on Mon, 28 Jan 2008 04:09:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Well, duh. What else should we be doing?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by nikki6ixx on Mon, 28 Jan 2008 04:11:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

R315r4z0r wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 23:09Well, duh. What else should we be doing?

I dunno. Crusading? I've got a pitchfork, and a monkey wrench in my garage.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by trooprm02 on Mon, 28 Jan 2008 06:24:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 21:37 I've always wondered how can so many christians place so much faith in a mystical man that lived 2000 years ago? What if jesus was just the greatest magician ever? I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurences all the time.

LOL. Funniest thing ive read in a while, keep em comin

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by cnc95fan on Mon, 28 Jan 2008 16:27:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 21:37 I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurences all the time. Back then? How do you know people mistaked "ordinary things" for "godly occurences"? The whole "Big Bang Theorey" is not an ordinary thing. Nor is the creation of life, on one planet, out of many.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Mon, 28 Jan 2008 18:53:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

cnc95fan wrote on Mon, 28 January 2008 10:27 How do you know people mistaked "ordinary things" for "godly occurences"?

We know because recorded history tells us that the ancients had a "god" for pretty much everything. The sun god, moon god, sea god, thunder god, lightning god...I can go on for days. Pretty much everything "ordinary" were seen as "godly occurences."

We as a human race, even now, are discovering new things around us.

cnc95fan wrote on Mon, 28 January 2008 10:27 Nor is the creation of life, on one planet, out of many.

We don't know for sure if this is the only planet with life.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Mon, 28 Jan 2008 21:22:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm Jesus.

Hi people! God gave me a message to pass to you guys.

Quote:Message starts:

To people,

You all suck!

God.

Message ends:

Good day.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Goztow on Wed, 30 Jan 2008 12:07:58 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

You also believe that your father is your father without a DNA test, don't you?

Same case.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by SSADMVR on Wed, 30 Jan 2008 12:50:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I believe my father is my father because he told me he is my father. God never told me he is god.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by GEORGE ZIMMER on Wed, 30 Jan 2008 14:00:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Goztow wrote on Wed, 30 January 2008 06:07 You also believe that your father is your father without a DNA test, don't you?

Same case.

I am a Christian, though I must say that this is a bad analogy if you're a Christian, too.

If you meant it as a "He could very well not exist, because you have no conclusive evidence to prove it", then nevermind it being a bad analogy.

As for Jesus, it just seems too unlikely that he's a completely made up person. Whether he's the "son of God" and all that is up for debate I suppose, but I do beleive that a pretty much perfect person had once lived amongst us, and was persecuted for it.

Even in todays society, perfection is unattainable through human form. Everyone knows this, even though some people wish to beleive that's not true, they still know it.

Humanity has a habit of hating people better than them.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Goztow on Wed, 30 Jan 2008 15:53:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What I mean is that there's faith. In one case there's faith in your father, a human person; in the other case there's faith in God, not a human person.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Wed, 30 Jan 2008 17:27:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

File Attachments

1) Friendzowned-222.bmp, downloaded 273 times

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by bisen11 on Thu, 31 Jan 2008 06:18:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

SSADMVR wrote on Wed, 30 January 2008 07:50I believe my father is my father because he told me he is my father. God never told me he is god.

My father never told me that. Although it's possible he did when I was a baby in which case I don't remember it. Perhaps God did the same.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Thu, 31 Jan 2008 18:35:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

bisen11 wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 00:18SSADMVR wrote on Wed, 30 January 2008 07:50I believe my father is my father because he told me he is my father. God never told me he is god.

My father never told me that. Although it's possible he did when I was a baby in which case I don't remember it. Perhaps God did the same.

I beg to differ.

Humans have always wanted a purpose in and for their lives. If you think outside of it (like me) for instance, the outlook looks pretty bleak...you die and all that you lived for means nothing: all those clothes, houses, cars, jobs, passions, ambitions, and loved ones mean nothing but sh*t.

Humans have over centuries always found a "purpose" for their lives to explain the emptiness they feel. This is why religion was and is present through history. From the Harappans to the Egyptians to the Mesopotamians and so on...all had religion embedded within their cultures.

I have talked to many religious people who say that that ability of humans to think of a "greater being" was "wired" into us by "God." This is a mistaken assumption that ignores history, science, and culture.

Just as Jesus and Mohammad are the "big guys" today, there was a time when Horus, Zeus, Athena and all the gods upon gods ever invented were a dominant part of their respective societies.

My laughs are saved for those who claim to know which god is "real" because recorded history gives a much clearer and more honest picture. People must understand that the human mind is weak...it is perhaps a flaw that comes with a highly evolved ability to reason.

People seriously should think critically about the issue and look for other sources of reliable information IF they are ever in doubt.

Which is why I unconditionally agreed with Muad's statements below. It makes perfect sense, fully logical and compliments recorded human history which everyone is very happy to ignore.

Muad Dib15 wrote on Thu, 24 January 2008 12:49 Who cares if man is flawed and needs false hope. Me, I couldn't live without religion because, then I would feel that my life is worthless and there really is no point to living. Because I really don't think that humans should live just to die 80 years later. What is the point? That is why I believe that there is something up there after we die, just waiting for us. Scientists say that what makes us different from other beings is that we can reason. That may be so, but what if the real reason we are different from animals is that we have a code set down by us that says that we must do this, this, and this, and not this to go someplace better.

I don't know about you, but I'd like to think that there is someplace better than this sin-ridden world. And that is why I believe in Christ. Even if it is a false hope, I'd rather think and hope that, than to know that there really is no point to me and my existence being here.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Jamie or NuneGa on Thu, 31 Jan 2008 21:46:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 21:37 I've always wondered how can so many christians place so much faith in a mystical man that lived 2000 years ago? What if jesus was just the greatest magician ever? I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurrences all the time.

simply they believe it due to faith...

Personally I wish my mind wasn't so science driven so I could believe in the after life and all that. You may criticise their beliefs but it helps them live their lives...

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Thu, 31 Jan 2008 23:35:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

NuneGa wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 15:46Rocko wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 21:37I've always wondered how can so many christians place so much faith in a mystical man that lived 2000 years ago? What if jesus was just the greatest magician ever? I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurences all the time.

simply they believe it due to faith...

Personally I wish my mind wasn't so science driven so I could believe in the after life and all that. You may criticise their beliefs but it helps them live their lives...

I could not agree more with you on that, my friend.

I feel the same exact way. I wish many times that I had not read that many books and I sometimes wish I could be a religious person.

Religion creates a supernatural entity that we as humans can put our trust in so we can go on in our life while being one step-ahead of the uncertainties we may face.

I can relate to this and give literally hundreds of examples. When I was a Christian and I got on an airplane, a small prayer to my (former) Savior Jesus Christ would alleviate any fears. It took the weight off my chest and gave me strength. I could actually relax! I am sure most religious people say a prayer when getting on an airplane.

But the same experience as an Atheist was not so pleasant. When I got on an airplane in 2005, I felt...there is no words to really describe what or how I felt.

I felt empty, on-my-own, and was not so confident. I just thought maybe we got a good pilot and the mechanics took care of the airplane. See what I mean? The difference? The incident does not prove "God" exists or not in anyway but it does highlight the weakness of the human mind and the necessity of religion as a means of survival.

Eitherway, since my head is so full of Science, there is pretty much no chance of me going back to religion since it is physically/emotionally impossible due to too much knowledge. It feels weird now when I try to say a prayer.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Thu, 31 Jan 2008 23:59:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I see religion as nothing more than:

- A. A tool used over the ages to control people.
- B. A safety net to make humans feel good about themselves.

I wish I could believe in an eternal nirvana....Sigh.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 01:48:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 17:59 I see religion as nothing more than:

- A. A tool used over the ages to control people.
- B. A safety net to make humans feel good about themselves.

I wish I could believe in an eternal nirvana....Sigh.

Why don't you? Why can't you believe that there is something greater than all of us out there? Go to church once and you'd be suprised at how the day you go, they talk about something that is happening in your life right then. It's amazing.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 04:41:02 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 18:48 MWright967 wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 17:59 I see religion as nothing more than:

- A. A tool used over the ages to control people.
- B. A safety net to make humans feel good about themselves.

I wish I could believe in an eternal nirvana....Sigh.

Why don't you? Why can't you believe that there is something greater than all of us out there? Go to church once and you'd be suprised at how the day you go, they talk about something that is happening in your life right then. It's amazing.

If you think about it, god creates all of us. God puts us through pain and suffering. Then god destroys us in a fiery maelstrom. I would never believe in or worship such a so called "loving" entity.

Another little fact I find interesting...It says in the bible that God creates man in his image, and essentially, programs each human uniquely to serve a purpose in his grand scheme. Which means when a robber kills an old lady for her purse, god made it so, to aid in his grand plan. Then that robber goes to hell fires. He predestines humans to be damned for eternity to blazing painful flames? So loving is he.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 05:57:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright touches on some of the many flaws and mistakes that are in the Bible.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 06:03:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 23:57MWright touches on some of the many flaws and mistakes that are in the Bible.

Lets not forget my favorite: How it says in the story of Kane and Abel, that God places a mark on Kane, and WHOEVER curses him shall be cursed themselves for all eternity. Interesting, considering there are only supposed to be 3 humans alive.

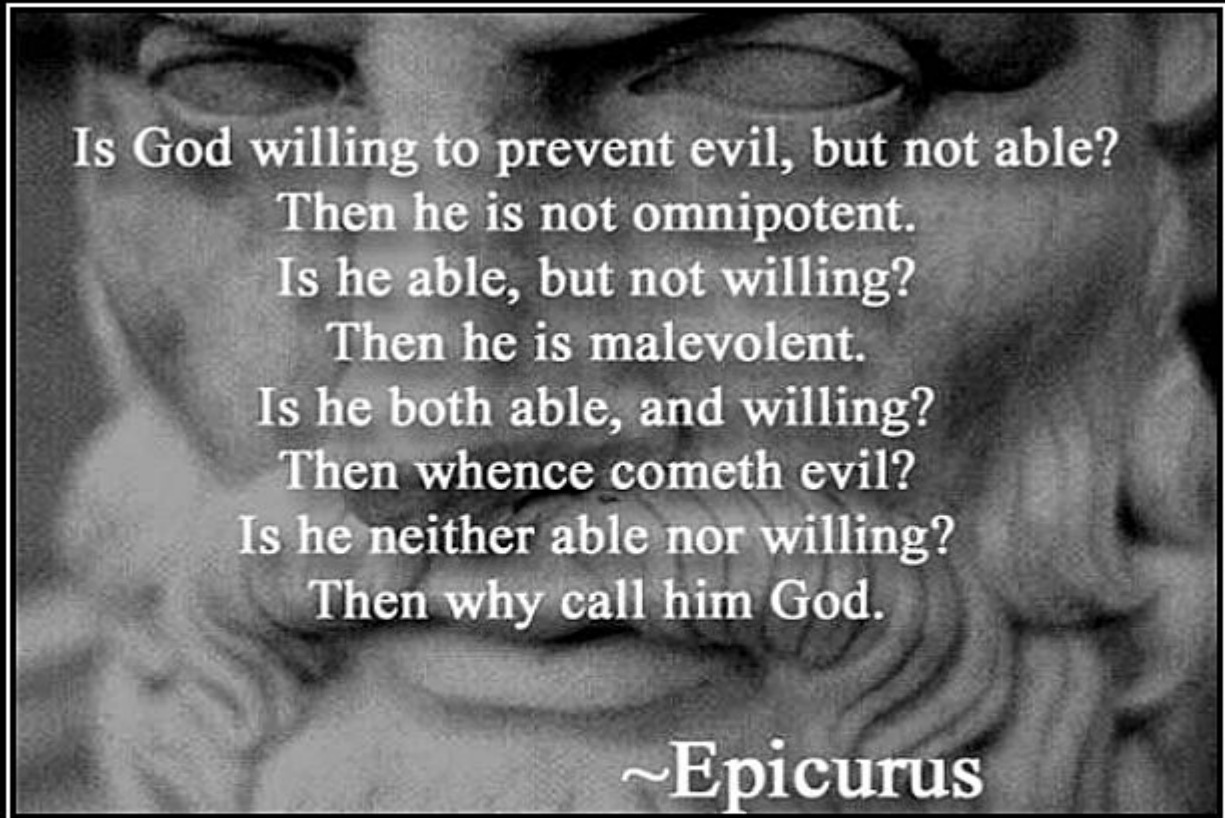

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Muad Dib15 on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 11:59:39 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

No, its who ever kills him shall be cursed for all eternity. All it says after that, is that God sends Kane to the land of nod where he built up brother hood, maybe that is why Kane has never died.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 12:55:23 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

File Attachments

1) 071208_epicurius.jpg, downloaded 674 times

ATHEISTS

Winning since 33 A.D.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 18:26:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Good one, Iron!

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 18:48:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yeah, I do like that image, it speaks the truth, though I'm Agnostic now.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 18:52:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 12:48 Yeah, I do like that image, it speaks the truth, though I'm Agnostic now.

Me too...I think Agnostic is a better term to describe myself.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Muad Dib15 on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 21:16:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 22:41 Sn1per74* wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 18:48 MWright967 wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 17:59 I see religion as nothing more than:

A. A tool used over the ages to control people.

B. A safety net to make humans feel good about themselves.

I wish I could believe in an eternal nirvana....Sigh.

Why don't you? Why can't you believe that there is something greater than all of us out there? Go to church once and you'd be suprised at how the day you go, they talk about something that is happening in your life right then. It's amazing.

If you think about it, god creates all of us. God puts us through pain and suffering. Then god destroys us in a fiery maelstrom. I would never believe in or worship such a so called "loving" entity.

Another little fact I find interesting...It says in the bible that God creates man in his image, and essentially, programms each human uniquely to serve a purpose in his grand scheme. Which means when a robber kills an old lady for her purse, god made it so, to aid in his grand plan. Then that robber goes to hell fires. He predestines humans to be damned for eternity to blazing painful flames? So loving is he.

Think free will. He said that we can do what ever we want. Thats what people don't seem to understand. If we choose to kill someone, He can't do anything about it until we die.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Fri, 01 Feb 2008 22:18:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 15:16 MWright967 wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 22:41 Sn1per74* wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 18:48 MWright967 wrote on Thu, 31 January 2008 17:59 I see religion as nothing more than:

A. A tool used over the ages to control people.

B. A safety net to make humans feel good about themselves.

I wish I could believe in an eternal nirvana....Sigh.

Why don't you? Why can't you believe that there is something greater than all of us out there? Go to church once and you'd be suprised at how the day you go, they talk about something that is happening in your life right then. It's amazing.

If you think about it, god creates all of us. God puts us through pain and suffering. Then god destroys us in a fiery maelstrom. I would never believe in or worship such a so called "loving" entity.

Another little fact I find interesting...It says in the bible that God creates man in his image, and essentially, programms each human uniquely to serve a purpose in his grand scheme. Which means when a robber kills an old lady for her purse, god made it so, to aid in his grand plan. Then that robber goes to hell fires. He predestines humans to be damned for eternity to blazing painful flames? So loving is he.

Think free will. He said that we can do what ever we want. Thats what people don't seem to understand. If we choose to kill someone, He can't do anything about it until we die.

Humans don't have free will. They were created in God's visage, and God knows and sees all. Therefore he sees the robber kill the lady before it ever happens, but does nothing to prevent it because its part of his grand plan. Not exactly my kind of god.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Muad Dib15 on Sat, 02 Feb 2008 01:48:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Chimp on Sat, 02 Feb 2008 04:45:58 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Sat, 02 Feb 2008 06:00:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Sat, 02 Feb 2008 06:43:39 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:00MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Take it from someone whose actually read the better portion of the bible. He creates man in his image. He said it himself. Which means that God created cruel creatures, and is thus himself cruel. One of the many flaws of the bible.

He gave us free will, according to you. Which means we can do as we wish. Okay. He still KNOWS ITS GOING TO HAPPEN AND LETS IT HAPPEN. Guess what? If you know that someone is going to be murdered, but you don't do anything about it, you're held accountable. Why? Because the law dictates it so. God knows these things are going to happen, and thus he himself is accountable. He is the law and he dictates it that way.

You COMPLETELY skip over the entire example of the apocalypse. I find it funny how it says in the bible "This will happen, and this will happen, and that will happen...". Someone has to cause these things to happen. If Bush were to cause the apocalypse, its BUSH. A HUMAN. DOING IT. Already foretold and prophesized by God. Which means he purposely created Bush, or altered Bush in some way, to fulfill the prophecy. Please attempt to take the cork out of your ears and understand that according to the bible, God really isn't giving humans free will. And if he is, in some twisted way? Hes a pretty sick fuck for letting so much bad crap happen.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Sat, 02 Feb 2008 07:22:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 12:52IronWarrior wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 12:48Yeah, I do like that image, it speaks the truth, though I'm Agnostic now.

Me too...I think Agnostic is a better term to describe myself.

I'm glad there is a other one who believes like I do, shame the world can't join in, it would be alot more peaceful.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Dave Anderson on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 04:46:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Edit: nevermind.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 06:19:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:43Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:00MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Take it from someone whose actually read the better portion of the bible. He creates man in his image. He said it himself. Which means that God created cruel creatures, and is thus himself cruel. One of the many flaws of the bible.

He gave us free will, according to you. Which means we can do as we wish. Okay. He still KNOWS ITS GOING TO HAPPEN AND LETS IT HAPPEN. Guess what? If you know that someone is going to be murdered, but you don't do anything about it, you're held accountable. Why? Because the law dictates it so. God knows these things are going to happen, and thus he himself is accountable. He is the law and he dictates it that way.

You COMPLETELY skip over the entire example of the apocalypse. I find it funny how it says in the bible "This will happen, and this will happen, and that will happen...". Someone has to cause these things to happen. If Bush were to cause the apocalypse, its BUSH. A HUMAN. DOING IT. Already foretold and prophesized by God. Which means he purposely created Bush, or altered Bush in some way, to fulfill the prophecy. Please attempt to take the cork out of your ears and understand that according to the bible, God really isn't giving humans free will. And if he is, in some twisted way? Hes a pretty sick fuck for letting so much bad crap happen.

The apocalypse will be when Jesus comes back to earth and judges who will go to heaven or not. So they apocalypse isn't a bad thing if you think about it...

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 06:50:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

LMFAO ^

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Chimp on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 06:56:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:19MWright967 wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:43Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:00MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Take it from someone whose actually read the better portion of the bible. He creates man in his image. He said it himself. Which means that God created cruel creatures, and is thus himself cruel. One of the many flaws of the bible.

