Is there an update that somebody can make that allows you to enter the "Multiplayer LAN" section even if you don't have internet? Because I do have dial up, but I don't always want to be on dial up in order to play a lan game with my self.

Download Hamatchi or assign a fake IP address to your network card.

You can play the Multiplayer maps in multiplayer practice.
But you have to edit the config file, or add an config file. Not sure because I did it ages ago. Also for the record this does not add bot's on the maps, unless you have more modifications.

That proves you have enough intelligence to check a link before you click it, this tends to correlate with an ability to use PCs. Try the other suggestion... Hamachi?. (As you seem to like Just Fucking Google it "scams", I'll add one here)

Actually, I bothered to do research for you, because I'm nice. It won't work for ME, not a lot does, I suggest you buy XP. (no link, you've had enough of those for one day)

You should really think about your language here dude, yes that's a warning.

Here is a link to an official page of Microsoft, which explains you how it works (found after 2 secs in google):

You said that it doesn't work for ME is all google told you.
It's not my problem that you don't know how to write clear sentences.

Anyway, second warning for continuous flaming and I lock this now to avoid further flame posts.