He gave us free will, according to you. Which means we can do as we wish. Okay. He still KNOWS ITS GOING TO HAPPEN AND LETS IT HAPPEN. Guess what? If you know that someone is going to be murdered, but you don't do anything about it, you're held accountable. Why? Because the law dictates it so. God knows these things are going to happen, and thus he himself is accountable. He is the law and he dictates it that way.

You COMPLETELY skip over the entire example of the apocalypse. I find it funny how it says in the bible "This will happen, and this will happen, and that will happen...". Someone has to cause these things to happen. If Bush were to cause the apocalypse, its BUSH. A HUMAN. DOING IT. Already foretold and prophesized by God. Which means he purposely created Bush, or altered Bush in some way, to fulfill the prophecy. Please attempt to take the cork out of your ears and understand that according to the bible, God really isn't giving humans free will. And if he is, in some twisted way? Hes a pretty sick fuck for letting so much bad crap happen.

The apocalypse will be when Jesus comes back to earth and judges who will go to heaven or not. So they apocalypse isn't a bad thing if you think about it...

I lol'ed.

File Attachments

1) SHITFORUMWHEEL1.bmp, downloaded 180 times

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 16:04:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:56Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:19MWright967 wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:43Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:00MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Take it from someone whose actually read the better portion of the bible. He creates man in his image. He said it himself. Which means that God created cruel creatures, and is thus himself cruel. One of the many flaws of the bible.

He gave us free will, according to you. Which means we can do as we wish. Okay. He still KNOWS ITS GOING TO HAPPEN AND LETS IT HAPPEN. Guess what? If you know that someone is going to be murdered, but you don't do anything about it, you're held accountable. Why? Because the law dictates it so. God knows these things are going to happen, and thus he himself is accountable. He is the law and he dictates it that way.

You COMPLETELY skip over the entire example of the apocalypse. I find it funny how it says in the bible "This will happen, and this will happen, and that will happen...". Someone has to cause these things to happen. If Bush were to cause the apocalypse, its BUSH. A HUMAN. DOING IT. Already foretold and prophesized by God. Which means he purposely created Bush, or altered Bush in some way, to fulfill the prophecy. Please attempt to take the cork out of your ears and understand that according to the bible, God really isn't giving humans free will. And if he is, in some twisted way? Hes a pretty sick fuck for letting so much bad crap happen.

The apocalypse will be when Jesus comes back to earth and judges who will go to heaven or not. So they apocalypse isn't a bad thing if you think about it...

I lol'ed.

Is it necessary to laugh at what I believe?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 17:44:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 08:04MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:56Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:19MWright967 wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:43Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:00MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Take it from someone whose actually read the better portion of the bible. He creates man in his image. He said it himself. Which means that God created cruel creatures, and is thus himself cruel. One of the many flaws of the bible.

He gave us free will, according to you. Which means we can do as we wish. Okay. He still KNOWS ITS GOING TO HAPPEN AND LETS IT HAPPEN. Guess what? If you know that someone is going to be murdered, but you don't do anything about it, you're held accountable. Why? Because the law dictates it so. God knows these things are going to happen, and thus he himself is accountable. He is the law and he dictates it that way.

You COMPLETELY skip over the entire example of the apocalypse. I find it funny how it says in the bible "This will happen, and this will happen, and that will happen...". Someone has to cause these things to happen. If Bush were to cause the apocalypse, its BUSH. A HUMAN. DOING IT. Already foretold and prophesized by God. Which means he purposely created Bush, or altered Bush in some way, to fulfill the prophecy. Please attempt to take the cork out of your ears and understand that according to the bible, God really isn't giving humans free will. And if he is, in some twisted way? Hes a pretty sick fuck for letting so much bad crap happen.

The apocalypse will be when Jesus comes back to earth and judges who will go to heaven or not. So they apocalypse isn't a bad thing if you think about it...

I lol'ed.

Is it necessary to laugh at what I believe?

In this case. Yes.

File Attachments

1) idk1101.bmp, downloaded 150 times

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Dover on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 17:48:08 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 08:04MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:56Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:19MWright967 wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:43Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:00MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Take it from someone whose actually read the better portion of the bible. He creates man in his image. He said it himself. Which means that God created cruel creatures, and is thus himself cruel. One of the many flaws of the bible.

He gave us free will, according to you. Which means we can do as we wish. Okay. He still KNOWS ITS GOING TO HAPPEN AND LETS IT HAPPEN. Guess what? If you know that someone is going to be murdered, but you don't do anything about it, you're held accountable. Why? Because the law dictates it so. God knows these things are going to happen, and thus he himself is accountable. He is the law and he dictates it that way.

You COMPLETELY skip over the entire example of the apocalypse. I find it funny how it says in the bible "This will happen, and this will happen, and that will happen...". Someone has to cause these things to happen. If Bush were to cause the apocalypse, its BUSH. A HUMAN. DOING IT. Already foretold and prophesized by God. Which means he purposely created Bush, or altered Bush in some way, to fulfill the prophecy. Please attempt to take the cork out of your ears and understand that according to the bible, God really isn't giving humans free will. And if he is, in some twisted way? Hes a pretty sick fuck for letting so much bad crap happen.

The apocalypse will be when Jesus comes back to earth and judges who will go to heaven or not. So they apocalypse isn't a bad thing if you think about it...

I lol'ed.

Is it necessary to laugh at what I believe?

Not to be a dick or anything...

...But what you believe is pretty silly.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 17:50:05 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Dover wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 11:48Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 08:04MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:56Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:19MWright967 wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:43Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:00MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Take it from someone whose actually read the better portion of the bible. He creates man in his image. He said it himself. Which means that God created cruel creatures, and is thus himself cruel. One of the many flaws of the bible.

He gave us free will, according to you. Which means we can do as we wish. Okay. He still KNOWS ITS GOING TO HAPPEN AND LETS IT HAPPEN. Guess what? If you know that someone is going to be murdered, but you don't do anything about it, you're held accountable. Why? Because the law dictates it so. God knows these things are going to happen, and thus he himself is accountable. He is the law and he dictates it that way.

You COMPLETELY skip over the entire example of the apocalypse. I find it funny how it says in the bible "This will happen, and this will happen, and that will happen...". Someone has to cause these things to happen. If Bush were to cause the apocalypse, its BUSH. A HUMAN. DOING IT. Already foretold and prophesized by God. Which means he purposely created Bush, or altered Bush in some way, to fulfill the prophecy. Please attempt to take the cork out of your ears and understand that according to the bible, God really isn't giving humans free will. And if he is, in some twisted way? Hes a pretty sick fuck for letting so much bad crap happen.

The apocalypse will be when Jesus comes back to earth and judges who will go to heaven or not. So they apocalypse isn't a bad thing if you think about it...

I lol'ed.

Is it necessary to laugh at what I believe?

Not to be a dick or anything...

...But what you believe is pretty silly.

Lets not forget, what he believes isn't even whats recorded in the bible. Are you perhaps, a mormon?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Dover on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 17:51:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 09:50Dover wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 11:48Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 08:04MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:56Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:19MWright967 wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:43Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:00MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Take it from someone whose actually read the better portion of the bible. He creates man in his image. He said it himself. Which means that God created cruel creatures, and is thus himself cruel. One of the many flaws of the bible.

He gave us free will, according to you. Which means we can do as we wish. Okay. He still KNOWS ITS GOING TO HAPPEN AND LETS IT HAPPEN. Guess what? If you know that someone is going to be murdered, but you don't do anything about it, you're held accountable. Why? Because the law dictates it so. God knows these things are going to happen, and thus he himself is accountable. He is the law and he dictates it that way.

You COMPLETELY skip over the entire example of the apocalypse. I find it funny how it says in the bible "This will happen, and this will happen, and that will happen...". Someone has to cause these things to happen. If Bush were to cause the apocalypse, its BUSH. A HUMAN. DOING IT. Already foretold and prophesized by God. Which means he purposely created Bush, or altered Bush in some way, to fulfill the prophecy. Please attempt to take the cork out of your ears and understand that according to the bible, God really isn't giving humans free will. And if he is, in some twisted way? Hes a pretty sick fuck for letting so much bad crap happen.

The apocalypse will be when Jesus comes back to earth and judges who will go to heaven or not. So they apocalypse isn't a bad thing if you think about it...

I lol'ed.

Is it necessary to laugh at what I believe?

Not to be a dick or anything...
...But what you believe is pretty silly.

Lets not forget, what he believes isn't even whats recorded in the bible. Are you perhaps, a mormon?

A mormon? Me?
Lol.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 17:54:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Dover wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 11:51MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 09:50Dover wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 11:48Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 08:04MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:56Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 00:19MWright967 wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:43Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 02 February 2008 00:00MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting. THAT IS NOT TRUE. Don't talk of what you don't know about. He gave us free will to do what WE want. If we choose to follow him, we have everlasting life waiting for us. If we choose not to, we go to hell. Simple as that. How is that being a mean God? All he wants is one thing: To believe in him. How is that a mean god. eh?

Take it from someone whose actually read the better portion of the bible. He creates man in his image. He said it himself. Which means that God created cruel creatures, and is thus himself cruel. One of the many flaws of the bible.

He gave us free will, according to you. Which means we can do as we wish. Okay. He still KNOWS ITS GOING TO HAPPEN AND LETS IT HAPPEN. Guess what? If you know that someone is going to be murdered, but you don't do anything about it, you're held accountable. Why? Because the law dictates it so. God knows these things are going to happen, and thus he himself is accountable. He is the law and he dictates it that way.

You COMPLETELY skip over the entire example of the apocalypse. I find it funny how it says in the bible "This will happen, and this will happen, and that will happen...". Someone has to cause these things to happen. If Bush were to cause the apocalypse, its BUSH. A HUMAN. DOING IT. Already foretold and prophesized by God. Which means he purposely created Bush, or altered Bush in some way, to fulfill the prophecy. Please attempt to take the cork out of your ears and understand that according to the bible, God really isn't giving humans free will. And if he is, in some twisted way? Hes a pretty sick fuck for letting so much bad crap happen.

The apocalypse will be when Jesus comes back to earth and judges who will go to heaven or not. So they apocalypse isn't a bad thing if you think about it...

I lol'ed.

Is it necessary to laugh at what I believe?

Not to be a dick or anything...
...But what you believe is pretty silly.

Lets not forget, what he believes isn't even whats recorded in the bible. Are you perhaps, a mormon?

A mormon? Me?
Lol.

Sorry, I was aiming that towards Muad ;/

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Muad Dib15 on Sun, 03 Feb 2008 20:08:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

No, I'm not a mormon, I'm a Catholic.

You are twisting the bible's words into pretzels. God CREATED man in his image. He isn't the robber and he isn't the old lady. He gave us FREE WILL TO DO WHAT EVER THE FUCK WE WANT because we were fucking CREATED. WTF are you saying, "he predestines history." Maybe he does. But he gave us free will to do WHATEVER THE FUCK WE WANT TO. It isn't our job to know what goes on in the creator's mind. If you feel that you need to laugh at what me and Sniper believe, then just GTFO THIS THREAD. This also goes for twisting the bible into saying what you want it to say.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Mon, 04 Feb 2008 00:10:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Muad Dib15 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 14:08MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

No, I'm not a mormon, I'm a Catholic.

You are twisting the bible's words into pretzels. God CREATED man in his image. He isn't the robber and he isn't the old lady. He gave us FREE WILL TO DO WHAT EVER THE FUCK WE WANT because we were fucking CREATED. WTF are you saying, "he predestines history." Maybe he does. But he gave us free will to do WHATEVER THE FUCK WE WANT TO. It isn't our job to know what goes on in the creator's mind. If you feel that you need to laugh at what me and Sniper believe, then just GTFO THIS THREAD. This also goes for twisting the bible into saying what you want it to say.

I lol'ed at your lack of biblical knowledge.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Mon, 04 Feb 2008 02:22:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 18:10Muad Dib15 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 14:08MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

No, I'm not a mormon, I'm a Catholic.

You are twisting the bible's words into pretzels. God CREATED man in his image. He isn't the robber and he isn't the old lady. He gave us FREE WILL TO DO WHAT EVER THE FUCK WE WANT because we were fucking CREATED. WTF are you saying, "he predestines history." Maybe he does. But he gave us free will to do WHATEVER THE FUCK WE WANT TO. It isn't our job to know what goes on in the creator's mind. If you feel that you need to laugh at what me and Sniper believe, then just GTFO THIS THREAD. This also goes for twisting the bible into saying what you want it to say.

I lol'ed at your lack of biblical knowledge.

SHUTUP! What we are saying comes from priests, which have studied the bible their ENTIRE LIVES! AND based on YOUR lack of biblical knowledge, YOU don't know that the bible has more to it than the literal meaning in the text.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Mon, 04 Feb 2008 02:27:37 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:22MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 18:10Muad Dib15 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 14:08MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

No, I'm not a mormon, I'm a Catholic.

You are twisting the bible's words into pretzels. God CREATED man in his image. He isn't the robber and he isn't the old lady. He gave us FREE WILL TO DO WHAT EVER THE FUCK WE WANT because we were fucking CREATED. WTF are you saying, "he predestines history." Maybe he does. But he gave us free will to do WHATEVER THE FUCK WE WANT TO. It isn't our job to know what goes on in the creator's mind. If you feel that you need to laugh at what me and Sniper believe, then just GTFO THIS THREAD. This also goes for twisting the bible into saying what you want it to say.

I lol'ed at your lack of biblical knowledge.

SHUTUP! What we are saying comes from priests, which have studied the bible their ENTIRE LIVES! AND based on YOUR lack of biblical knowledge, YOU don't know that the bible has more to it than the literal meaning in the text.

Ah so instead of actually studying the bible yourself, you take the word of some ass-plundering catholic priests?

I lol'ed.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by BlueThen on Mon, 04 Feb 2008 02:29:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:27Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:22MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 18:10Muad Dib15 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 14:08MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

No, I'm not a mormon, I'm a Catholic.

You are twisting the bible's words into pretzels. God CREATED man in his image. He isn't the robber and he isn't the old lady. He gave us FREE WILL TO DO WHAT EVER THE FUCK WE WANT because we were fucking CREATED. WTF are you saying, "he predestines history." Maybe he does. But he gave us free will to do WHATEVER THE FUCK WE WANT TO. It isn't our job to know what goes on in the creator's mind. If you feel that you need to laugh at what me and Sniper believe, then just GTFO THIS THREAD. This also goes for twisting the bible into saying what you want it to say.

I lol'ed at your lack of biblical knowledge.

SHUTUP! What we are saying comes from priests, which have studied the bible their ENTIRE LIVES! AND based on YOUR lack of biblical knowledge, YOU don't know that the bible has more to it than the literal meaning in the text.

Ah so instead of actually studying the bible yourself, you take the word of some ass-plundering catholic priests?

I lol'ed.

So you expect all Christians and Catholics to over-obsess and memorize the whole bible?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Chimp on Mon, 04 Feb 2008 03:21:42 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:29MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:27Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:22MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 18:10Muad Dib15 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 14:08MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

No, I'm not a mormon, I'm a Catholic.

You are twisting the bible's words into pretzels. God CREATED man in his image. He isn't the robber and he isn't the old lady. He gave us FREE WILL TO DO WHAT EVER THE FUCK WE WANT because we were fucking CREATED. WTF are you saying, "he predestines history." Maybe he does. But he gave us free will to do WHATEVER THE FUCK WE WANT TO. It isn't our job to know what goes on in the creator's mind. If you feel that you need to laugh at what me and Sniper believe, then just GTFO THIS THREAD. This also goes for twisting the bible into saying what you want it to say.

I lol'ed at your lack of biblical knowledge.

SHUTUP! What we are saying comes from priests, which have studied the bible their ENTIRE LIVES! AND based on YOUR lack of biblical knowledge, YOU don't know that the bible has more to it than the literal meaning in the text.

Ah so instead of actually studying the bible yourself, you take the word of some ass-plundering catholic priests?

I lol'ed.

So you expect all Christians and Catholics to over-obsess and memorize the whole bible?

No. But I expect them to actually know what the hell they're talking about before attempting to shoot down arguments against them. I for one have read the better portion of the bible, and have analyzed it. I took quite a few courses on biblical study in college. I know what I'm talking about.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Sn1per74* on Mon, 04 Feb 2008 03:42:08 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 21:21Originally Blue wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:29MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:27Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:22MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 18:10Muad Dib15 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 14:08MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

No, I'm not a mormon, I'm a Catholic.

You are twisting the bible's words into pretzels. God CREATED man in his image. He isn't the robber and he isn't the old lady. He gave us FREE WILL TO DO WHAT EVER THE FUCK WE WANT because we were fucking CREATED. WTF are you saying, "he predestines history." Maybe he does. But he gave us free will to do WHATEVER THE FUCK WE WANT TO. It isn't our job to know what goes on in the creator's mind. If you feel that you need to laugh at what me and Sniper believe, then just GTFO THIS THREAD. This also goes for twisting the bible into saying what you want it to say.

I lol'ed at your lack of biblical knowledge.

SHUTUP! What we are saying comes from priests, which have studied the bible their ENTIRE LIVES! AND based on YOUR lack of biblical knowledge, YOU don't know that the bible has more to it than the literal meaning in the text.

Ah so instead of actually studying the bible yourself, you take the word of some ass-plundering catholic priests?

I lol'ed.

So you expect all Christians and Catholics to over-obsess and memorize the whole bible?

No. But I expect them to actually know what the hell they're talking about before attempting to shoot down arguments against them. I for one have read the better portion of the bible, and have analyzed it. I took quite a few courses on biblical study in college. I know what I'm talking about.

You absolutely piss me off. First off you can't admit somebody else is right. Can't you just admit I'm ATLEAST half right? Second off, you're calling other people's beliefs stupid- I don't mind you arguing them, but making fun of them? C'mon.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Mon, 04 Feb 2008 04:14:32 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 21:42MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 21:21Originally Blue wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:29MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:27Sn1per74* wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 20:22MWright967 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 18:10Muad Dib15 wrote on Sun, 03 February 2008 14:08MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 22:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

No, I'm not a mormon, I'm a Catholic.

You are twisting the bible's words into pretzels. God CREATED man in his image. He isn't the robber and he isn't the old lady. He gave us FREE WILL TO DO WHAT EVER THE FUCK WE WANT because we were fucking CREATED. WTF are you saying, "he predestines history." Maybe he does. But he gave us free will to do WHATEVER THE FUCK WE WANT TO. It isn't our job to know what goes on in the creator's mind. If you feel that you need to laugh at what me and Sniper believe, then just GTFO THIS THREAD. This also goes for twisting the bible into saying what you want it to say.

I lol'ed at your lack of biblical knowledge.

SHUTUP! What we are saying comes from priests, which have studied the bible their ENTIRE LIVES! AND based on YOUR lack of biblical knowledge, YOU don't know that the bible has more to it than the literal meaning in the text.

Ah so instead of actually studying the bible yourself, you take the word of some ass-plundering catholic priests?

I lol'ed.

So you expect all Christians and Catholics to over-obsess and memorize the whole bible?

No. But I expect them to actually know what the hell they're talking about before attempting to shoot down arguments against them. I for one have read the better portion of the bible, and have analyzed it. I took quite a few courses on biblical study in college. I know what I'm talking about.

You absolutely piss me off. First off you can't admit somebody else is right. Can't you just admit I'm ATLEAST half right? Second off, you're calling other people's beliefs stupid- I don't mind you arguing them, but making fun of them? C'mon.

LOL? Wait a sec. I'm sorry. The apocalypse is Jesus coming down to bring us all to paradise? THAT is what you want me to admit you're right about? Sorry. Once they release you from the cultural looney-bin we can talk.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by fredcow9 on Mon, 04 Feb 2008 08:02:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ok i dont know where this convo has gone to, but to answer the original question... Its not hard to believe in Jesus Christ even though he lived 2000 years ago. The gospels were written around 40-100 A.D, before the destruction of the temple. We know this, the original manuscripts match up with the ones we have today. Also we know that Jesus didn't perform things that people mistook as miracles of God because even the pharisees said he "did things by devils". also extra biblical writing proves that there were many that acknowledged what he had done but just not by God. Josephus wrote about him, Tacitus wrote about him. theres 10,000 manuscripts plus biblical manuscripts that talk about him and match up perfectly with each other. He fulfilled prophecy from the Old testament and thats why we can trust he is the Christ. so no only does history back him up but also secular history too. its not that hard to believe especially since we trust the writings of homer in the odyssey even though that was written hundreds of years after! Everything we know about alexander the great was written 500 years after his death! If anything what the bible has to say about Jesus is the most historically accurate we have from anywhere close to that time period. thats why its not hard to believe in him

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Mon, 04 Feb 2008 08:18:11 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

fredcow9 wrote on Mon, 04 February 2008 02:02ok i dont know where this convo has gone to, but to answer the original question...

Its not hard to believe in Jesus Christ even though he lived 2000 years ago. The gospels were written around 40-100 A.D, before the destruction of the temple. We know this, the original manuscripts match up with the ones we have today. Also we know that Jesus didn't perform things that people mistook as miracles of God because even the pharisees said he "did things by devils". also extra biblical writing proves that there were many that acknowledged what he had done but just not by God. Josephus wrote about him, Tacitus wrote about him. theres 10,000 manuscripts plus biblical manuscripts that talk about him and match up perfectly with each other. He fulfilled prophecy from the Old testament and thats why we can trust he is the Christ. so no only does history back him up but also secular history too. its not that hard to believe especially since we trust the writings of homer in the odyssey even though that was written hundreds of years after! Everything we know about alexander the great was written 500 years after his death! If anything what the bible has to say about Jesus is the most historically accurate we have from anywhere close to that time period. thats why its not hard to believe in him

I'm not debating that Jesus was or wasn't real. I'm debating Maud's interpretation of the bible which is in no way correct.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by bisen11 on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 01:21:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 23:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

But if the old lady was a good and faithful woman to god then she would be sent to heaven where she would experience eternal bliss. Therefor it would be better to die and go to heaven rather than to stay on earth.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 01:38:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

then what is the point of living?

why not skip life on earth and go straight to heaven..

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by R315r4z0r on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 01:42:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 20:38then what is the point of living?

why not skip life on earth and go straight to heaven..

Because there is a lack of chairs. And Earth is basically a test to see if you are worthy of a chair.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 01:42:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

bisen11 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 19:21MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 23:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

But if the old lady was a good and faithful woman to god then she would be sent to heaven where she would experience eternal bliss. Therefor it would be better to die and go to heaven rather than to stay on earth.

IF the old lady was good. She could be..."So-so", and could go to limbo, purgatory, etc. And hell, the way the scriptures read, you can condemn yourself to an eternity of misery for doing a few mild things wrong. The old lady isn't necessarily good. It even says in the bible that "Walking through the gates of heaven is a task for those who are pure of heart". Not many people are "pure of heart".

Also, heaven is described as a wondrous and happy place, but it never says you will be completely happy. You won't see your children, your friends, family, anything, until many years pass and they as well, and even then, they may not go to heaven. See how this starts to ricochet?

How can I have everlasting happiness without the ones who care for me and that I spend my life with? Oh, wait, I'll use the argument of every priest and pastor in the world, "With god, all things are possible". Lol.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 03:42:32 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 19:42bisen11 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 19:21MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 23:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

But if the old lady was a good and faithful woman to god then she would be sent to heaven where she would experience eternal bliss. Therefor it would be better to die and go to heaven rather than to stay on earth.

IF the old lady was good. She could be..."So-so", and could go to limbo, purgatory, etc. And hell, the way the scriptures read, you can condemn yourself to an eternity of misery for doing a few mild things wrong. The old lady isn't necessarily good. It even says in the bible that "Walking through the gates of heaven is a task for those who are pure of heart". Not many people are "pure of heart".

Also, heaven is described as a wondrous and happy place, but it never says you will be completely happy. You won't see your children, your friends, family, anything, until many years pass and they as well, and even then, they may not go to heaven. See how this starts to ricochet?

How can I have everlasting happiness without the ones who care for me and that I spend my life with? Oh, wait, I'll use the argument of every priest and pastor in the world, "With god, all things are possible". Lol.

How do you know your friends and family won't go to heaven? It's something you can look forward to. And how can you say you won't be happy up in heaven when you've never been to heaven? If you don't believe in God, then you may not think heaven is a great place. But if you do, then you know that what he's got up there for you is the most amazing thing, something you can't even dream of, nor think of. To tell you the truth, I don't think God will send THAT many people to hell. I think all you have to do is live a good life, because some people believe what their parent taught them and by what the people around them believe in. All in all, I DON'T CARE WHAT you think about what I believe. I BELIEVE it's right- you don't have to. You know what else you don't HAVE to do? Make fun of what I think. I'm not making fun of you for not believing in God or what's written in the bible. So c'mon dude, just stop.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 04:15:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 21:42MWright967 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 19:42bisen11 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 19:21MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 23:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

But if the old lady was a good and faithful woman to god then she would be sent to heaven where she would experience eternal bliss. Therefor it would be better to die and go to heaven rather than to stay on earth.

IF the old lady was good. She could be..."So-so", and could go to limbo, purgatory, etc. And hell, the way the scriptures read, you can condemn yourself to an eternity of misery for doing a few mild things wrong. The old lady isn't necessarily good. It even says in the bible that "Walking through the gates of heaven is a task for those who are pure of heart". Not many people are "pure of heart".

Also, heaven is described as a wondrous and happy place, but it never says you will be completely happy. You won't see your children, your friends, family, anything, until many years pass and they as well, and even then, they may not go to heaven. See how this starts to ricochet?

How can I have everlasting happiness without the ones who care for me and that I spend my life with? Oh, wait, I'll use the argument of every priest and pastor in the world, "With god, all things are possible". Lol.

How do you know your friends and family won't go to heaven? It's something you can look forward to. And how can you say you won't be happy up in heaven when you've never been to heaven? If you don't believe in God, then you may not think heaven is a great place. But if you do, then you know that what he's got up there for you is the most amazing thing, something you can't even dream of, nor think of. To tell you the truth, I don't think God will send THAT many people to hell. I think all you have to do is live a good life, because some people believe what their parent taught them and by what the people around them believe in. All in all, I DON'T CARE WHAT you think about what I believe. I BELIEVE it's right- you don't have to. You know what else you don't HAVE to do? Make fun of what I think. I'm not making fun of you for not believing in God or what's written in the bible. So c'mon dude, just stop.

Ahhh okay, so wait, because my beliefs conflict with yours, I have to stop talking? Classic christian philosophy. "Don't be tempted by the non-believers!!!".

You continue to blab about the exact same stuff, over and over, disregarding my arguments. Have you ever read the bible? Obviously not. Because you would know how easy it is to get into hell. It says in the bible, and this is JESUS saying this, "Though can curse me with no punishment, but if though cursith the holy spirit, thou shalt be condemned to hell fires for all eternity to burn for thy sin". So wait, if I say "Hey holy spirit, fuck you!", I'm going to hell? God is preeeeetty cool

You say, god does, this god does that, god is so great. If god creates even one human, even ONE person, they go to hell...Do you realize what that means? They're essentially, burned battered tortured and ripped to pieces over and over for ALL. OF. ETERNITY. Or at least, in some versions of the story "The lord reclaims all souls, and brings the dead back to life, and all sins will be forgiven". No one, no matter how cruel, deserves that. I've said it before, and I'll say it again. He creates us, he puts us through hell and torture on earth, he destroys us, and then he burns many of us in eternal hell fires. Cool god

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Starbuzz on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 05:04:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Muad Dib15 on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 13:32:02 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 22:15Sn1per74* wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 21:42MWright967 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 19:42bisen11 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 19:21MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 23:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

But if the old lady was a good and faithful woman to god then she would be sent to heaven where she would experience eternal bliss. Therefor it would be better to die and go to heaven rather than to stay on earth.

IF the old lady was good. She could be..."So-so", and could go to limbo, purgatory, etc. And hell, the way the scriptures read, you can condemn yourself to an eternity of misery for doing a few mild things wrong. The old lady isn't necessarily good. It even says in the bible that "Walking through the gates of heaven is a task for those who are pure of heart". Not many people are "pure of heart".

Also, heaven is described as a wondrous and happy place, but it never says you will be completely happy. You won't see your children, your friends, family, anything, until many years pass and they as well, and even then, they may not go to heaven. See how this starts to ricochet?

How can I have everlasting happiness without the ones who care for me and that I spend my life with? Oh, wait, I'll use the argument of every priest and pastor in the world, "With god, all things are possible". Lol.

How do you know your friends and family won't go to heaven? It's something you can look forward to. And how can you say you won't be happy up in heaven when you've never been to heaven? If you don't believe in God, then you may not think heaven is a great place. But if you do, then you know that what he's got up there for you is the most amazing thing, something you can't even dream of, nor think of. To tell you the truth, I don't think God will send THAT many people to hell. I think all you have to do is live a good life, because some people believe what their parent taught them and by what the people around them believe in. All in all, I DON'T CARE WHAT you think about what I believe. I BELIEVE it's right- you don't have to. You know what else you don't HAVE to do? Make fun of what I think. I'm not making fun of you for not believing in God or what's written in the bible. So c'mon dude, just stop.

Ahhh okay, so wait, because my beliefs conflict with yours, I have to stop talking? Classic christian philosophy. "Don't be tempted by the non-believers!!!!".

You continue to blab about the exact same stuff, over and over, disregarding my arguments. Have you ever read the bible? Obviously not. Because you would know how easy it is to get into hell. It says in the bible, and this is JESUS saying this, "Though can curse me with no punishment, but if though cursith the holy spirit, thou shalt be condemned to hell fires for all eternity to burn for thy sin". So wait, if I say "Hey holy spirit, fuck you!", I'm going to hell? God is preeeeetty cool

You say, god does, this god does that, god is so great. If god creates even one human, even ONE person, they go to hell...Do you realize what that means? They're essentially, burned battered tortured and ripped to pieces over and over for ALL. OF. ETERNITY. Or at least, in some versions of the story "The lord reclaims all souls, and brings the dead back to life, and all sins will be forgiven". No one, no matter how cruel, deserves that. I've said it before, and I'll say it again. He creates us, he puts us through hell and torture on earth, he destroys us, and then he burns many of us in eternal hell fires. Cool god

Yes, but that is why Jesus died for our sins. If we say "Hey Holy Spirit, screw you." We will go to hell. But Jesus died on the cross so that we wouldn't go to hell. Because we are CREATED, God loves us all and couldn't bear to see everyone EVERYONE go to hell, He sent down God The Son to live among us and die on the cross, which is said in the old testament. "His son will come die for us all." Maybe not the exact words, but you can find it in the old testament.

Hell and torture as you put it, is our test to see if we are good enough to come back to God and Heaven.

Hold this debate for a couple days, I'm getting a religous guy to come on my account. He'll continue this. I think...

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 17:48:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

You do realize you just said, "If we say screw you holy spirit" we go to hell, then you just said, "But we won't go to hell because Jesus died for our sins". Contradiction much? I'll repeat, if the first part is correct, we all go to hell for cursing the holy spirit. That sounds really awesome. Lets imagine the 2nd part is correct. So wait, if Jesus dies for my sins, I can do anything I want. Woo hoo! Oh but wait, then that nullifys like.....The rest of the bible...Gosh darn.

Also, what do you mean "hell and torture are tests to see if we can get back into heaven"? No they aren't. Lol. I have news for you, once you're in hell, its over my friend. Even Jesus sais, "Hell is a furnance in which god burns evil for all eternity".

So wait, Jesus dies for our sins.....Yet if we commit sins we go to hell. Interesting. So pretty much, God sent old Jesus down, got him killed for no reason, and we still go out and do bad stuff AND get horribly punished for it for all of eternity. Niiiiiiiiiiiiice

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 21:44:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 11:48You do realize you just said, "If we say screw you holy spirit" we go to hell, then you just said, "But we won't go to hell because Jesus died for our sins". Contradiction much? I'll repeat, if the first part is correct, we all go to hell for cursing the holy spirit. That sounds really awesome. Lets imagine the 2nd part is correct. So wait, if Jesus dies for my sins, I can do anything I want. Woo hoo! Oh but wait, then that nullifys like.....The rest of the bible...Gosh darn.

Also, what do you mean "hell and torture are tests to see if we can get back into heaven"? No they aren't. Lol. I have news for you, once you're in hell, its over my friend. Even Jesus sais, "Hell is a furnance in which god burns evil for all eternity".

So wait, Jesus dies for our sins.....Yet if we commit sins we go to hell. Interesting. So pretty much, God sent old Jesus down, got him killed for no reason, and we still go out and do bad stuff AND get horribly punished for it for all of eternity. Niiiiiiiiiiiiice
You can do anything you want, and if you feel bad about it and ask for forgiveness he WILL forgive you. But if you do something and say I'm sorry and don't mean it, he won't forgive you.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Dover on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 21:46:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

R315r4z0r wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 17:42Rocko wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 20:38then what is the point of living?

why not skip life on earth and go straight to heaven..
Because there is a lack of chairs. And Earth is basically a test to see if you are worthy of a chair.

A lack of chairs? What?
Seems heaven isn't so perfect after all.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by KIRBY-098 on Wed, 06 Feb 2008 21:47:08 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

meh, never mind. What's the point?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by R315r4z0r on Thu, 07 Feb 2008 05:06:41 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Dover wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 16:46R315r4z0r wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 17:42Rocko wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 20:38then what is the point of living?

why not skip life on earth and go straight to heaven..

Because there is a lack of chairs. And Earth is basically a test to see if you are worthy of a chair.

A lack of chairs? What?

Seems heaven isn't so perfect after all.

Nah, it is only perfect... if you own a chair.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Chimp on Thu, 07 Feb 2008 05:16:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 15:44MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 11:48You do realize you just said, "If we say screw you holy spirit" we go to hell, then you just said, "But we won't go to hell because Jesus died for our sins". Contradiction much? I'll repeat, if the first part is correct, we all go to hell for cursing the holy spirit. That sounds really awesome. Lets imagine the 2nd part is correct. So wait, if Jesus dies for my sins, I can do anything I want. Woo hoo! Oh but wait, then that nullifys like.....The rest of the bible...Gosh darn.

Also, what do you mean "hell and torture are tests to see if we can get back into heaven"? No they aren't. Lol. I have news for you, once you're in hell, its over my friend. Even Jesus sais, "Hell is a furnance in which god burns evil for all eternity".

So wait, Jesus dies for our sins.....Yet if we commit sins we go to hell. Interesting. So pretty much, God sent old Jesus down, got him killed for no reason, and we still go out and do bad stuff AND get horribly punished for it for all of eternity. Niiiiiiiiiiiiice

You can do anything you want, and if you feel bad about it and ask for forgiveness he WILL forgive you. But if you do something and say I'm sorry and don't mean it, he won't forgive you.

Okay. Lets go with that for a minute.

So by your standards, if I do something bad and I apologize, I'm good. Yet, if I do something bad, and apologize, and I don't mean it, I'm going to hell? Okay. So wait a minute. I remember in my youth calling my mother a "Bitch" once. "Thou shalt not curse thy ancestors", I believe were the words of Jesus. Now my dad smacked me and said to apologize to her. I did, but I didn't mean it.

So I'm going to hell?

Heres a better example. What if I'm a rich guy, and I give up my money for cancer research but I don't really mean it, I just do it to get in to heaven. Even if I WANTED to mean it, I couldn't really mean it. So I'm going to hell....Again...?

Lol.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Dover on Thu, 07 Feb 2008 17:42:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

R315r4z0r wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 21:06Dover wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 16:46R315r4z0r wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 17:42Rocko wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 20:38then what is the point of living?

why not skip life on earth and go straight to heaven..
Because there is a lack of chairs. And Earth is basically a test to see if you are worthy of a chair.

A lack of chairs? What?
Seems heaven isn't so perfect after all.
Nah, it is only perfect... if you own a chair.

Conditional perfection is not perfection.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Thu, 07 Feb 2008 23:56:01 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 23:16Sn1per74* wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 15:44MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 11:48You do realize you just said, "If we say screw you holy spirit" we go to hell, then you just said, "But we won't go to hell because Jesus died for our sins". Contradiction much? I'll repeat, if the first part is correct, we all go to hell for cursing the holy spirit. That sounds really awesome. Lets imagine the 2nd part is correct. So wait, if Jesus dies for my sins, I can do anything I want. Woo hoo! Oh but wait, then that nullifys like.....The rest of the bible...Gosh darn.

Also, what do you mean "hell and torture are tests to see if we can get back into heaven"? No they aren't. Lol. I have news for you, once you're in hell, its over my friend. Even Jesus sais, "Hell is a furnance in which god burns evil for all eternity".

So wait, Jesus dies for our sins.....Yet if we commit sins we go to hell. Interesting. So pretty much, God sent old Jesus down, got him killed for no reason, and we still go out and do bad stuff AND get horribly punished for it for all of eternity. Niiiiiiiiiiiiice

You can do anything you want, and if you feel bad about it and ask for forgiveness he WILL forgive you. But if you do something and say I'm sorry and don't mean it, he won't forgive you.

Okay. Lets go with that for a minute.

So by your standards, if I do something bad and I apologize, I'm good. Yet, if I do something bad, and apologize, and I don't mean it, I'm going to hell? Okay. So wait a minute. I remember in my youth calling my mother a "Bitch" once. "Thou shalt not curse thy ancestors", I believe were the words of Jesus. Now my dad smacked me and said to apologize to her. I did, but I didn't mean it. So I'm going to hell?

Heres a better example. What if I'm a rich guy, and I give up my money for cancer research but I don't really mean it, I just do it to get in to heaven. Even if I WANTED to mean it, I couldn't really mean it. So I'm going to hell....Again...?

Lol.

You wouldn't go to hell for either of those. And how is giving away money and not meaning it, the same as apologizing and not meaning? It's not the same.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Fri, 08 Feb 2008 00:28:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ROFL @ how the writings from the Bible is presented as sure facts.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Fri, 08 Feb 2008 00:55:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

religious faith is not based on logic or reason, i don't think anyone will ever come up with a real argument for why they should believe other than just cuz

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Fri, 08 Feb 2008 01:03:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 17:56MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 23:16Sn1per74* wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 15:44MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 11:48You do realize you just said, "If we say screw you holy spirit" we go to hell, then you just said, "But we won't go to hell because Jesus died for our sins". Contradiction much? I'll repeat, if the first part is correct, we all go to hell for cursing the holy spirit. That sounds really awesome. Lets imagine the 2nd part is correct. So wait, if Jesus dies for my sins, I can do anything I want. Woo hoo! Oh but wait, then that nullifys like.....The rest of the bible...Gosh darn.

Also, what do you mean "hell and torture are tests to see if we can get back into heaven"? No they aren't. Lol. I have news for you, once you're in hell, its over my friend. Even Jesus sais, "Hell is a furnance in which god burns evil for all eternity".

So wait, Jesus dies for our sins.....Yet if we commit sins we go to hell. Interesting. So pretty much, God sent old Jesus down, got him killed for no reason, and we still go out and do bad stuff AND get horribly punished for it for all of eternity. Niiiiiiiiiiiiice

You can do anything you want, and if you feel bad about it and ask for forgiveness he WILL forgive you. But if you do something and say I'm sorry and don't mean it, he won't forgive you.

Okay. Lets go with that for a minute.

So by your standards, if I do something bad and I apologize, I'm good. Yet, if I do something bad, and apologize, and I don't mean it, I'm going to hell? Okay. So wait a minute. I remember in my youth calling my mother a "Bitch" once. "Thou shalt not curse thy ancestors", I believe were the words of Jesus. Now my dad smacked me and said to apologize to her. I did, but I didn't mean it. So I'm going to hell?

Heres a better example. What if I'm a rich guy, and I give up my money for cancer research but I don't really mean it, I just do it to get in to heaven. Even if I WANTED to mean it, I couldn't really mean it. So I'm going to hell....Again...?

Lol.

You wouldn't go to hell for either of those. And how is giving away money and not meaning it, the same as apologizing and not meaning? It's not the same.

Uhm. I wouldn't go to hell? Didn't you just say I'd go to hell for doing either of those lol??? And also, its the same for this reason. I'm giving money away to make myself feel good and be a "good" person, so I'll get into heaven. But by your logic, if I'm saying or doing something just to get into heaven, I get boned. Cool

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by bisen11 on Fri, 08 Feb 2008 04:39:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 20:42bisen11 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 19:21MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 23:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

But if the old lady was a good and faithful woman to god then she would be sent to heaven where she would experience eternal bliss. Therefore it would be better to die and go to heaven rather than to stay on earth.

IF the old lady was good. She could be... "So-so", and could go to limbo, purgatory, etc. And hell, the way the scriptures read, you can condemn yourself to an eternity of misery for doing a few mild things wrong. The old lady isn't necessarily good. It even says in the bible that "Walking through the gates of heaven is a task for those who are pure of heart". Not many people are "pure of heart".

Also, heaven is described as a wondrous and happy place, but it never says you will be completely happy. You won't see your children, your friends, family, anything, until many years pass and they as well, and even then, they may not go to heaven. See how this starts to ricochet?

How can I have everlasting happiness without the ones who care for me and that I spend my life with? Oh, wait, I'll use the argument of every priest and pastor in the world, "With god, all things are possible". Lol.

A person can get out of purgatory and go to heaven. Purgatory is a place of cleansing one's heart and becoming ready to enter heaven. I believe god is very forgiving. The main thing he wants is for you to believe in him. Things like murder however I believe will get you into hell aside from maybe to protect other people from being killed.

As to heaven, well neither of us knows what it is truly like. For all we know there are replicas of our family that we don't even know are replicas. Does time even exist in heaven? I believe I have heard that your mind is truly opened when you enter heaven so I doubt one's thought process will be the same as it is on earth. It's likely that everyone cares for everyone.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Fri, 08 Feb 2008 05:05:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

bisen11 wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 22:39MWright967 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 20:42bisen11 wrote on Tue, 05 February 2008 19:21MWright967 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 23:45Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 01 February 2008 19:48He knows it happens. He gave us free will to do whatever we want. That is why there is crime in this world. You think that God wants that man to rob the old lady? You honestly think that? If that is the case, you are just a complete religion idiot.

Yet God could stop it if he wanted to. Then the old lady thus dies, and the robber goes to hell. I'll say it again, considering you appear to be too pumped on religious juice to understand this: According to your bible, God sees all, knows all, and PREDESTINES HISTORY BEFORE IT HAPPENS. THUS THE APOCALYPSE. Which means he could stop the robber, he could save the robber from eternal damnation and the old lady from a too short death, yet he doesn't to fulfill the prophecy of destruction which is yet to come. And you say we have free will? Interesting.

But if the old lady was a good and faithful woman to god then she would be sent to heaven where she would experience eternal bliss. Therefor it would be better to die and go to heaven rather than to stay on earth.

IF the old lady was good. She could be..."So-so", and could go to limbo, purgatory, etc. And hell, the way the scriptures read, you can condemn yourself to an eternity of misery for doing a few mild things wrong. The old lady isn't necessarily good. It even says in the bible that "Walking through the gates of heaven is a task for those who are pure of heart". Not many people are "pure of heart".

Also, heaven is described as a wondrous and happy place, but it never says you will be completely happy. You won't see your children, your friends, family, anything, until many years pass and they as well, and even then, they may not go to heaven. See how this starts to ricochet?

How can I have everlasting happiness without the ones who care for me and that I spend my life with? Oh, wait, I'll use the argument of every priest and pastor in the world, "With god, all things are possible". Lol.

A person can get out of purgatory and go to heaven. Purgatory is a place of clensing one's heart and becoming ready to enter heaven. I believe god is very forgiving. The main thing he wants is for you to believe in him. Things like murder however I believe will get you into hell aside from maybe to protect other people from being killed.

As to heaven, well neither of us knows what it is truly like. For all we know there are replicas of our family that we don't even know are replicas. Does time even exist in heaven? I believe I have heard that your mind is truly opened when you enter heaven so I doubt one's thought process will be the same as it is on earth. It's likely that everyone cares for everyone.

I'll steal a little snipet from starbuzz:

LOL @ people acting like all of this stuff is 100% fact.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Fri, 08 Feb 2008 13:19:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

When logic and reason is used against religious people, it is automatically branded as "bashing."
But when they speak like they know everything, we are expected to unconditionally believe them!

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Fri, 08 Feb 2008 13:33:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 07:19When logic and reason is used against religious people, it is automatically branded as "bashing."

But when they speak like they know everything, we are expected to unconditionally believe them!

Religious people don't understand the words of "logic" or "reason" it is beyond them.

But hey!, it's their freedom to believe in a man made idea, who are we to bash them for that? xD

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Muad Dib15 on Sat, 09 Feb 2008 00:07:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ok, MrWright. You find me something more historically accurate from the time period than the bible and I might consider your arguments valid.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 09 Feb 2008 02:34:11 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 18:07Ok, MrWright. You find me something more historically accurate from the time period than the bible and I might consider your arguments valid.

He is "loling" about people who have visited heaven, hell, and the so-called purgatory and have come back to post here on Renegadeforums.com to inform the "sinners" of their impending doom.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Sat, 09 Feb 2008 02:56:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 20:34Muad Dib15 wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 18:07Ok, MrWright. You find me something more historically accurate from the time period than the bible and I might consider your arguments valid.

He is "loling" about people who have visited heaven, hell, and the so-called purgatory and have come back to post here on Renegadeforums.com to inform the "sinners" of their impending doom.

And thuh-ank you Starbuzz, couldn't have said it better myself.

Also, heres a little something for you Muad, I have a little something far better than the bible. Its called an 8th grade science workbook...And uh, the last time I checked, visiting abstract multi-demonsional realms existing out of time and space wasn't possible for humans. My bad

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Sn1per74* on Sat, 09 Feb 2008 05:54:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 19:03Sn1per74* wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 17:56MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 23:16Sn1per74* wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 15:44MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 11:48You do realize you just said, "If we say screw you holy spirit" we go to hell, then you just said, "But we won't go to hell because Jesus died for our sins". Contradiction much? I'll repeat, if the first part is correct, we all go to hell for cursing the holy spirit. That sounds really awesome. Lets imagine the 2nd part is correct. So wait, if Jesus dies for my sins, I can do anything I want. Woo hoo! Oh but wait, then that nullifys like.....The rest of the bible...Gosh darn.

Also, what do you mean "hell and torture are tests to see if we can get back into heaven"? No they aren't. Lol. I have news for you, once you're in hell, its over my friend. Even Jesus sais, "Hell is a furnance in which god burns evil for all eternity".

So wait, Jesus dies for our sins.....Yet if we commit sins we go to hell. Interesting. So pretty much, God sent old Jesus down, got him killed for no reason, and we still go out and do bad stuff AND get horribly punished for it for all of eternity. Niiiiiiiiiiiiice
You can do anything you want, and if you feel bad about it and ask for forgiveness he WILL forgive you. But if you do something and say I'm sorry and don't mean it, he won't forgive you.

Okay. Lets go with that for a minute.

So by your standards, if I do something bad and I apologize, I'm good. Yet, if I do something bad, and apologize, and I don't mean it, I'm going to hell? Okay. So wait a minute. I remember in my youth calling my mother a "Bitch" once. "Thou shalt not curse thy ancestors", I believe were the words of Jesus. Now my dad smacked me and said to apologize to her. I did, but I didn't mean it. So I'm going to hell?

Heres a better example. What if I'm a rich guy, and I give up my money for cancer research but I don't really mean it, I just do it to get in to heaven. Even if I WANTED to mean it, I couldn't really mean it. So I'm going to hell....Again...?

Lol.

You wouldn't go to hell for either of those. And how is giving away money and not meaning it, the same as apologizing and not meaning? It's not the same.

Uhm. I wouldn't go to hell? Didn't you just say I'd go to hell for doing either of those lol??? And also, its the same for this reason. I'm giving money away to make myself feel good and be a "good" person, so I'll get into heaven. But by your logic, if I'm saying or doing something just to get into heaven, I get boned. Cool

I can't tell someone there going to hell. Nobody knows what's the limit. There's not a list, so you just got to live life the best you can. But, God does however, forgive anybody for anything. How is that a mean god?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Sat, 09 Feb 2008 06:02:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Lol. Where does it say ANYWHERE in the bible that god will forgive anything?? And how is that you don't know the limit yet you know he'll forgive anything?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Sat, 09 Feb 2008 06:22:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 23:54MWright967 wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 19:03Sn1per74* wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 17:56MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 23:16Sn1per74* wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 15:44MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 11:48You do realize you just said, "If we say screw you holy spirit" we go to hell, then you just said, "But we won't go to hell because Jesus died for our sins". Contradiction much? I'll repeat, if the first part is correct, we all go to hell for cursing the holy spirit. That sounds really awesome. Lets imagine the 2nd part is correct. So wait, if Jesus dies for my sins, I can do anything I want. Woo hoo! Oh but wait, then that nullifys like.....The rest of the bible...Gosh darn.

Also, what do you mean "hell and torture are tests to see if we can get back into heaven"? No they aren't. Lol. I have news for you, once you're in hell, its over my friend. Even Jesus sais, "Hell is a furnance in which god burns evil for all eternity".

So wait, Jesus dies for our sins.....Yet if we commit sins we go to hell. Interesting. So pretty much, God sent old Jesus down, got him killed for no reason, and we still go out and do bad stuff AND get horribly punished for it for all of eternity. Niiiiiiiiiiiiice

You can do anything you want, and if you feel bad about it and ask for forgiveness he WILL forgive you. But if you do something and say I'm sorry and don't mean it, he won't forgive you.

Okay. Lets go with that for a minute.

So by your standards, if I do something bad and I apologize, I'm good. Yet, if I do something bad, and apologize, and I don't mean it, I'm going to hell? Okay. So wait a minute. I remember in my youth calling my mother a "Bitch" once. "Thou shalt not curse thy ancestors", I believe were the words of Jesus. Now my dad smacked me and said to apologize to her. I did, but I didn't mean it. So I'm going to hell?

Heres a better example. What if I'm a rich guy, and I give up my money for cancer research but I don't really mean it, I just do it to get in to heaven. Even if I WANTED to mean it, I couldn't really mean it. So I'm going to hell....Again...?

Lol.

You wouldn't go to hell for either of those. And how is giving away money and not meaning it, the same as apologizing and not meaning? It's not the same.

Uhm. I wouldn't go to hell? Didn't you just say I'd go to hell for doing either of those lol??? And also, its the same for this reason. I'm giving money away to make myself feel good and be a "good" person, so I'll get into heaven. But by your logic, if I'm saying or doing something just to get into heaven, I get boned. Cool

I can't tell someone there going to hell. Nobody knows what's the limit. There's not a list, so you just got to live life the best you can. But, God does however, forgive anybody for anything. How is that a mean god?

i've said this to another bible thumper before but, have you talked to god lately?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 09 Feb 2008 06:47:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 23:54 I can't tell someone there going to hell. Nobody knows what's the limit. There's not a list, so you just got to live life the best you can. But, God does however, forgive anybody for anything. How is that a mean god?

I know the limit. You cannot get to heaven if you do not live like them:

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Amish>

IronWarrior wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 07:33 Religious people don't understand the words of "logic" or "reason" it is beyond them.

But hey!, it's their freedom to believe in a man made idea, who are we to bash them for that? xD

Sorry I missed this, Iron. I agree fully but what will the world be if men refuse to debate their differences?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Sun, 10 Feb 2008 05:40:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Sat, 09 February 2008 00:22 Sn1per74* wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 23:54 MWright967 wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 19:03 Sn1per74* wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 17:56 MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 23:16 Sn1per74* wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 15:44 MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 11:48 You do realize you just said, "If we say screw you holy spirit" we go to hell, then you just said, "But we won't go to hell because Jesus died for our sins". Contradiction much? I'll repeat, if the first part is correct, we all go to hell for cursing the holy spirit. That sounds really awesome. Lets imagine the 2nd part is correct. So wait, if Jesus dies for my sins, I can do anything I want. Woo hoo! Oh but wait, then that nullifys like.....The rest of the bible...Gosh darn.

Also, what do you mean "hell and torture are tests to see if we can get back into heaven"? No they aren't. Lol. I have news for you, once you're in hell, its over my friend. Even Jesus sais, "Hell is a furnance in which god burns evil for all eternity".

So wait, Jesus dies for our sins.....Yet if we commit sins we go to hell. Interesting. So pretty much, God sent old Jesus down, got him killed for no reason, and we still go out and do bad stuff AND get horribly punished for it for all of eternity. Niiiiiiiiiiiiice
You can do anything you want, and if you feel bad about it and ask for forgiveness he WILL forgive you. But if you do something and say I'm sorry and don't mean it, he won't forgive you.

Okay. Lets go with that for a minute.

So by your standards, if I do something bad and I apologize, I'm good. Yet, if I do something bad, and apologize, and I don't mean it, I'm going to hell? Okay. So wait a minute. I remember in my youth calling my mother a "Bitch" once. "Thou shalt not curse thy ancestors", I believe were the words of Jesus. Now my dad smacked me and said to apologize to her. I did, but I didn't mean it. So I'm going to hell?

Heres a better example. What if I'm a rich guy, and I give up my money for cancer research but I don't really mean it, I just do it to get in to heaven. Even if I WANTED to mean it, I couldn't really mean it. So I'm going to hell....Again...?

Lol.

You wouldn't go to hell for either of those. And how is giving away money and not meaning it, the same as apologizing and not meaning? It's not the same.

Uhm. I wouldn't go to hell? Didn't you just say I'd go to hell for doing either of those lol??? And also, its the same for this reason. I'm giving money away to make myself feel good and be a "good" person, so I'll get into heaven. But by your logic, if I'm saying or doing something just to get into heaven, I get boned. Cool i've said this to another bible thumper before but, have you talked to god lately?

I can't tell someone there going to hell. Nobody knows what's the limit. There's not a list, so you just got to live life the best you can. But, God does however, forgive anybody for anything. How is that a mean god?

Yes. Have you?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Sun, 10 Feb 2008 06:47:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sn1per74* wrote on Sat, 09 February 2008 23:40Rocko wrote on Sat, 09 February 2008

00:22Sn1per74* wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 23:54MWright967 wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 19:03Sn1per74* wrote on Thu, 07 February 2008 17:56MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 23:16Sn1per74* wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 15:44MWright967 wrote on Wed, 06 February 2008 11:48You do realize you just said, "If we say screw you holy spirit" we go to hell, then you just said, "But we won't go to hell because Jesus died for our sins". Contradiction much? I'll repeat, if the first part is correct, we all go to hell for cursing the holy spirit. That sounds really awesome. Lets imagine the 2nd part is correct. So wait, if Jesus dies for my sins, I can do anything I want. Woo hoo! Oh but wait, then that nullifys like.....The rest of the bible...Gosh darn.

Also, what do you mean "hell and torture are tests to see if we can get back into heaven"? No they aren't. Lol. I have news for you, once you're in hell, its over my friend. Even Jesus sais, "Hell is a furnance in which god burns evil for all eternity".

So wait, Jesus dies for our sins.....Yet if we commit sins we go to hell. Interesting. So pretty much, God sent old Jesus down, got him killed for no reason, and we still go out and do bad stuff AND get horribly punished for it for all of eternity. Niiiiiiiiiiiiice
You can do anything you want, and if you feel bad about it and ask for forgiveness he WILL forgive you. But if you do something and say I'm sorry and don't mean it, he won't forgive you.

Okay. Lets go with that for a minute.

So by your standards, if I do something bad and I apologize, I'm good. Yet, if I do something bad, and apologize, and I don't mean it, I'm going to hell? Okay. So wait a minute. I remember in my youth calling my mother a "Bitch" once. "Thou shalt not curse thy ancestors", I believe were the words of Jesus. Now my dad smacked me and said to apologize to her. I did, but I didn't mean it. So I'm going to hell?

Heres a better example. What if I'm a rich guy, and I give up my money for cancer research but I don't really mean it, I just do it to get in to heaven. Even if I WANTED to mean it, I couldn't really mean it. So I'm going to hell....Again...?

Lol.

You wouldn't go to hell for either of those. And how is giving away money and not meaning it, the same as apologizing and not meaning? It's not the same.

Uhm. I wouldn't go to hell? Didn't you just say I'd go to hell for doing either of those lol??? And also, its the same for this reason. I'm giving money away to make myself feel good and be a "good" person, so I'll get into heaven. But by your logic, if I'm saying or doing something just to get into heaven, I get boned. Cool i've said this to another bible thumper before but, have you talked to god lately?

I can't tell someone there going to hell. Nobody knows what's the limit. There's not a list, so you just got to live life the best you can. But, God does however, forgive anybody for anything. How is that a mean god?

Yes. Have you?

I believe he meant, have you had a conversation with god? As in, you saying Howdy partner! and him saying Sup bro, instead of you just being, essentially, the ugly chick from the saturday party leaving the message on the recorder and him never getting back to you

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 19:00:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 06:33Starbuzz wrote on Fri, 08 February 2008 07:19When logic and reason is used against religious people, it is automatically branded as "bashing."

But when they speak like they know everything, we are expected to unconditionally believe them!

Religious people don't understand the words of "logic" or "reason" it is beyond them.

But hey!, it's their freedom to believe in a man made idea, who are we to bash them for that? xD

I understand logic and reason perfectly.

I also understand that it doesn't apply to concepts of God as well. There are just as many logical reasons as to why you should believe in God as to why you should trust a friend or a stranger.. ie. none.

Yet people trust friends and strangers every day, and aren't "bashed" for it...

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by renalpha on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 19:11:23 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 21:37I've always wondered how can so many christians place so much faith in a mystical man that lived 2000 years ago? What if jesus was just the greatest magician ever? I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurences all the time. since im a christian but i call myself a non believer.

i think jesus died because he just fucking deserved it thats why, listen i piss on religion. too many people question themselves why?...

i tell them to stfu, this only causes war.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by BlueThen on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 19:57:31 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

renalpha wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 13:11Rocko wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 21:37I've always wondered how can so many christians place so much faith in a mystical man that lived 2000 years ago? What if jesus was just the greatest magician ever? I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurences all the time.

since im a christian but i call myself a non believer.

i think jesus died because he just fucking deserved it thats why, listen i piss on religion. too many people question themselves why?...

i tell them to stfu, this only causes war.
...He deserved it?

You're fucked up, man, if you're a Christian aka CHRIST FOLLOWER, and you think that Jesus deserved to be cruelly tortured and killed.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 20:56:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 13:57renalpha wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 13:11Rocko wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 21:37I've always wondered how can so many christians place so much faith in a mystical man that lived 2000 years ago? What if jesus was just the greatest magician ever? I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurences all the time.
since im a christian but i call myself a non believer.

i think jesus died because he just fucking deserved it thats why, listen i piss on religion. too many people question themselves why?...

i tell them to stfu, this only causes war.
...He deserved it?

You're fucked up, man, if you're a Christian aka CHRIST FOLLOWER, and you think that Jesus deserved to be cruelly tortured and killed.

I don't agree with what alpha said, but Jesus did let it happen, when he had the chance to get away, so in a sense, he did deserve it, as he had the chance to escape but didn't.

Like standing in the road while a bus is coming and not getting out the way.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 21:05:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 12:56Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 13:57renalpha wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 13:11Rocko wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 21:37I've always wondered how can so many christians place so much faith in a mystical man that lived 2000 years ago? What if jesus was just the greatest magician ever? I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurences all the time.
since im a christian but i call myself a non believer.

i think jesus died because he just fucking deserved it thats why, listen i piss on religion. too many people question themselves why?...

i tell them to stfu, this only causes war.
...He deserved it?

You're fucked up, man, if you're a Christian aka CHRIST FOLLOWER, and you think that Jesus deserved to be cruelly tortured and killed.

I don't agree with what alpha said, but Jesus did let it happen, when he had the chance to get away, so in a sense, he did deserve it, as he had the chance to escape but didn't.

Like standing in the road while a bus is coming and not getting out the way.

Because if the bus did not hit him and kill him, then a lot of people will go to hell.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by BlueThen on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 21:08:44 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 15:05IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 12:56Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 13:57renalpha wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 13:11Rocko wrote on Sun, 27 January 2008 21:37I've always wondered how can so many christians place so much faith in a mystical man that lived 2000 years ago? What if jesus was just the greatest magician ever? I wouldn't think it to be too hard to trick and confuse people back then. People mistaked ordinary things for godly occurences all the time.
since im a christian but i call myself a non believer.

i think jesus died because he just fucking deserved it thats why, listen i piss on religion. too many people question themselves why?...

i tell them to stfu, this only causes war.
...He deserved it?

You're fucked up, man, if you're a Christian aka CHRIST FOLLOWER, and you think that Jesus deserved to be cruelly tortured and killed.

I don't agree with what alpha said, but Jesus did let it happen, when he had the chance to get away, so in a sense, he did deserve it, as he had the chance to escape but didn't.

Like standing in the road while a bus is coming and not getting out the way.

Because if the bus did not hit him and kill him, then a lot of people will go to hell.

You get more and more arrogant with every religious bashing comment you make.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 21:14:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 15:08 You get more and more arrogant with every religious bashing comment you make.

I am right am I not?

When I was not bashing and speaking logic, I was FALSY ACCUSED of bashing. Now when I simply followed up with Iron's analogy, I am arrogant?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 22:34:53 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

In a manner of speaking, Jesus committed suicide, which is a sin.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 23:18:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 16:34 In a manner of speaking, Jesus committed suicide, which is a sin.

Suicide is the act of forcibly killing oneself. While he did not attempt to stop anyone, he didn't inflict pain on himself. Therefore it isn't suicide.

Made me alugh though

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Muad Dib15 on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 23:26:14 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wright, if all you can do now is laugh at religious people give up this thread to people that actually know what they are talking about. Like Starbuzz, he doesn't blatantly bash people and then say, "I loled at your reply."

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 23:44:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Muad Dib15 wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 17:26Wright, if all you can do now is laugh at religious people give up this thread to people that actually know what they are talking about. Like Starbuzz, he doesn't blatantly bash people and then say, "I loled at your reply."

Ah so instead of continuing to attack my argument, after being thoroughly beaten, you finally just gave up and decided to result to accusing me of bashing your pagan religion.

Muad is preeeeetty cool

And yes, I am bashing your religion, because I find that its very foundations and principals incredibly stupid and contrite.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Tue, 12 Feb 2008 23:50:23 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

MWright967 wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 17:18IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 16:34In a manner of speaking, Jesus committed suicide, which is a sin.

Suicide is the act of forcibly killing oneself. While he did not attempt to stop anyone, he didn't inflict pain on himself. Therefore it isn't suicide.

Made me alugh though

As Jesus know what was gonna happen to himself and didn't stop it, you can argue that it was a act of suicide.

Have you ever heard of the term, suicide by cop?

Quote:Suicide-by-cop is a suicide method in which someone deliberately acts in a threatening way towards a law enforcement officer, with the goal of provoking a lethal response, such as being shot to death. Similar phrases include death by cop, suicide-by-police, and officer- (or police-) assisted suicide

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Suicide_by_cop

So, as he know what was going to happen and infact welcomed it, this you could say, is the same thing.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 00:05:11 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sorry, but that is faulty logic.

Suicide by cop is NOT simply knowing the police will kill you, and allowing it to happen. This is where you deliberately take actions in which you know the police will respond by killing you.

The suicide part comes in because of the ACTION you take, not in "waiting around to let it happen", because there is no waiting, there is a forced response by the individual to the police.

With what Jesus did (and anyone else who simply waits around and wait for the inevitable to happen) is not suicide, but rather allowing himself to be sacrificed for a greater cause (whether people believe in the cause or not, this is what it was done for).

Socrates did the same thing. He preached against the state, the state captured him and sentenced him to death. He accepted that sentence without attempting to escape (and according to Plato, he was given the chance to escape but chose to stay behind and face his captors).

I don't know ANYONE who said that Socrates committed suicide by doing that.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 01:42:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 18:05Sorry, but that is faulty logic.

Suicide by cop is NOT simply knowing the police will kill you, and allowing it to happen. This is where you deliberately take actions in which you know the police will respond by killing you.

The suicide part comes in because of the ACTION you take, not in "waiting around to let it happen", because there is no waiting, there is a forced response by the individual to the police.

With what Jesus did (and anyone else who simply waits around and wait for the inevitable to happen) is not suicide, but rather allowing himself to be sacrificed for a greater cause (whether people believe in the cause or not, this is what it was done for).

Socrates did the same thing. He preached against the state, the state captured him and sentenced him to death. He accepted that sentence without attempting to escape (and according to Plato, he was given the chance to escape but chose to stay behind and face his captors).

I don't know ANYONE who said that Socrates committed suicide by doing that.

You are wrong, using fancy words as "he sacrificed for a greater cause" is just a xtains way of blinding the pure fact of allowing himself to be killed. therefore suicide.

If you know what is gonna happen to you, then that is a level of suicide as you take your own life in your hands knowing the full facts of what you are doing and what is gonna happen to you.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 05:08:08 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sorry, it's not "fancy words".

Actually, by your definition, you are committing suicide right now. You know you will eventually dying and you are just sitting around waiting for it to happen. In fact, everyone in the world is doing just that.

Knowing you are going to die, but not taking means to prevent it IS NOT suicide.

Taking actions that ensure your death, IS suicide.

It is the ACTION that determines the suicide status. Suicide by cop is just that. Taking an action you know will result in your death.

Inaction, such as waiting around to die, has no basis in suicide. I highly doubt prisoners on death row are being "suicidal" by sitting around in a cell knowing they are going to die.

The "dying for a cause" is just circumstantial (ie. particular to their circumstance). Debating that is not important, which is probably why you are concentrating on it. Whether or not the person is delusional is not important. The action/inaction of ensuring the death is what is important.

I surly hope you don't have a personal directive (living will) asking that the plug be pulled in a particular circumstance or a do-not-resuscitate order. Because, by your very own definition, those people are committing suicide.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 12:49:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Tue, 12 February 2008 23:08 Sorry, it's not "fancy words".

Actually, by your definition, you are committing suicide right now. You know you will eventually dying and you are just sitting around waiting for it to happen. In fact, everyone in the world is doing just that.

Knowing you are going to die, but not taking means to prevent it IS NOT suicide.

Taking actions that your death, IS suicide.

It is the ACTION that determines the suicide status. Suicide by cop is just that. Taking an action you know will result in your death.

Inaction, such as waiting around to die, has no basis in suicide. I highly doubt prisoners on death row are being "suicidal" by sitting around in a cell knowing they are going to die.

The "dying for a cause" is just circumstantial (ie. particular to their circumstance). Debating that is not important, which is probably why you are concentrating on it. Whether or not the person is delusional is not important. The action/inaction of ensuring the death is what is important.

I surly hope you don't have a personal directive (living will) asking that the plug be pulled in a particular circumstance or a do-not-resuscitate order. Because, by your very own definition, those people are committing suicide.

As Jesus know he was gonna be killed the next day, he took no action to stop it, therefore in your own words, he ensured his death.

It's true, everyone is dying right now as we grow older, but as we don't know when we are going to die, could be tomorrow could be 100 years later, this is not in the same group as suicide.

I wouldn't say prisoners are on a level of suicide, I prefer to call it homicide with premeditation by the state. but I do think they should make a greater effort in prolonging their death, the whole idea of going willing to it, is just wrong.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 15:27:53 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Once again, inaction is not the same as action.

Not preventing something is not the same as taking action to ensure an event. Despite what the president of the US said, the only two options are not being either for something, or if not for something automatically against something.

Allowing an event to take place (whatever the circumstances) is not the same thing as doing the event yourself.

Since you keep relaying this back to Jesus, he was the same thing as the death row prisoner and Socrates. Both simply sat around waiting for the state to kill them. You, yourself said that isn't suicide. That's all that happened with Jesus. He was captured, put on a "trial" and sentenced to death.

Actually, like your prisoner analogy, his death was intentionally prolonged by the state, and only hastened when those guarding him took pity and stabbed him.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 16:04:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 09:27Once again, inaction is not the same as action.

Not preventing something is not the same as taking action to ensure an event. Despite what the president of the US said, the only two options are not being either for something, or if not for something automatically against something.

Allowing an event to take place (whatever the circumstances) is not the same thing as doing the event yourself.

Since you keep relaying this back to Jesus, he was the same thing as the death row prisoner and Socrates. Both simply sat around waiting for the state to kill them. You, yourself said that isn't suicide. That's all that happened with Jesus. He was captured, put on a "trial" and sentenced to death.

Actually, like your prisoner analogy, his death was intentionally prolonged by the state, and only hastened when those guarding him took pity and stabbed him.

An inaction is the same as a action, don't see how you can't see that, if you ask any military tactician, he would explain that an inaction is a action in itself.

Jesus and Socrates are different, as one know he was gonna die and one didn't, though the later might had known, but Jesus know he had to die for "our" sins, so know 100% without doubt.

Socrates committed a pure act of suicide as he drank the poison to kill himself.

Jesus didn't, Jesus own actions in letting himself get caught when he could had got away, was suicide in nature and infact, it was a early act of the modern problem known as suicide by cop, explained eailer.

Jesus know that the Romans was coming for him in the morning, he know what was they would do to him, he know he was gonna die, he let it all happen, he died for our sins, but he committed a sin himself, I can even dare say that Jesus is on the same terms as a modern day islamic suicide bomber, both know they are gonna die, both died for a "greater good" and both took no action to stop it.

You can't not defeat my pure hard cold logic with anything you say.

Resistance is futile. You will be assimilated, we are the Borg.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 18:35:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

^ E-philosopher.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by bisen11 on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 19:45:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 11:04warranto wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 09:27Once again, inaction is not the same as action.

Not preventing something is not the same as taking action to ensure an event. Despite what the president of the US said, the only two options are not being either for something, or if not for something automatically against something.

Allowing an event to take place (whatever the circumstances) is not the same thing as doing the event yourself.

Since you keep relaying this back to Jesus, he was the same thing as the death row prisoner and Socrates. Both simply sat around waiting for the state to kill them. You, yourself said that isn't suicide. That's all that happened with Jesus. He was captured, put on a "trial" and sentenced to death.

Actually, like your prisoner analogy, his death was intentionally prolonged by the state, and only hastened when those guarding him took pity and stabbed him.

An inaction is the same as a action, don't see how you can't see that, if you ask any military tactician, he would explain that an inaction is a action in itself.

Jesus and Socrates are different, as one know he was gonna die and one didn't, though the later might had known, but Jesus know he had to die for "our" sins, so know 100% without douth.

Socrates communitted a pure act of suicide as he drank the poison to kill himself.

Jesus didn't, Jesus own actions in letting himself get caught when he could had got away, was suicide in nature and infact, it was a early act of the modern problem known as suicide by cop, explained eailer.

Jesus know that the Romans was coming for him in the morning, he know what was they would do to him, he know he was gonna die, he let it all happen, he died for our sins, but he committed a sin himself, I can even dare say that Jesus is on the same terms as a modern day islamic suicide bomber, both know they are gonna die, both died for a "greater good" and both took no action to stop it.

You can't not defeat my pure hard cold logic with anything you say.

Resistance is futile. You will be assimilated, we are the Borg.

How can you say there is no such thing as god and then say that he knew they were coming for him that morning. No one gave him that information, in fact he was the one who told his disciples that one of them would betray him. An islamic suiced bomber is a brain washed idiot. Jesus was a genius. Great Philosophers tried to trick him many times and failed. Jesus did not kill anyone through his death but rather "washed away the sins of the earth".

Q pwns the borg.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 19:48:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 09:04warranto wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 09:27Once again, inaction is not the same as action.

Not preventing something is not the same as taking action to ensure an event. Despite what the president of the US said, the only two options are not being either for something, or if not for something automatically against something.

Allowing an event to take place (whatever the circumstances) is not the same thing as doing the event yourself.

Since you keep relaying this back to Jesus, he was the same thing as the death row prisoner and Socrates. Both simply sat around waiting for the state to kill them. You, yourself said that isn't suicide. That's all that happened with Jesus. He was captured, put on a "trial" and sentenced to death.

Actually, like your prisoner analogy, his death was intentionally prolonged by the state, and only hastened when those guarding him took pity and stabbed him.

An inaction is the same as a action, don't see how you can't see that, if you ask any military tactician, he would explain that an inaction is a action in itself.

Jesus and Socrates are different, as one know he was gonna die and one didn't, though the later might had known, but Jesus know he had to die for "our" sins, so know 100% without doubt.

Socrates committed a pure act of suicide as he drank the poison to kill himself.

Jesus didn't, Jesus own actions in letting himself get caught when he could had got away, was suicide in nature and in fact, it was a early act of the modern problem known as suicide by cop, explained earlier.

Jesus know that the Romans was coming for him in the morning, he know what was they would do to him, he know he was gonna die, he let it all happen, he died for our sins, but he committed a sin himself, I can even dare say that Jesus is on the same terms as a modern day islamic suicide bomber, both know they are gonna die, both died for a "greater good" and both took no action to stop it.

You can't not defeat my pure hard cold logic with anything you say.

Resistance is futile. You will be assimilated, we are the Borg.

When you start demonstrating that cold hard logic, perhaps you will be right.

An inaction is NOT an action, I don't see how you can't see that. They may both result in an act, but they are not the same thing. Its not really that hard to grasp.

The act of drinking the poison was suicide, perhaps - a state enforced action, but an ACTION nonetheless. The idea of him waiting around for it to happen, and not take the means of escape available to him are not an act of suicide, regardless of the knowledge of the outcome or not.

As for the comparison to the "modern-day suicide bomber", I have to outright laugh at you.

Quote:both know they are gonna die

right

Quote:both died for a "greater good"

right

Quote:both took no action to stop it.

Wrong. And this is where that "cold hard logic" of yours is perhaps flawed the most. the suicide bombers TAKES ACTION to ensure his death. He travels to the destination and detonates the bomb. He does not simply sit around waiting for the destination to come to him, and the explosion to happen on its own.

If that is what you qualify as "cold hard logic", then no wonder you have no grasp of what is being said here.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by IronWarrior on Wed, 13 Feb 2008 20:07:34 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 13:48IronWarrior wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 09:04warranto wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 09:27Once again, inaction is not the same as action.

Not preventing something is not the same as taking action to ensure an event. Despite what the president of the US said, the only two options are not being either for something, or if not for something automatically against something.

Allowing an event to take place (whatever the circumstances) is not the same thing as doing the event yourself.

Since you keep relaying this back to Jesus, he was the same thing as the death row prisoner and Socrates. Both simply sat around waiting for the state to kill them. You, yourself said that isn't suicide. That's all that happened with Jesus. He was captured, put on a "trial" and sentenced to death.

Actually, like your prisoner analogy, his death was intentionally prolonged by the state, and only hastened when those guarding him took pity and stabbed him.

An inaction is the same as a action, don't see how you can't see that, if you ask any military tacticition, he would explain that an inaction is a action in itself.

Jesus and Socrates are different, as one know he was gonna die and one didn't, though the later might had known, but Jesus know he had to die for "our" sins, so know 100% without douth.

Socrates communitted a pure act of suicide as he drank the poison to kill himself.

Jesus didn't, Jesus own actions in letting himself get caught when he could had got away, was suicide in nature and infact, it was a early act of the modern problem known as suicide by cop, explained eailer.

Jesus know that the Romans was coming for him in the morning, he know what was they would do to him, he know he was gonna die, he let it all happen, he died for our sins, but he committed a sin himself, I can even dare say that Jesus is on the same terms as a modern day islamtic suicide bomber, both know they are gonna die, both died for a "greater good" and both took no action to stop it.

You can't not defeat my pure hard cold logic with anything you say.

Resistance is futile. You will be assimilated, we are the Borg.

When you start demonstrating that cold hard logic, perhaps you will be right.

An inaction is NOT an action, I don't see how you can't see that. They may both result in an act, but they are not the same thing. Its not really that hard to grasp.

The act of drinking the poison was suicide, perhaps - a state enforced action, but an ACTION nonetheless. The idea of him waiting around for it to happen, and not take the means of escape available to him are not an act of suicide, regardless of the knowledge of the outcome or not.

As for the comparision to the "modern-day suicide bomber", I have to outright laugh at you.

Quote:both know they are gonna die

right

Quote:both died for a "greater good"

right

Quote:both took no action to stop it.

Wrong. And this is where that "cold hard logic" of yours is perhaps flawed the most. the suicide bombers TAKES ACTION to ensure his death. He travels to the destination and detonates the bomb. He does not simply sit around waiting for the destination to come to him, and the explosion to happen on its own.

If that is what you qualify as "cold hard logic", then no wonder you have no grasp of what is being said here.

An inaction is a action, as you took no other action then do nothing.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Dover on Thu, 14 Feb 2008 00:46:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 12:07An inaction is a action, as you took no other action then do nothing.

You're talking silly.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Thu, 14 Feb 2008 01:24:24 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Dover wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 18:46IronWarrior wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 12:07An inaction is a action, as you took no other action then do nothing.

You're talking silly.
not as silly as religion itself loooooooooooooo!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by bisen11 on Thu, 14 Feb 2008 02:58:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 15:07warranto wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 13:48IronWarrior wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 09:04warranto wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 09:27Once again, inaction is not the same as action.

Not preventing something is not the same as taking action to ensure an event. Despite what the president of the US said, the only two options are not being either for something, or if not for something automatically against something.

Allowing an event to take place (whatever the circumstances) is not the same thing as doing the event yourself.

Since you keep relaying this back to Jesus, he was the same thing as the death row prisoner and Socrates. Both simply sat around waiting for the state to kill them. You, yourself said that isn't suicide. That's all that happened with Jesus. He was captured, put on a "trial" and sentenced to death.

Actually, like your prisoner analogy, his death was intentionally prolonged by the state, and only hastened when those guarding him took pity and stabbed him.

An inaction is the same as a action, don't see how you can't see that, if you ask any military tactician, he would explain that an inaction is a action in itself.

Jesus and Socrates are different, as one know he was gonna die and one didn't, though the later might had known, but Jesus know he had to die for "our" sins, so know 100% without doubt.

Socrates committed a pure act of suicide as he drank the poison to kill himself.

Jesus didn't, Jesus own actions in letting himself get caught when he could had got away, was suicide in nature and in fact, it was a early act of the modern problem known as suicide by cop, explained earlier.

Jesus know that the Romans was coming for him in the morning, he know what was they would do to him, he know he was gonna die, he let it all happen, he died for our sins, but he committed a sin himself, I can even dare say that Jesus is on the same terms as a modern day islamic suicide bomber, both know they are gonna die, both died for a "greater good" and both took no action to stop it.

You can't not defeat my pure hard cold logic with anything you say.

Resistance is futile. You will be assimilated, we are the Borg.

When you start demonstrating that cold hard logic, perhaps you will be right.

An inaction is NOT an action, I don't see how you can't see that. They may both result in an act, but they are not the same thing. Its not really that hard to grasp.

The act of drinking the poison was suicide, perhaps - a state enforced action, but an ACTION nonetheless. The idea of him waiting around for it to happen, and not take the means of escape available to him are not an act of suicide, regardless of the knowledge of the outcome or not.

As for the comparison to the "modern-day suicide bomber", I have to outright laugh at you.

Quote: both know they are gonna die

right

Quote:both died for a "greater good"

right

Quote:both took no action to stop it.

Wrong. And this is where that "cold hard logic" of yours is perhaps flawed the most. the suicide bombers TAKES ACTION to ensure his death. He travels to the destination and detonates the bomb. He does not simply sit around waiting for the destination to come to him, and the explosion to happen on its own.

If that is what you qualify as "cold hard logic", then no wonder you have no grasp of what is being said here.

An inaction is a action, as you took no other action then do nothing.

0 = 1 ?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Dover on Thu, 14 Feb 2008 03:04:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 17:24Dover wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 18:46IronWarrior wrote on Wed, 13 February 2008 12:07An inaction is a action, as you took no other action then do nothing.

You're talking silly.
not as silly as religion itself loooooooooooooo!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Almost as silly. It's up there.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by bisen11 on Fri, 15 Feb 2008 04:30:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Many scientists believe in a higher power.

"Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian Spring" I think this quote fits some of you pretty well...

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Fri, 15 Feb 2008 13:50:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

bisen11 wrote on Thu, 14 February 2008 22:30 Many scientists believe in a higher power.

"Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian Spring" I think this quote fits some of you pretty well...

Oh I am so scared now...

An ambiguous statement that ignores what religion is at the core is surely a good point to make.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Dreganius on Tue, 04 Mar 2008 11:37:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I just had to post this. It made me laugh, but also made me think quite a bit...

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Tue, 04 Mar 2008 19:21:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Dreganius wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 05:37

I just had to post this. It made me laugh, but also made me think quite a bit...

lol @ image.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Tue, 04 Mar 2008 19:58:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

haha! Nice image!

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by BlueThen on Tue, 04 Mar 2008 20:02:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ok, which is more logical:

Universe is a explosion
Universe is a creation

Maybe the universe is a explosion created by God.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Wed, 05 Mar 2008 00:59:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 14:02Ok, which is more logical:

Universe is a explosion
Universe is a creation

Maybe the universe is a explosion created by God.

k even if it is logical that God exists, that in no way proves that Christianity or any other religion is true, which is the main point i ever have in these discussions. It all comes down to faith, but that's garbage as one can have faith in anything.

perhaps i am jesus II.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by nikki6ixx on Wed, 05 Mar 2008 02:01:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 18:59
perhaps i am jesus II.

You have some stiff competition there, especially from the hobo on my way to work who bites people.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Muad Dib15 on Wed, 05 Mar 2008 02:40:59 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 18:59Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 14:02Ok, which is more logical:

Universe is a explosion
Universe is a creation

Maybe the universe is a explosion created by God.
k even if it is logical to that God exists, that in no way proves that Christianity or any other religion is true, which is the main point i ever have in these discussions. It all comes down to faith, but that's garbage as one can have faith in anything.

perhaps i am jesus II.

First thing I've ever seen you post that didn't make shake my head and say. "OMG another Rocko post."

But their isn't proof that God doesn't exist. Nor is their proof that he does exist. It is just a question of faith.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Wed, 05 Mar 2008 04:54:23 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 14:02Ok,
Maybe the universe is a explosion created by God.

Who made God.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Wed, 05 Mar 2008 05:03:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 23:54Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 14:02Ok,
Maybe the universe is a explosion created by God.

Who made God.

Another explosion!

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by IronWarrior on Wed, 05 Mar 2008 05:27:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 23:03IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 23:54Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 14:02Ok,
Maybe the universe is a explosion created by God.
Who made God.

Another explosion!

What made that?

Other explosion!

Humans are dumb as fuck really, if we can't explain something, we say God did it.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Dreganius on Wed, 05 Mar 2008 05:44:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I went to the toilet today.
Why?
Because I needed to take a crap.
Why?
Because when we eat food and digest it, we need to.
Why?
Because if we don't eat, we die.
Why?
Because we become malnourished and die.
Why?
Because all things must end.
Why?
Because.. Because God said so?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Thu, 06 Mar 2008 20:01:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 22:27Starbuzz wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 23:03IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 23:54Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 14:02Ok,
Maybe the universe is a explosion created by God.
Who made God.

Another explosion!

What made that?

Other explosion!

Humans are dumb as fuck really, if we can't explain something, we say God did it.

Heh, unfortunately the fact people do this proves nothing about God, either for or against.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by IronWarrior on Thu, 06 Mar 2008 21:24:04 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Thu, 06 March 2008 14:01IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 22:27Starbuzz wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 23:03IronWarrior wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 23:54Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 04 March 2008 14:02Ok, Maybe the universe is a explosion created by God. Who made God.

Another explosion!

What made that?

Other explosion!

Humans are dumb as fuck really, if we can't explain something, we say God did it.

Heh, unfortunately the fact people do this proves nothing about God, either for or against.

God is the easy answer for everything, it's there to explain all the good and bad points in life, it's there to guide us in life and give our lifes meaning, but it just falsh hope that takes faith.

But I'm agnostic, so am happy to believe there might be a God, but am happy to believe there isn't.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by Rocko on Thu, 06 Mar 2008 23:25:53 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:But I'm agnostic, so am happy to believe there might be a God, but am happy to believe there isn't.

best thing i have ever read

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 03:13:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Thu, 06 March 2008 17:25Quote:But I'm agnostic, so am happy to believe there might be a God, but am happy to believe there isn't.
best thing i have ever read

Indeed.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by BlueThen on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 03:39:03 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Oh, so because Christianity believes in a good thing, they MUST be wrong! Life has to be depressing, else it's wrong.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 03:47:57 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Fri, 07 March 2008 21:39Oh, so because Christianity believes in a good thing, they MUST be wrong! Life has to be depressing, else it's wrong.

No one said it is wrong. If I said it before, then I take it back. Also, just because you don't give much thought to a higher being DOES NOT mean you are living a depressing life. That's just a pretty irrational assumption.

I consider myself one very happy guy in love with life despite not being a Christian...there are so many things other than "God" that motivates me to live life for the good...for example: my woman. No drug or belief will match the power of love.

As for your "soul", LOL it is only your conscience.

We only have an average of 80 years on this rock to fulfill our hopes and dreams. I am not going to waste that time dreaming about the next life. LOL...I think that is pretty retarded. It shows humans want MORE of everything instead of being content with what they have. Heavenly mansions and gold coins and heavenly riches FTL!

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by GEORGE ZIMMER on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 04:00:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I definitely believe God exists in some form, but I don't quite think EVERY LITTLE THING that Christians usually believe are necessarily right. I just know that there's a God, and probably some form of alternate afterlife if you wish to not be with God. Be it hell, or just plain void, I'm sure there's multiple planes of reality that we pass to after death.

It just seems to odd that our souls would simply disappear.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 04:38:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The thing that people tend to forget are the thousands of religions that came before Christianity. What is religion? I believe it is a warm-cozy belief (with all due respect) to make life easier to live. If you take a history book and read from the earliest recorded history, you will see the many gods, and goddesses that people worshiped and felt good about. The Sun was worshipped for it's warmth and life force.

Now, thousands and thousands of generations later, it has gradually evolved to the religions that we see today. And it will continue to evolve further.

Roman soldiers worshipped Minerva before going to battle...they believed she watched over them as they battled. Now, we know what gods modern soldiers worship, no?

The "soul" concept is one of the most ignored and most overlooked.

Cabal8616 wrote on Fri, 07 March 2008 22:00 It just seems to odd that our souls would simply disappear.

It is obvious that the soul is your conscience...the self-aware notion of your own self. I used to find it odd too but if you try to understand it carefully and think it through, you would gain a better understanding. You would realize that this "soul" is related to your brain growth and memory.

Where were our "souls" the minute after we were born? Nowhere! We can't even recall ourselves being alive. But as our brain developed and our body grew as the years went by, we gained this sense of conscience...that we are alive. This clearly shows that our conscience (called as the "soul" by some people) is DIRECTLY related to our physical body...i.e the development of the brain and other bodily functions.

So, having said that, it is perfectly rational to say that this conscience, our self-awareness, or "soul" ceases to exist after the brain stops to function at death.

I highly doubt a grown-ass spirit form of us would jump out of our physical bodies the moment we die and go on to the gates of heaven to be judged! That is simply irrational and needs to be proven? I will stop there.

In my educated opinion, just as we were "nothing" before we were conceived, death will reduce us to exactly that: nothing.

And people who feel that is a depressive view really need to find a good woman to love and be glad they are alive.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by jnz on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 06:06:43 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

<http://youtube.com/watch?v=7ji2Y8DddaU&feature=related> <http://youtube.com/watch?v=FXKTTYyx1vg&feature=related> http://youtube.com/watch?v=EbRu7C9UHl8&watch_response

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by GEORGE ZIMMER on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 06:10:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

It's possible to have both a woman AND be a Christian, just so ya know.

I don't view Christianity as an "escape" from anything. I view more of the bigger pictures of things- That your soul will be transferred somewhere else, etc. Most likely another plane of existence, AKA Heaven or hell.

As for your example of being a baby and remembering nothing, well, yes, our brains were underdeveloped at that point, thus our ability to memorize things at that time was limited. Really, can you honestly say you remember what all you did 2 years ago this day? Probably not. We just plain don't remember these things because yeah, we don't remember everything. However, we usually retain our memories of larger events.

You can say that "Well what about things like amnesia and other such memory-related things?". Well, hasn't it been proven that somewhere within your mind, your memories remain?

Really, in a way, you remember everything- It's just that most of it isn't exactly reachable through just trying to remember. It's usually a sort of sub-conscious sort of thing.

And yes, I do agree that your sense of being is your soul- Your conscience, if you will. But where did this "conscience" come from them? Many of our emotions that are explained through science are usually reactions- Not always the action that triggers it. I don't quite have 100% proof to back this up as I haven't delved too deep into the field of emotions and such through science, but yes.

I just find it too odd that we as humans all have this ability to hope and have and give emotions out of nowhere.

As for you saying we'll simply go into nothingness from where we came, I disagree. Where exactly we'll end up I can't say, no one really can actually know for sure. For all I know we'll end up in the same place- Truly good people and child molesters alike, but in a new world.

The reason why I believe this is that it's a little too odd that people have always had these beliefs of hope and an afterlife. If there was no creator to give us these beliefs by their own word, where would humanity have gotten this idea?

I'm probably going in circles at this point, but you get my point. Why would we have hope at all? Or really any of these emotions if there was no form of creator.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 18:19:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Cabal8616 wrote on Sat, 08 March 2008 00:10 It's possible to have both a woman AND be a Christian, just so ya know.

Yes, I know but Blue makes it seem life is depressing without a religion.

Cabal8616 wrote on Sat, 08 March 2008 00:10 The reason why I believe this is that it's a little too odd that people have always had these beliefs of hope and an afterlife. If there was no creator to give us these beliefs by their own word, where would humanity have gotten this idea?

Then in that case, it is most certainly NOT the Judeo-Christian "God" who "gave us these beliefs." The Judeo-Christian God is a jealous and bloodthirsty supernatural being who forbid the worship of other god or gods and threatened severe punishments for doing so:

Quote:3 Thou shalt have no other gods before me.

4 Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth.

5 Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

Exodus 20:3-4

It is absurd to suggest that this "God" ^ is the one who put these beliefs into us. I find it irrational and simply stupid and contradictory that the "God" who supposedly said these things took the longest route through history in his "plan" to reach the people...a plan that had thousands of generations of human beings worshipping the Sun, lightening, thunder and many other natural occurences and other gods. It's too simple to see where religion came from.

As for the emotions, even animals have emotions. They have their own forms of courting and mating just as humans have.

Even the argument of intelligent design has it's severe flaws. Who made such a complex being like "God" who then proceeded on to make seemingly "complex" things?

As for the whole memory and soul thing, please atleast understand what you are saying before saying it.

So you are saying that deep inside, I actually have the memory of me sucking milk from a tit-shaped bottle? I don't think so.

It is OLD Science news that in babies, the brain is simply too young to have these functions. The hippocampus, cerebral cortex, and the frontal cortex are simply not mature enough to glean, process, and retain memory and therefore no conscience exists. It is gained as the brain matures over the years and dies when the brain stops to function.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by BlueThen on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 19:28:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Sat, 08 March 2008 12:19Cabal8616 wrote on Sat, 08 March 2008 00:10It's possible to have both a woman AND be a Christian, just so ya know.

Yes, I know but Blue makes it seem life is depressing without a religion.

I point out how depressing athiests make it look, and you blame me.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 08 Mar 2008 19:58:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Sat, 08 March 2008 14:28Starbuzz wrote on Sat, 08 March 2008 12:19Cabal8616 wrote on Sat, 08 March 2008 00:10It's possible to have both a woman AND be a Christian, just so ya know.

Yes, I know but Blue makes it seem life is depressing without a religion.

I point out how depressing athiests make it look, and you blame me.

Because you said so?

Originally Blue wrote on Fri, 07 March 2008 21:39Life has to be depressing, else it's wrong.

We don't find it depressing. You see it at that level of depressiveness only because it pales when compared to your cherished beliefs.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by kikiller9 on Sun, 09 Mar 2008 20:01:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have the awnser, i have a t-shirt that says Chuch norris loves jesus, so should you.
But in the end it justs comes down to having faith.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Sun, 09 Mar 2008 22:57:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wouldn't it be funny if we were all actually just a dream in a fat kid's head?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Muad Dib15 on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 02:03:27 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I say this again.V V
Muad Dib15 wrote on Thu, 24 January 2008 12:49No, Starbuzz is anti Christian. I haven't seen him talk bad about anyone except Christians.

If you think that Christianity is a selfish religion, look at Buhoodism. If you touch someone from a lower class than you, or help them, you are now impure. Therefore, you can't help anyone in a lower class. That religion is like a competition, where you are all for your self and want to get to nirvana. In that religion, you don't give a shit about anybody but your self. In Christianity, we try to do the exact opposite. You can help anyone you want and you won't go down "to a lower level", infact because you helped the person, if you spend your whole life helping people, you are more likely to become a better person. Now, it may sound selfish, because the religion is about you going to heaven, but that is why Christianity has rules. aka the ten commandments

But, you could say that those are the basic rules of life, and that is true, but they didn't know that back then, so God felt like he had to tell them. It may sound just like Buddhism, but unlike it, Christianity actually encourages helping other people. I hate the way you bash on Christians without regard for other religions. If you don't like Christianity, just say that. Who cares if man is flawed and needs false hope. Me, i couldn't live without religion because, then I would feel that my life is worthless and there really is no point to living. Because I really don't think that humans should live just to die 80 years later. What is the point? That is why I believe that there is something up there after we die, just waiting for us. Scientists say that what makes us different from other beings is that we can reason. That may be so, but what if the real reason we are different from animals is that we have a code set down by us that says that we must do this, this, and this, and not this to go someplace better.

I don't know about you, but I'd like to think that there is someplace better than this sin ridden world. And that is why I believe in Christ. Even if it is a false hope, I'd rather think and hope that, than to know that there really is no point to me and my existence being here.

Why I believe.

@Chimp: My offer still stands. Find me a book or whatever that describes the old world more accurately than the bible, and I'll consider your arguments valid. Other wise, get the hell off these threads since you don't have any real proof that God doesn't exist and you consistently say that we are idiots for believing. And stop changing your name, your as bad as WHOREQWEER. I'll start calling apeshit if you want.

@Starbuzz: You were a Christian, you know how we think because you thought the same way. So please stop the blatant bashing that you are now doing.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by BlueThen on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 02:14:39 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Muad Dib15 wrote on Mon, 10 March 2008 21:03

@Starbuzz: You were a Christian, you know how we think because you thought the same way. So please stop the blatant bashing that you are now doing.
No! He's convincing you see...

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 03:23:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Muad Dib15 wrote on Mon, 10 March 2008 20:03I say this again.V V

Muad Dib15 wrote on Thu, 24 January 2008 12:49No, Starbuzz is anti Christian. I haven't seen him talk bad about anyone except Christians.

If you think that Christianity is a selfish religion, look at Buddhism. If you touch someone from a lower class than you, or help them, you are now impure. Therefore, you can't help anyone in a lower class. That religion is like a competition, where you are all for your self and want to get to nirvana. In that religion, you don't give a shit about anybody but your self. In Christianity, we try to do the exact opposite. You can help anyone you want and you won't go down "to a lower level", infact because you helped the person, if you spend your whole life helping people, you are more likely to become a better person. Now, it may sound selfish, because the religion is about you going to heaven, but that is why Christianity has rules. aka the ten commandments

But, you could say that those are the basic rules of life, and that is true, but they didn't know that back then, so God felt like he had to tell them. It may sound just like Buddhism, but unlike it, Christianity actually encourages helping other people. I hate the way you bash on Christians without regard for other religions. If you don't like Christianity, just say that. Who cares if man is flawed and needs false hope. Me, i couldn't live without religion because, then I would feel that my life is worthless and there really is no point to living. Because I really don't think that humans should live just to die 80 years later. What is the point? That is why I believe that there is something up there after we die, just waiting for us. Scientists say that what makes us different from other beings is that we can reason. That may be so, but what if the real reason we are different from animals is that we have a code set down by us that says that we must do this, this, and this, and not this to go someplace better.

I don't know about you, but I'd like to think that there is someplace better than this sin ridden world. And that is why I believe in Christ. Even if it is a false hope, I'd rather think and hope that, than to know that there really is no point to me and my existence being here.

Why I believe.

@Chimp: My offer still stands. Find me a book or whatever that describes the old world more accurately than the bible, and I'll consider your arguments valid. Other wise, get the hell off these threads since you don't have any real proof that God doesn't exist and you consistently say that we are idiots for believing. And stop changing your name, your as bad as WHOREQWEER. I'll start calling apeshit if you want.

@Starbuzz: You were a Christian, you know how we think because you thought the same way. So please stop the blatant bashing that you are now doing.

Lol. Right- because I'm the idiot for not believing an old dusty book which has been changed innumerable times over the ages and has very little proof for its validity. Get the fuck off my internetz.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 03:46:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

As long as threads discussing religion are created, I will continue to post.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Chimp on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 03:50:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Mon, 10 March 2008 21:46As long as threads discussing religion are created, I will continue to post.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 04:37:49 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

fuck christianity

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 17:19:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Heh, I have to admit I don't take these "attacks" on Christianity to be threatening in any way. Fun to argue, but ultimately uneventful.

I am Roman Catholic, and even I know that religion, at it's most basic form is simply a way of attempting to understand just what "God" is. Be it stated that we must worship out of fear, guidance, thankfulness or just to feel safe and secure within ourselves. There is nothing definitive that says my religion is the right one, or that any religion is the right one. It is but one way of attempting to understand something larger than ourselves.

However, with that being said, Religion and God have, in essence, absolutely nothing to do with each other. To prove religion wrong in no way affects the idea of there being a God, only that one way of understanding him was incorrect.

If you are going to attempt to prove that God doesn't exist, you won't do it by proving any sort of Religion to be wrong.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 22:20:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Tue, 11 March 2008 12:19Heh, I have to admit I don't take these "attacks" on Christianity to be threatening in any way. Fun to argue, but ultimately uneventful.

I am Roman Catholic, and even I know that religion, at it's most basic form is simply a way of attempting to understand just what "God" is. Be it stated that we must worship out of fear, guidance, thankfulness or just to feel safe and secure within ourselves. There is nothing definitive that says my religion is the right one, or that any religion is the right one. It is but one way of attempting to understand something larger than ourselves.

However, with that being said, Religion and God have, in essence, absolutely nothing to do with each other. To prove religion wrong in no way affects the idea of there being a God, only that one way of understanding him was incorrect.

If you are going to attempt to prove that God doesn't exist, you won't do it by proving any sort of Religion to be wrong.

this is why i said fuck christianity, not fuck god, cus god is possible

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by BlueThen on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 22:29:42 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What's so bad about Christianity?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by cnc95fan on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 23:48:19 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 11 March 2008 16:29: What's so bad about Christianity?
Nothing.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Tue, 11 Mar 2008 23:59:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

cnc95fan wrote on Tue, 11 March 2008 17:48: Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 11 March 2008 16:29: What's so bad about Christianity?
Nothing.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by nikki6ixx on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 00:12:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I believe in God, but I do not subscribe to the preachings, and biblical interpretations of others; especially to those that belong to an institution that bases its hierarchy on the size of a person's hat.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 01:53:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Tue, 11 March 2008 16:29: What's so bad about Christianity?
u r

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 14:41:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Tue, 11 March 2008 11:19Heh, I have to admit I don't take these "attacks" on Christianity to be threatening in any way.

When did you start branding logical reasoning as "attacks"? It's the usual ignorance I have come to expect.

warranto wrote on Tue, 11 March 2008 11:19However, with that being said, Religion and God have, in essence, absolutely nothing to do with each other. To prove religion wrong in no way affects the idea of there being a God, only that one way of understanding him was incorrect.

Sure, how can a hypothetical be disproven?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 18:37:26 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ermm.. huh?

Sorry, I figured that with "attacks" being in quotation marks, it would be seen as using the word as OTHERS have used them, not myself.

I didn't realize it would be seen as me quoting myself in my own post through the use of quotation marks to indicate me quoting myself in my own post... "perhaps when I make comments in my own post I should start doing this?"

"It seems kind of redundant, no?"

Quote:Sure, how can a hypothetical be disproven?

Sorry... but what does this have to do with disproving a hypothetical?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 18:40:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 12:37ermm.. huh?

Sorry, I figured that with "attacks" being in quotation marks, it would be seen as using the word as OTHERS have used them, not myself.

I didn't realize it would be seen as me quoting myself in my own post through the use of quotation marks to indicate me quoting myself in my own post... "perhaps when I make comments in my own post I should start doing this?"

"It seems kind of redundant, no?"

No BS please.

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 12:37Quote:Sure, how can a hypothetical be disproven?

Sorry... but what does this have to do with disproving a hypothetical?

ooo missed a word...meant hypothetical being.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 18:45:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:More BS.

Ok, now I am really lost... what promoted this response?

I make fun of how other people call it attacks, and you get after me for making fun of them?

Quote:oops mistake...I meant hypothetical being

Ah, I see.

You can't disprove it. It can't be proven to exist either.

We do not KNOW, and therefore can not claim to KNOW God exists, we simply believe he does.

Just as you do not KNOW God does not exist, and therefore can not claim to KNOW he doesn't.
You simply believe he doesn't.

Unfortunately that has nothing to do with what I said. All I said was that showing how any religion is wrong (or has features of it that aren't up to what people expect) in no way affects the existence or nonexistence of God.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 18:58:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Stop using god with capital letters. It shows you are ignoring the thousands of other gods that people felt secure with since human beings appeared on the Earth. And the only reason you are not worshipping another god was because of the random way you were born into a family with a certain religious affiliation. This applies for everyone.

Quote:You simply believe he doesn't.

Oh like blind faith as religious folks? I didn't choose to believe a god does not exist. There are plenty of solid evidence which makes you think harder about the issue.

FYI, I am Agnostic.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 19:08:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:It shows you are ignoring the thousands of other gods that people felt secure with since human beings appeared on the Earth. And the only reason you are not worshipping another god was because of the random way you were born into a family with a certain religious affiliation. This applies for everyone.

Point being?

Quote:Oh like blind faith as religious folks?

You don't have to possess blind faith to be religious...

Quote:There are plenty of solid evidence which makes you think harder about the issue.

I'd love to see this evidence.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 19:44:48 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 13:08Quote:It shows you are ignoring the thousands of other gods that people felt secure with since human beings appeared on the Earth. And the only reason you are not worshipping another god was because of the random way you were born into a family with a certain religious affiliation. This applies for everyone.

Point being?

Point being you are just a tool in the endless cycle of humanity.

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 13:08Quote:Oh like blind faith as religious folks?

You don't have to possess blind faith to be religious...

Yeah, you can also attribute all the good things that happen to you as the work of a god.

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 13:08Quote:There are plenty of solid evidence which makes you think harder about the issue.

I'd love to see this evidence.

Visit your local library and start with a book on Natural History. The moment you abandon that attitude of yours is the moment you break free of the impressions your parents made on you since childhood.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 20:28:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:Point being you are just a tool in the endless cycle of humanity.

Explain. How is talking about the existence of a God different than talking about the existence of a God?

Quote:Yeah, you can also attribute all the good things that happen to you as the work of a god.

I'm lost... what does this claim have to do with my argument?

Quote:Visit your local library and start with a book on Natural History. The moment you abandon that attitude of yours is the moment you break free of the impressions your parents made on you since childhood.

Considering I have yet to state what my "attitude" is, I'm surprised you can make this claim...

what does a book on Natural History have to do with anything that I've said?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by cnc95fan on Wed, 12 Mar 2008 20:50:38 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

It's a bit strange to think, te Big Bang, our galaxy, our solar system... our being, is all by mistake.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by InternetThug on Fri, 14 Mar 2008 04:29:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

hahaha Rocko ur good at making very controversial topics gj

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by AnThRaX on Fri, 14 Mar 2008 04:32:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

who is rocko

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Muad Dib15 on Fri, 14 Mar 2008 11:25:11 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Try checking here more often.
Mr. October 2005

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Fri, 21 Mar 2008 19:24:14 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 13:28Quote:Point being you are just a tool in the endless cycle of humanity.

Explain. How is talking about the existence of a God different than talking about the existence of a God?

Quote:Yeah, you can also attribute all the good things that happen to you as the work of a god.

I'm lost... what does this claim have to do with my argument?

Quote:Visit your local library and start with a book on Natural History. The moment you abandon that attitude of yours is the moment you break free of the impressions your parents made on you since childhood.

Considering I have yet to state what my "attitude" is, I'm surprised you can make this claim...

what does a book on Natural History have to do with anything that I've said?

Bump.

Still waiting on an answer to these.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Fri, 21 Mar 2008 21:14:50 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Funny how warranto assumes I am out of an answer so that's why I did not respond! haha! I was actually doing Xtians a big favor by not critically questioning your beliefs but I guess Holy Week has rekindled some spiritual flames. hahah!

SOOOO, don't blame me when things go a bit out of control from now on. warranto started it. But I will try to keep it "civil."

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 14:28Quote:Point being you are just a tool in the endless cycle of humanity.

Explain. How is talking about the existence of a God different than talking about the existence of a God?

It's obvious I was referring to our real life personalities and the life we are leading outside these electronic forum pages.

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 14:28Quote:Yeah, you can also attribute all the good things that happen to you as the work of a god.

I'm lost... what does this claim have to do with my argument?

Well, you said:

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 13:08 You don't have to possess blind faith to be religious...

And I felt it was safe to assume what I just mentioned above.

warranto wrote on Wed, 12 March 2008 14:28Quote:Visit your local library and start with a book on Natural History. The moment you abandon that attitude of yours is the moment you break free of the impressions your parents made on you since childhood.

Considering I have yet to state what my "attitude" is, I'm surprised you can make this claim...

what does a book on Natural History have to do with anything that I've said?

You don't have to "state" your attitude.

Many "different" schools of thoughts are there that makes you question the Bible. If you think I just "jumped on the Atheist bandwagon" as a rebellious teen, you would be very wrong. My decision (that I struggled with for 2 years) was based on the scientific findings of thousands of intelligent men and women WAY intelligent.

I am not saying they have all the answers but in no way are they as confused as you. The bloodshed, curses, torments, punishments, and the other narrow ramblings of the Jewish literature that is otherwise known as the Bible pales like shit in comparison.

So, before trying to make a smart "I would like to see that evidence" comment, it will make sense to read some of their works to gain a better understanding of the world you live in. All the answers are not in one book (that was written in a primitive age).

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 00:54:55 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Sigh...

Quote: Funny how warranto assumes I am out of an answer so that's why I did not respond! haha!

It would be, if only you could show me where I said that?

Quote: It's obvious I was referring to our real life personalities and the life we are leading outside these electronic forum pages.

That's nice. Still doesn't answer my question. I bring in a question about God, you ask why I'm not using "god", and in the process say that I am a tool.

Again, answer the question that was asked. How is talking about the existence of a God different than talking about the existence of a God?

Quote: And I felt it was safe to assume what I just mentioned above.

Inferencing something that was never said as an argument only to attack it does not work in any form of "logic", sorry. That would be the same as me asking "What's 2+2", and you answering "5! Oh, I thought you were inferring +1 added to that statement!"

Quote: So, before trying to make a smart "I would like to see that evidence" comment, it will make sense to read some of their works to gain a better understanding of the world you live in. All the answers are not in one book (that was written in a primitive age).

Sorry, but I fail to see how reading a book on natural history disproves God's existence. I'm also curious as to why you assume I get all my answers from one book? I never stated that anywhere. (Remember what I said about inferring answers?)

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 01:08:59 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you re-read, your question does not make sense AT ALL. Like some odd one thrown into the mix?

Also, I am not trying to disprove "God's" existence! Wow wow...now I see why you (and your types) are misunderstanding all this. I am saying there is a lot more than you could even imagine...a lot more than what error-filled Jewish literature has led many to believe.

EDIT:

This is what scientists are working on. It may take hundreds and hundreds of years to figure this out. And I think it is definitely possible. Consider how long it took for humans to find that out, contrary to popular (and biblical) beliefs, that the Sun was in the center and not the Earth.

So in this state of uncertainty, I am not gonna come to any premature conclusions (that are presented as the truth in a global scale) that has gaping holes in context with simple logic.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 01:17:22 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Well, when you said:

Quote:I didn't choose to believe a god does not exist. There are plenty of solid evidence which makes you think harder about the issue.

It suggested that you "came about" the idea that a god does not exist from <whatever means>, so I ask for this "evidence" that God does not exist.

You proceed to insult me and then tell me to read the book natural history as this "evidence".

I tell you it is not evidence, only to have you insult me again.

Hmm.. I could only wonder where any sort of misunderstanding occurred. The fact you said you could provide evidence of God not existing, or the fact you insult me when I said God's existence could not be proven or disproven.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 01:21:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Starbuzz wrote on Fri, 21 March 2008 18:08Also, if you re-read, your question does not make senese AT ALL. Like some odd one thrown into the mix?

I am not trying to disprove "God's" existence! Wow wow...now I see why you are misunderstanding all this. I am saying there is a lot more than you could even imagine...a lot more than what error-filled Jewish literature has led many to believe.

Edit was after I started posting, so I'll address it here.

The question makes sense if you read back to what you said.

You got after me for using "God", and called me a tool when I said it wasn't a big deal. So I ask "How is talking about the existence of a God different than talking about the existence of a God?" because, according to you, I am a tool for talking about the existence of a God (be it "God", "god", "Bob", or whatever name you give a divine being).

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 01:38:59 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I edited my post above.

warranto wrote on Fri, 21 March 2008 19:17Well, when you said:

Quote:I didn't choose to believe a god does not exist. There are plenty of solid evidence which makes you think harder about the issue.

It suggested that you "came about" the idea that a god does not exist from <whatever means>, so I ask for this "evidence" that God does not exist.

You proceed to insult me and then tell me to read the book natural history as this "evidence".

I tell you it is not evidence, only to have you insult me again.

Hmm.. I could only wonder where any sort of misunderstanding occurred. The fact you said you could provide evidence of God not existing, or the fact you insult me when I said God's existence could not be proven or disproven.

You shouldn't be assuming no?

I honestly meant there are other possibilities and that nothign is cut out.

"Thinking harder" was me for 2 years trying to grasp the fact and doubting slowly (and sometimes fearfully) that the Bible may not be the expert on things as it is presented as. It was only a natural process and not based on any arrogance as others have suggested...I doubted the Bible, there was too little faith to stop my intellectual reasoning and curiosity, and boom, next thing I know, I felt like talking to myself when saying a prayer.

And you assumed something about that statement that was incorrect and hence the misunderstanding.

And you asked for evidence just like that and I told you furiously to go read some books.

As for me calling you a tool, well, not because you talked about "God," because you have come to a rigid conclusion on something we humans are still in the process of discovery. And you have based it on error-filled literature. Doesn't make sense at all.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 02:05:30 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I asked nothing about the bible. I asked on this evidence you had on God's non-existence (considering that's what we were talking about, and NOT the bible, I figured you would be providing evidence on God, not the bible)

Quote:You shouldn't be assuming no?

Not assuming there. I was interpreting what you said by using basic grammar rules. (And people wonder why grammar on the Internet is a good thing...)

Quote:"Thinking harder" was me for 2 years trying to grasp the fact and doubting slowly (and sometimes fearfully) that the Bible may not be the expert on things as it is presented as. It was only a natural process and not based on any arrogance as others have suggested...I doubted the Bible, there was too little faith to stop my intellectual reasoning and curiosity, and boom, next thing I know, I felt like talking to myself when saying a prayer.

Again, your lack of trust in the bible does nothing to answer any of my questions, or even touch on what we were discussing.

Quote:As for me calling you a tool, well, not because you talked about "God," because you have come to a rigid conclusion on something we humans are still in the process of discovery. And you have based it on error-filled literature. Doesn't make sense at all.

Show me where I have come to a "rigid" conclusion by saying there is no proof to support or deny God's existence. Show me where I said I based my uncertainty on ANY literature.

You pulling these arguments out of thin air is what doesn't make any sense at all. NOWHERE have I stated ANYTHING you have been suggesting.

This "You're wrong because I'm making up faulty arguments for you" thing you seem to thoroughly enjoy doesn't quite work if you want to make any sort of valid argument, or even just to be taken seriously.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Starbuzz on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 09:04:59 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto wrote on Fri, 21 March 2008 20:05 I asked nothing about the bible. I asked on this evidence you had on God's non-existence (considering that's what we were talking about, and NOT the bible, I figured you would be providing evidence on God, not the bible)

Yes, you keep asking for the impossible and seem to enjoy that.

In addition to human discoveries, the Bible itself is the source of its own demise thanks to its huge errors.

It does not matter if it is God or the Bible...both are the same. This is your faulty logic I have been trying to point out. Unlike other religions, in Christianity, you cannot escape with trying to separate the Bible and God. Both are the same as the Bible is "God's Word" and the Bible is an insight into God.

There is a reason that book is known as the "Holy Bible."

Rather than argue that, you keep asking for evidence on God (you enjoy that don't you?). The point of the whole thread is the validity of a mystical man who lived some 2000 years ago and some error-filled texts.

See, your whole useless arguments and your questions are all begging me for evidence! You keep basing your argument on the fact that I have this "evidence" and that I am obliged to provide it. My "evidence" is to have an open mind and look at other theories to our existence that explain things way better.

There are other theories that give a much more broader and logical view than the one that claims everything was spoken into existence.

warranto wrote on Fri, 21 March 2008 20:05 Show me where I have come to a "rigid" conclusion by saying there is no proof to support or deny God's existence.

You simply came to a conclusion about "God" that's all. You never said anything about proof.

warranto wrote on Tue, 11 March 2008 11:19 However, with that being said, Religion and God have, in essence, absolutely nothing to do with each other. To prove religion wrong in no way affects the idea of there being a God, only that one way of understanding him was incorrect.

If you are going to attempt to prove that God doesn't exist, you won't do it by proving any sort of Religion to be wrong.

Looks pretty rigid to me. You seem to imply that even if religious practices/religious texts were proven false, there would always be "God."

That is the whole point of the argument you enjoy missing out. As I mentioned above, the validity of "God", the god with the capital G, is DIRECTLY tied to the error-filled texts known as the Bible. If it weren't for the Bible, "God" would not be so famous. Some other higher being to explain everything would be.

warranto wrote on Fri, 21 March 2008 20:05 You pulling these arguments out of thin air is what doesn't make any sense at all. NOWHERE have I stated ANYTHING you have been suggesting.

This "You're wrong because I'm making up faulty arguments for you" thing you seem to thoroughly enjoy doesn't quite work if you want to make any sort of valid argument, or even just to be taken seriously.

It is you who likes to drag the conversation to COMPLETELY useless areas of discussion.

What you have done so far is what typical Christians who defend their faith do: spin it. Let's cut to the crap shall we?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Goztow on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 10:52:20 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I wanted to wish everyone a happy Easter .

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by jnz on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 11:21:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I'm going to post some questions, just to see what answer i get. Nothing will be proved or disproved.

1) Jesus was sent down to earth to see how humans behaved, to make God be more lenient on who comes to heaven. Before this time, God would of sent everyone down to hell for petty crimes. Jesus was made in God's image, this cannot be a mental image since Jesus was supposedly a "wonderful" man. So I assume it was in physical image. If this is true, how can God exist outside of time and space? Time and space are both needed for matter to exist.

2) God has supposedly created all of us, if we don't believe in him we're going to be tortured for the rest of our lives. So why does he make it so difficult for us to believe?

3) Every living creature has been crafted by God, so how is it that 99% of them are now extinct?

- 4) There have been many missing links to the evolution chain. Some have been found, how can you explain a monkey that walks on 2 legs?
 - 5) How can a loving God specifically create a human being with a disease that tortured them until they die?
 - 6) How can a loving God send a man to hell for not being able to believe in him? after all, God was the one who made it so hard.
 - 7) How can a loving God drown millions of humans and animals?
 - 8) God created our planet, so why is there harsh conditions? Such as drought? Millions of people are facing a horrible life of famine and disease, how could such an intelligent being do that?
 - 9) God exists outside time, so this means he can see into the future and past as he sees fit. Why didn't he just look into the future to see his son get tortured? Then he wouldn't have to send him down there in the first place.
 - 10) How do you explain the fact that scientists have created new life in a laboratory?
 - 11) God created each and everyone of us, so why are some people gay and lesbian? Doesn't this contradict the bible?
 - 12) With God's infinite wisdom, why are us humans (made in his image) so stupid (in relation)?
 - 13) happy easter.
-

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 13:50:21 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:It does not matter if it is God or the Bible...both are the same. This is your faulty logic I have been trying to point out. Unlike other religions, in Christianity, you cannot escape with trying to seperate the Bible and God. Both are the same as the Bible is "God's Word" and the Bible is an insight into God.

Just because you seem to lack the ability to separate the two doesn't mean it can't be done. I've done it many times.

Quote:See, your whole useless arguments and your questions are all begging me for evidence! You keep basing your argument on the fact that I have this "evidence" and that I am obliged to provide it. My "evidence" is to have a open mind and look at other theories to our existence that explain things way better.

Sorry, this doesn't work. We have having a philosophical argument, meaning you have to be able to justify your claims. "Having an open mind" does not qualify as justifying anything.

Quote:Rather than argue that, you keep asking for evidence on God (you enjoy that don't you?). The point of the whole thread is the validity of a mystical man who lived some 2000 years ago and some error-filled texts.

Perhaps that is how it started, but then the idea of God came into the topic, so made the claim that it can not be proven whether or not God can exist, nor does proving a religion wrong prove that God does not exist. You decided to dispute this, which is where we are now.

Quote:You simply came to a conclusion about "God" that's all. You never said anything about proof Go back and read what I said when this argument started. I said that God can be neither proven nor disproven.

Quote:Looks pretty rigid to me. You seem to imply that even if religious practices/religious texts were proven false, there would always be "God."

Read what I said again. Proving a religion wrong does not affect the existence of God. All this is "rigid" about is saying that you need to find another source to attack if you want to disprove the existence of God.

Quote:That is the whole point of the argument you enjoy missing out. As I mentioned above, the validity of "God", the god with the capital G, is DIRECTLY tied to the error-filled texts known as the Bible. If it weren't for the Bible, "God" would not be so famous. Some other higher being to explain everything would be.

Right from the Dictionary:

God

–noun 1. the one Supreme Being, the creator and ruler of the universe.

"God" talks about a supreme being that, in some way, created the universe. It does not specify ONE type of God. Any religion can lay claim to use of the capital G.

Quote:It is you who likes to drag the conversation to COMPLETELY useless areas of discussion.

What you have done so far is what typical Christians who defend their faith do: spin it. Let's cut to the crap shall we?

Actually, I have done nothing to drag the conversation to useless areas of discussion. You insist on answering made-up arguments rather than the questions asked. I have done nothing to defend my faith. All I have done is say that the existence of God can not be proven or disproven, and that attacking religion and proving it wrong does not affect the idea of a God's existence.

Show me where I once defended the Catholic religion.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by warranto on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 14:23:26 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Since Starbuzz will probably make it a point to respond with some sort of claim regarding me defending Christianity, I am doing no such thing. I am just attempting to answer the questions based on my personal beliefs. They may be wrong, but it in no way is a reflection of my attempt to defend any particular religion. Heck, even an Atheist could attempt to answer these.

1) Jesus was sent down to earth to see how humans behaved, to make God be more lenient on who comes to heaven. Before this time, God would of sent everyone down to hell for petty crimes. Jesus was made in God's image, this cannot be a mental image since Jesus was supposedly a "wonderful" man. So I assume it was in physical image. If this is true, how can God exist outside of time and space? Time and space are both needed for matter to exist.

This is where the idea of the Trinity comes into play. Three separate and distinct beings, but all the same. Jesus was God, but not God. Or, rather it may be understood as "God in human form" (a bit misleading, I know). I use that description only to explain. "God" (as God) may or may not exist outside of time and space, but Jesus did not as he was very much human. If you separate the two, but know they are the same it makes sense.

2) God has supposedly created all of us, if we don't believe in him we're going to be tortured for the rest of our lives. So why does he make it so difficult for us to believe?

The ideas of free will and human cognition. None of us as children believed what our parents said would happen if we did a particular thing, only to have them turn out right. If we can't even trust our own parents, I don't see how the idea of God would be any different.

3) Every living creature has been crafted by God, so how is it that 99% of them are now extinct?

Things die out by various means (Of course, "created by God" is ambiguous itself, so that leaves it open to interpretation as to how the creation happened). Humans are no different and could very well become extinct at some point.

4) There have been many missing links to the evolution chain. Some have been found, how can you explain a monkey that walks on 2 legs?

Evolution is real. It just depends on whether or not it had a "guiding hand" to accelerate the process.

5) How can a loving God specifically create a human being with a disease that tortured them until they die?

Genetics. Purely bad luck. The system which creates life is perfect (it does what it is supposed to do perfectly), but that does not mean that everything is finished correctly. I don't know the genetic process well enough to go into detail, so I'll have to leave this attempt to answer as an incomplete one.

6) How can a loving God send a man to hell for not being able to believe in him? after all, God was the one who made it so hard.

It does make you wonder, though, why so many people DO believe when it is supposedly so hard. (Doesn't answer the question directly, I know. Think about it though, and perhaps you'll see what I am getting on about - and no, it is not attempting to get atheist to change their mind)

7) How can a loving God drown millions of humans and animals?

Can't answer this other than to say that I do not believe that every story in the old testament dictates specific events. Rather they are used to establish points - to what ends, I do not know. (Kind of like Aesop's fables, though in a religious context)

8) God created our planet, so why is there harsh conditions? Such as drought? Millions of people are facing a horrible life of famine and disease, how could such an intelligent being do that?

Again, simple chance. We live in a "perfect" world speaking in ecological terms. It has everything we could need to survive, but the weather patterns that bring us the good also bring us the bad. It would be physically (as in in the realm of physics) to have 100% good weather all of the time.

9) God exists outside time, so this means he can see into the future and past as he sees fit. Why didn't he just look into the future to see his son get tortured? Then he wouldn't have to send him down there in the first place.

This is just a personal viewpoint here (as are most of these answers, but this one in particular). God can see ALL possible futures, however the "human condition" (ambiguous term, I know) prevents the one future from being known (ie. free will). Only when a choice is made does it negate the other possible futures.

Even then, it may simply have been that it "had to happen" for us to get our acts together. A sort of self-sacrifice. Heh, another oddity here is that when we hear about self-sacrifice on the news or in movies, we cheer the hero who was willing to sacrifice himself to save humanity.

10) How do you explain the fact that scientists have created new life in a laboratory?

Don't really have to. Again, claiming that God created "all of us" does not necessarily deem that it was a direct 1-1 ratio of creation. Simply by creating the universe and allowing evolution to happen he created us. Whether life happens in the womb or in a test tube, it is still life happening.

11) God created each and everyone of us, so why are some people gay and lesbian? Doesn't this contradict the bible?

Psychological or Genetic issues (personal belief) is what may cause something like this to happen. That, in and of itself does not contradict the bible. Only the aspect of having sex with someone who is not of the opposite sex contradicts the bible.

12) With God's infinite wisdom, why are us humans (made in his image) so stupid (in relation)?

Again, image is far too ambiguous to answer this to any satisfying standard. Image has nothing to do with the simple fact of our lack of intellectual capacity. A brain can only handle so much information in proportion to its size.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by jnz on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 14:56:06 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have another, maybe a bit too far in depth.

Einstein's theory of relativity states that time relative to us, is different to everyone else. If we travel at the speed of light, we are not affected at all. If i traveled at the speed of light around the earth 1 million times, which would take a few minutes. When we get out of our space ship, we would see ourselves just leaving. This is because time around us has completely stopped. Note that everyone else would feel unaffected.

It is possible to also travel back in time. This would require us to travel faster than the speed of light, which is impossible. Einstein's theory of relativity provides an answer. If you imagine space as a bowl of water and your space ship as a grain of sand in the water. If you stir the water the grain of sand will move round with the water. Now the space ship can speed up to the speed of light, and because it's also moving with space. It's not going faster than the speed of light, but to anyone watching, you would disappear as you go back in time.

This is all true, by the way.

If you went back in time, 2008 years. What would you expect to see? A miracle maker at work?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 15:15:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have no idea. There would be one of 3 things, though (I forget which philosopher came up with this). Interestingly enough, there is more and more evidence in support of the existence of a man named "Jesus" as the bible describes (edit: The description of the man, not necessarily the miracles attributed to him). I can't find it, but one or two of TIME magazine's articles mentioned it.

Anyway:

1) A man who thought he was God, but is not. (A crazy man)

2) A man who claimed he was God knowing he wasn't. (A con man)

3) A man who was as he claimed to be.

Either one is an equally valid claim. If he were a con man, he could easily have been a visitor from somewhere or sometime else, using technology to make these miracles happen (Think the Ori from Stargate:SG1).

Quite simply this is the purest form of belief. We do not know what actually happened, but believe it anyway.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by jnz on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 15:24:09 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

If you were there to see Jesus on the cross, how would you feel?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Sat, 22 Mar 2008 20:10:11 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Good question. Saddened, I would guess. It was a cruel form of torture.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Sun, 23 Mar 2008 23:18:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

warranto how can you place so much faith in a magic man that existed 2 thousand years ago in the age of ignorance.

sure god can possibly exist, but how do you know he exists as you see him?

having faith in just anything is silly to me

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by BlueThen on Sun, 23 Mar 2008 23:37:30 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Sun, 23 March 2008 18:18warranto how can you place so much faith in a magic man that existed 2 thousand years ago in the age of ignorance.

sure god can possibly exist, but how do you know he exists as you see him?

having faith in just anything is silly to me
So, he MUST be fake since his story is old?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Sun, 23 Mar 2008 23:40:04 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Originally Blue wrote on Mon, 24 March 2008 00:37Rocko wrote on Sun, 23 March 2008 18:18warranto how can you place so much faith in a magic man that existed 2 thousand years ago in the age of ignorance.

sure god can possibly exist, but how do you know he exists as you see him?

having faith in just anything is silly to me
So, he MUST be fake since his story is old?
the mayans or aztecs, i forget which, believed that a man came to them who was god many years ago.

why is that man not your god?

People have been fooled in to believing in crazy religions and illogical beliefs for a long time, and even more back then.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by BlueThen on Sun, 23 Mar 2008 23:45:17 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Sun, 23 March 2008 18:40Originally Blue wrote on Mon, 24 March 2008 00:37Rocko wrote on Sun, 23 March 2008 18:18warranto how can you place so much faith in a magic man that existed 2 thousand years ago in the age of ignorance.

sure god can possibly exist, but how do you know he exists as you see him?

having faith in just anything is silly to me
So, he MUST be fake since his story is old?
the mayans or aztecs, i forget which, believed that a man came to them who was god many years ago.

why is that man not your god?

People have been fooled in to believing in crazy religions and illogical beliefs for a long time, and even more back then.

Well, you can't expect us to believe EVERYTHING from back then. Christianity is just the most passed on and believable to me.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by warranto on Mon, 24 Mar 2008 18:16:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Rocko wrote on Sun, 23 March 2008 16:18warranto how can you place so much faith in a magic man that existed 2 thousand years ago in the age of ignorance.

sure god can possibly exist, but how do you know he exists as you see him?

having faith in just anything is silly to me

I don't "know" him in that way. That is the whole point to faith. You do not know, but you believe and quite often that belief is as unfounded as the reasoning behind believing someone you call a friend or believing a stranger.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Mon, 24 Mar 2008 21:26:41 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I think that if you live a good life you will go to heaven and see God, even if you don't believe in him. That's my opinion anyhow...

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Ma1kel on Fri, 28 Mar 2008 21:22:29 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

ITT: Idiots discussing and taking 2000+ year old mythology seriously.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Sn1per74* on Sat, 29 Mar 2008 04:54:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ma1kel wrote on Fri, 28 March 2008 16:22ITT: Idiots discussing and taking 2000+ year old mythology seriously.
If it's what we believe in... don't make fun of us.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by BlueThen on Sat, 29 Mar 2008 05:35:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Ma1kel wrote on Fri, 28 March 2008 16:22ITT: Idiots discussing and taking 2000+ year old mythology seriously.

Why do people keep using the "2000 years old" excuse to call it fake? It's not even a logical argument!

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by jnz on Sat, 29 Mar 2008 10:46:07 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

What do you think about Mithra?

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by warranto on Sat, 29 Mar 2008 20:05:28 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I don't know too much about Mitra, other than he/she was viewed to be a divine being.

All I would think is that it is another interpretation of what humanity thinks God is. Just like Christianity.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by jnz on Sat, 29 Mar 2008 20:29:03 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

<http://www.carm.org/evidence/mithra.htm>

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus

Posted by warranto on Sun, 30 Mar 2008 01:37:10 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

It offers some good comparisons, but as far as providing a good argument, it is lacking in quite a number of areas. (actually, I just read it again and found myself laughing at some of the proofs provided)

That aside, the idea that more than one religion have similar things in common (even at a fundamental level) doesn't necessitate anything one way or the other. As I mentioned before, religion is simply an attempt to understand something greater than ourselves. One important point (regardless of the poor way it was portrayed) that the article makes is that agrarian societies do rely on similar concepts to understand the world. What better way to attempt to understand a religion than by explaining it in terms people can actually understand? (e.g. the idea of the God of the gaps) This doesn't mean it is wrong, but similar societies describing things in ways similar to things that might actually occur is not unheard of.

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by Rocko on Sun, 30 Mar 2008 02:15:07 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

k@ needing to make up a religion to explain things

Subject: Re: question to christians about jesus
Posted by jnz on Sun, 30 Mar 2008 03:41:40 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The site itself isn't what i'm trying to show you;

I found this video interesting too: http://youtube.com/watch?v=_MLuoTGp-ZE http://youtube.com/watch?v=j4_O-Zd1bec&feature=related <-- don't mind the name -.-
